The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed at the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beekley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Rules

2 Under-clothing, bedding, wearing apparel, mattresses, carpets, &c, which are contaminated or suspected, and other articles to be disinfected, should be exposed for fifteen minutes to saturated steam—under pressure, if possible—at a temperature of not less than 100°C (212°F), care being taken that the steam shall reach all parts of each article to be disinfected

3 Disinfecting solutions—

(a) Solution of corrosive sublimate, of 1 part in 1,000 with the addition of 10 parts of chloride of soda

The solution should be coloured with aniline dye or indigo. It should not be placed in metal vessels.

(b) A 5 per cent solution of pure crystallized carbolic acid, or 5 per cent of crude commercial carbolic acid free from tar oils, in a warm solution of soft soap

4 Special instructions to be observed in the employment of disinfecting solutions.

The linen, clothing, and articles soiled by the excreta of patients, should be soaked in the solution of corrosive sublimate. The solution of pure carbolic acid, and the solution of soap and carbolic acid, are equally suited to the purpose. The articles should remain in the solution for at least six hours

Articles which cannot be subjected to the temperature of the stove (100° centigrade) without injury, such as leather goods, wooden articles stuck together with glue, felt, velvet, silk, &c, should be washed with the solution of corrosive sublimate; coins can be disinfected with the solution of soap and carbolic acid.

Persons engaged in nursing the sick should wash their hands and faces with the solution of corrosive sublimate, or with one of the carbolic solutions.

The carbolic solutions will be useful, more particularly for disinfecting articles, such as metals, instruments, &c, which can neither be subjected to a temperature of 100° centigrade, nor placed in contact with corrosive sublimate. They may also be used at ports not provided with a disinfecting stove of the prescribed pattern

Slaked lime is particularly recommended for disinfecting excreta. Expecterated matter should be burnt

(1) To get very strong slaked lime, take lime of good quality, slake it, by moistening it gradually, with half its weight of water. When the operation is completed, put the powder in a carefully-corked receptacle, and place it in a dry spot. As each kilogramme of lime absorbs 500 grammes of water in order to become slack, it requires a volume of two litres 200, and it is sufficient to dilute it with double its volume of water, say, 4 kilogrammes, 400 grammes, to obtain a white wash which will be about 20 per cent strength of lime

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

By DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products

The first five volumes and Vol VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the index, for which a separate charge will be made) packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume, for England, Rs 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral each product being treated after a uniform plan, the descriptions of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names, habitat or source, history, properties and uses (both chemical and industrial), trade statistics, markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo pages, Vol II embraces the letter C in 689 pages, Vol III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G; Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L, and Vol V contains the latter half of L to end of O, Vol VI (which consists of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol VI), but a tenth volume has been issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index is practically a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and, as such, is a work of reference, which, it is hoped, will prove of considerable value.

Instructions for crossing and entering

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No 15 of 1898) that vessels crossing Wide Bay Bar must now keep the square beacons open twice their own width to the Northward, and continue with them in that position until Inskip Point lead is crossed and the triangular beacons at that point are open twice their own width to the Westward, then gradually bring them into line as the red buoy is approached. By following these directions a depth of 18 feet at low-water springs will be obtained.

The western corner of the outer bank is now working to the Northward, and great care should be exercised whilst entering, especially during bad weather, when the break on the spit can be plainly seen.

The square beacons will be shifted as soon as practicable.

RESOLUTION ON THE WORKING OF THE CALCUTTA SHIPPING OFFICE AND OF THE SHIPPING OFFICES AT OUTPORTS FOR 1897-98

No. 1673 Marine

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL, MARINE DEPARTMENT

Dated Calcutta, the 19th August 1898

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No 578B, dated 27th July 1898, from the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, submitting the Report on the working of the Calcutta Shipping Office and of the Shipping Offices at outports for 1897-98

The chief duties of a Shipping Master are to afford facilities for the engagement and discharge of seamen and also for the registration of vessels, and this brings him into constant correspondence with the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen, London, and also with the Board of Trade. He furnishes the former with monthly transactions under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and the latter with accounts relating to the estates of deceased seamen and the relief of distressed British seamen.

2. The number of seamen of all nationalities shipped and discharged through the Calcutta Shipping Office was 26,087 and 23,564, respectively, against corresponding figures of 23,565 and 21,736 during the previous year —

	1897-98		1896-97
	Shipped	Discharged	Shipped	Discharged
British ..	1,454	1,801	1,500	1,242
Europeans—Continental	480	419	420	380
Americans, West Indians and Africans	191	121	172	104
Australians	11	12	7	9
Asiatics other than Indians	270	227	194	358
Indians proper	23,283	21,074	20,761	19,167
Eurasians and Goanese	418	410	511	486
South Sea Islanders	...	...	4	...
Total	26,087	23,564	23,565	21,736

3. The increase is due to the more general employment of Indian seamen, and the difference between the total number shipped and discharged to an increase in the number of native crews engaged at Calcutta for service in vessels trading from the United Kingdom and Germany. The men engaged for service in Germany were chiefly engine-room crews forwarded to Hamburg and shipped through the office in accordance with the Merchant Shipping Act, the usual bond of indemnity for lascars sailing under a foreign flag being filed in the office

4. The number of British seamen shipped again shows a decrease as compared with the previous year, while the number discharged shows an increase. On this point the Shipping Master explains that Englishmen, as a rule, endeavour to better their position, and many seamen, on their arrival in India, obtain their discharge, and find employment on the railways and in the hotels established all over the country.

5. The number of seamen of all nationalities shipped in and discharged from foreign vessels through their Consulates and not included in the figures given above are —

Shipped	85
Discharged	73

6. There were 86 deserters against 61 in the previous year. It is difficult to assign any cause for this increase, but it is stated that a number of seamen who had drawn their wages and supplies from the Masters of the ships they belonged to deserted in order to join American and German vessels. It is also stated that many of the deserters were British, who were dissatisfied with their ships and wanted their discharge, but, failing to obtain it, left their vessels without permission, and, as they have not since been heard of, it is supposed that they proceeded inland for employment.

7. The receipts of the Calcutta Shipping Office amounted to Rs 47,313 as compared with Rs. 41,967 during the previous year. The largest increase is under shipping and discharging fees, which is due to increased operations in shipping and discharging seamen, both Europeans and Natives, especially the latter. The expenditure amounted to Rs 24,014, or an increase of Rs 245 on the figures for 1896-97, due entirely to cost of forms required for the increased operations of the office.

8. The following table shows the receipts of the funds held in trust by the Calcutta Shipping Office on account of both European and Native seamen for the past two years —

	1897-98	1896-97
	Rs.	Rs.
Ticket-money ...	510	420
Deposit-money of British seamen	20,415	22,717
Ditto of Native seamen ..	4,057	2,256
Estates of deceased Native seamen	6,965	2,630

The increase of Rs. 6,698 under "Deposit-money of British Seamen" is due to larger amounts having been received from seamen who had been left behind from their ships in hospital and jail, and who had, in accordance with the usual practice, deposited a portion of their wages in the office as a provision against their falling into distress. The total sum represents the voluntary deposits of 197 seamen and Rs 1,542 deposited by Masters of ships as the wages of 11 seamen who were too ill to understand their accounts.

9 The increase under "Deposits of Native Seamen" is due to an increase in the number of native seamen left behind in hospital and jail, and of others who, when the crews of the vessel they belonged to were paid off, failed to appear to receive their money.

10 The increase under "Estates of deceased Native Seamen" represents the wages of the crews of the vessels City of Agra and Falls of Brachin lost at sea, which were forwarded to the Shipping Master of Calcutta for payment to the relatives. The work of finding out the legal representatives is still going on, and the greater part of the money will doubtless be paid away in the course of the year.

11 The value of seamen's money-orders increased from Rs. 11,260 in 1896-97 to Rs. 11,934 during the year under review. The increase is due to the favourable rates of exchange and to one or two large orders issued during the year.

12 The number of distressed seamen sent home during the year was 47, or one less than in the previous year. The causes of distress were sickness 25, injuries 4, shipwreck 7 and paucity of employment 11.

13 In respect of the condition of European seamen, the Shipping Master reports that, on the whole, a better class of men seems to be manning the merchant ships. The foreign element in the crews of British ships is about the same as last year. The Society of the Ship Masters' Federation appears to be inducing good men to join the mercantile navy, and it has been noticed that sick seamen left behind, especially foreigners, are particularly solicitous of the safety of their Federation tickets. It is said that a British seaman who cannot read and write is now rarely to be found. The condition of native seamen appears to have been unchanged, but the demand for them continues to increase.

14 Statements taken on oath of five of the crew of the ship Severnbank complaining of the quantity, quality and cooking of the meat issued to them while in port were sent by the Chief Presidency Magistrate to the Shipping Office for enquiry. As the Master of the vessel was sick in hospital at the time, he was not called upon to answer the charge, but the Health Officer of the vessel made an inspection of the ship's stores, and reported that the provisions on board were all of good quality and sufficient in quantity. No complaints were made to him, as the complainants withdrew their charge on the ground that immediately on their complaining, good and well cooked food was served out to them.

15 Two cases of ill treatment of seamen were reported, but in both cases the complaints were found to be groundless. In one case the stevedores of the S S Gorseda complained against the Master for assault and destruction of their effects, and on enquiry the complaint proved to be a vexatious one in consequence of the Master having declined to give the men a character for ability. In the second case the native cook of the S S Barrister complained that on the voyage he had been confined in irons for a day and a-half, and that an unauthorized deduction had been made from his wages when paying him off. On enquiry it was ascertained that the man had become riotous at sea, and had assaulted and otherwise maltreated several of his fellow-servants, and had to be put in irons for violent conduct, but he had been released as soon as it was considered safe to do so. The so-called unauthorized deduction from his wages was found to be a lawful fine, which was deposited in the Shipping Office.

16 At the Port of Chittagong, the number of seamen shipped and discharged was 33 and 95, against 26 and 32 in the previous year. The increase of 63 in the number discharged is attributed chiefly to permission given to Masters of vessels, who had dissatisfied men on board anxious to change their vessels, to discharge the men, provided they had sufficient wages due to them to enable them to deposit at least two months' board wages with the Shipping Master, Calcutta, and on the understanding that the Masters would fill the vacancies thus caused by obtaining men from Calcutta.

17 There were 3 deserters against 4 during the previous year. No clue to their whereabouts was found, though a search was made for them by the police.

18 The receipts of the office amounted to Rs 117, against Rs 47 in 1896-97. The increase is almost entirely under discharging fees, which is due to two vessels having paid off the whole of their native crew on termination of agreement. There were no disbursements.

19. The receipts on account of Trust Funds amounted to Rs 12,797, the whole of which was disbursed. These receipts consisted of deposits received on account of the balance of wages of 21 British and 63 native seamen discharged by mutual consent, and of 6 British seamen discharged under Medical Certificate, of 2 left in jail and of 3 Native seamen deceased.

20 The Shipping Master visited 75 vessels in port for enquiry and inspection, and no complaints regarding bad or insufficient food were made by the crews.

21. At the port of False Point no seamen were shipped or discharged during the year.

22 The Shipping Master paid seven visits to vessels in port, and found that the provisions, water and medicines, as well as the fore-castle accommodation, were good and ample. No complaints were made by the crews of any of the vessels visited.

23 At the ports of Balasore and Puri there were no transactions under the Merchant Shipping Act. Enquiries as to the health of the crew and the provisions and water supplied to them were made with satisfactory results by the Collector of Balasore exercising the powers of a Shipping Master.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PORT OFFICER, CALCUTTA, FOR 1897-98.

No. 1769 Marine.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL, MARINE DEPARTMENT

Dated Calcutta, the 5th September 1898.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No 4017, dated 23rd July 1898, from the Port Officer, Calcutta, submitting the Annual Report for 1897-98

The Department was presided over by Commander B. P. Creagh, R.I.M., throughout the year. The tenure of the appointment is limited to five years. Commander Creagh was appointed on 1st April 1893, and on the 1st April 1898, on the termination of his appointment, he handed over charge of the Department to his successor, Commander P. J. Falle, R.I.M.

2. The strength of the Pilot Service at the close of the year stood at 52, showing an increase of one. The number of Leadsman Apprentices has, however, fallen from 13 to 9, owing to one having resigned and the recruitment from local candidates having failed for 2 years. Owing to this large reduction among the staff of Apprentices, steps were taken immediately, after the close of the year, to obtain from England the services of 5 additional Leadsman Apprentices, and they are expected in India by the beginning of next cold season.

3. The more frequent employment of Pilots, resulting from the reduction of the service, has continued this year, as will be seen from the following figures —

		Average number at work throughout the year		Average number of vessels piloted each month
		1897-98	1896-97	1897-98	1896-97
Branch Pilots	...	11 11	12 22	7 41	5 9
Senior Master Pilots		9 63	10 14	6 06	4 93
Junior ditto	..	8 16	7 91	4 44	2 89
Mate Pilots	..	7 49	5 37	3 69	4 17

It is only in the last grade of officers that the figures show a falling off, and this is entirely due to an increase in the number of Mate Pilots on the running list. The total number of vessels piloted by them shows a small increase.

4. It is satisfactory to find that the three pilot vessels are still in command of Licensed Pilots, the Commanders being Messrs Cooper, Huntly and Smyth.

5. The following table shows the number of arrivals and departures of vessels during the past three years —

		Year.	Arrivals	Departures	Average tonnage
1		2	3	4	5
Steamers	...	1895-96	909	904	2,958
		1896-97	939	924	3,002
		1897-98	1,102	1,097	2,995
Sailing ships	..	1895-96	118	129	1,691
		1896-97	118	114	1,580
		1897-98	133	126	1,806

Although there has been a slight increase in the number of sailing vessels visiting the port, it is apparent from the figures shown above that steamers are steadily taking up the increase in the traffic.

6 The following statement shows the number of vessels drawing 21 feet and upwards, pilotted inwards and outwards, during the last two years —

		21-22.		22-23		23-24.		24-25		25-26		26-27		Total
		Inwards.	Outwards.	Inwards.	Outwards.	Inwards.	Outwards.	Inwards.	Outwards.	Inwards.	Outwards.	Inwards.	Outwards.	Inwards.	Outwards.
1		2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
Steamers	{ 1896-97 1897-98	51 59	96 96	55 55	100 118	54 79	181 187	51 48	118 140	6 7	24 50	1 1	10 3	215 249	477 613
Sailing vessels	{ 1896-97 1897-98	20 23	31 34	13 23	27 33	6 8	4 5	1 1						40 54	48 68

Compared with the previous year, there has been an increase in the number of steamers and sailing ships of the draughts recorded above, both inwards and outwards.

7 Three inward and three outward bound vessels were neaped during the year from two to six days each, but it is satisfactory to observe that this was far less than 45, the number detained during the previous year. This is due to the considerable improvement which has taken place in the several channels of the river Hooghly.

8 There were 33 groundings and 8 collisions during the year, showing an increase of 1 grounding as compared with the previous year. Of the former, 15 were either accidental or slight and 3 due to an alteration of the channel. Of the remaining 15, in 6 cases the Pilots were not to blame, but only in 1 case was damage caused to the vessel. In the case of the collisions, 1 vessel was totally lost and in 5 cases damage was caused. The percentage of casualties to vessels was 1.66 against 1.90 and 1.55 in the two previous years.

9 Fifty preliminary enquiries were held by the Port Officer during the year. Three of these were referred to Departmental Courts of Enquiry, two of which were further referred to a Marine Court under Act V of 1883. In one case the tug-master was found to blame, and his license as a Steam-tug Pilot was suspended for one year, and the Pilot warned that greater care should be taken to attract the attention of the tug and to observe the rules of the road. In the second case, which was one of collision between two vessels, the accident was found to be due to an error of judgment on the part of both Pilots, who were warned to be more careful. Three other Marine Courts were held, one of which was to ascertain the cause of the loss of the barque Amanath Rohoman, which sank off the Malabar Coast after colliding with the S S Nawab. As the casualty occurred in Madras waters, the proceedings and report of the Court were forwarded to the Government of Madras for necessary action.

10. A special Court of Enquiry under the Inland Steam Vessels Act was held at Chandpur to enquire into the loss of the Rivers Steam Navigation Company's steamer Lohit in the Megna river while carrying mails and passengers from Chandpur to Goalundo. One life was lost. The Court were of opinion that the vessel sank in consequence of a fierce sudden gust of wind, and that the scow was not to blame for the accident.

11 In paragraph 13 of the Resolution on the report of the previous year, it was stated that proposals had been submitted to the Imperial Government to enforce compulsory signalling by whistles on inland steamers. It was found that Government were powerless in the matter, as the Act did not authorise the framing of rules on the subject. Steps are now being taken to amend the Act, giving Government the power to frame rules for signalling.

12. The S S Guide made 20 trips during the year. These trips are made chiefly in towing pilot brigs to and from their stations, and in supplying them with stores, water and provisions. On five occasions during the year she went to Chittagong.

13 The receipts and expenditure on account of pilotage for the last three years are shown below —

Year.		Receipts. Rs	Expenditure. Rs
1895-96	..	8,85,994	7,50,353
1896-97	..	8,55,724	7,44,392
1897-98	...	10,45,081	8,51,887

14. The number of certificates of each class granted to masters, mates, engineers and engine-drivers after examination in Calcutta is shown in the table below —

Nature of certificate	Candidates	Total number examined	RESULT			Provisional certificate granted	Renewal of certificate	REMARKS
			Passed	Failed	Not eligible
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

15. The duties of the First Engineer and Shipwright Surveyor were conducted by Mr. G Robertson throughout the year, with the exception of three months when he was on privilege leave. During this period Mr. E G Vonn, the 2nd Surveyor, acted for him and was assisted by Mr. T W Fish, Lloyds Surveyor

16 The total receipts from fees collected for surveys amounted to Rs. 33,736 and the expenditure, including the travelling allowances of Surveyors to out stations, to Rs. 30,377. In all, 449 vessels were surveyed.

17 The Department was efficiently managed during the year by Commander Creagh. As already mentioned, this officer vacated his appointment on the 1st April 1898, after a tenure of five years. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to express his cordial appreciation of the work done by Commander Creagh throughout this period.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A D McARTHUR, Col., R.E.,
Secretary to the Govt of Bengal.

WORKING OF THE INDIAN FACTORIES ACT IN BENGAL DURING THE YEAR 1897

No. 2833—The 5th September 1898.—The following paper is published for general information

M FINUCANE,
Secy to the Govt. of Bengal.

No 2574Mis., dated Calcutta, the 13th August 1898

From—M. FINUCANE, Esq., C S I, Secy to the Govt of Bengal, General Dept,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department

I AM directed to submit the Report on the working of the Indian Factories Act, XV of 1881, as amended by Act XI of 1891, in Bengal during the year 1897. The prescribed statements, Forms I and II, are appended.

2. Number of factories and system of work.—There were 167 factories shown as open at the close of the previous year. Ten factories were brought under the Act during the year under report, viz, five in the district of the 24-Parganas, three in Howrah, one in Dacca, and one in Pabna. On the other hand, eight factories were removed from the list during the year, viz, three in the 24-Parganas, three in Dacca, one in Howrah, and one in Pabna, while two factories, viz, one in the 24-Parganas and one in Jessore, remained closed during the year. Thus at the end of the year 167 factories were actually working. In 80 factories work was carried on by shifts or sets, in 65 by midday stoppages, in 3 by a combination of shifts and midday stoppages, and in 19 by other means. The number of factories exempted from the rule requiring a Sunday or weekly holiday was 28, against 34 in the previous year.

Almost all the jute mills are now lighted with electric-light, and the Special Inspector reports that with two or three exceptions, mills that had previously opposed its introduction have since been compelled to give way by the necessity of competing with their neighbours, and retaining their hands who otherwise would be attracted by the slightly higher wages they could earn by longer work elsewhere. In the Report for the year 1896 the opinion of Mr. Walsh was quoted to the effect that working for the longer hours made possible by the use of artificial light, was in reality a doubtful advantage, in view of the discontent caused among the operatives, the deterioration in the work done, and the higher wages to be paid for overtime. The facts now reported would appear to conflict with the view then expressed.

On the subject of the granting of a half-holiday in jute mills on Saturday, Mr. Walsh has made the following remarks—

"The majority of mills still continue to work till late on Saturday night, although 90 per cent would be glad if the early closing on Saturday were made compulsory. Some endeavour is being made by the Jute Association to induce all mills to close, but these combinations invariably break down in a few weeks on the slightest pretence, and only legislation will ensure this half-holiday. The opinions of managers on the question are at present, however, somewhat conflicting, and it is doubtful whether Government would feel justified in resorting to legislation, unless it was the unanimous opinion of the Chamber of Commerce, both in Calcutta and Bombay, that the half day holiday on Saturday was absolutely necessary for the benefit of the operatives. Some managers are in favour of closing at 2 P.M., others consider that 12 A.M. should be the time fixed, as this would allow ample time in the afternoon for repair, cleaning, &c, and would be economical as regards wages. Others again advocate closing entirely on Saturday; a few believe that the mills should be allowed to work as they choose on Saturday, as the operatives take whatever leave they require. Amongst these may be included the opinion of those not using the electric-light. They naturally work less hours a week than other mills, and resent any further reduction of working hours by introducing a half-holiday on Saturday. The Hastings Mills which have a night shift, are willing to close at 2 P.M., conditionally that they commence again at 6 P.M., working till midnight. Under these circumstances it does not appear likely that the Chamber will come to a unanimous opinion on the subject. Personally, I am entirely in favour of closing early on Saturday, and believe it would be to the interest of trade, and beneficial to the managers, European assistants, and operatives."

The European Assistants of jute mills in Calcutta and the suburbs have repeatedly memorialised Government praying that early closing of these mills on Saturdays be made compulsory, so that the machinery may be cleaned on that day, and they may themselves be enabled to enjoy complete rest on Sunday, instead of being obliged to supervise the cleaning of the machinery on that day. As intimated in last year's Report, the matter was brought to the notice of the Chamber of Commerce and the Jute Association. The latter body reported that while approving of the principle of closing on Saturday afternoons, they were unable, after protracted discussion, to arrive at any practicable arrangement for carrying out the principle by voluntary agreement. The Chamber of Commerce has also recorded a resolution in favour of the closing of mills at 2 p.m. on Saturdays, but the Jute Association is obviously the body which is most directly interested.

The Lieutenant-Governor regrets that a matter which it was hoped would have been arranged by amicable agreement among the parties interested is no nearer adjustment in that fashion. The desirability of having recourse to legislation in this matter is still under consideration, but although his sympathies must be warmly in favour of a measure so reasonable and salutary, the Lieutenant-Governor cannot conceal that legislation is beset with difficulties, for any alteration in the law that may be undertaken with a view to enforce early closing on Saturdays could not be confined to the jute mills of Calcutta, but would extend to cotton and other mills and to all parts of India, and re-open questions which were carefully considered and settled when the Acts of 1881 and 1891 were passed.

3. Inspections—Seven factories were inspected once, 29 factories twice, 29 factories thrice, and 105 factories more than three times during the year. There were no factories which were not inspected at all, as compared with five such in the previous year. Of the seven factories inspected only once, three in Howrah and two in the Presidency Division were brought under the operation of the Act towards the close of the year only. As regards the remaining two,—the Small Arms Factory at Dum Dum and Messrs David and Co's Jute Hand Press at Pabna,—no explanation has been furnished.

It is reported that the requirements of the Act and the rules framed thereunder were generally complied with, and that suggestions made by the inspecting officers for the improvement of sanitary arrangements, machinery and other matters were, for the most part, promptly attended to by the managers without objection. The Special Inspector mentions one mill in which it was suspected that Sunday work was illegally allowed, although his inspections failed to detect it, the manager, however, admitted that on one or two occasions he had worked one department for a few hours only, but apparently no action beyond a warning was considered necessary.

4. Sanitary arrangements and ventilation—As in the previous year, the sanitary condition and ventilation of the factories are reported to be generally satisfactory. Mr. Walsh reports that gradual improvement is steadily noticeable year by year as new and improved latrines are erected, pucca drains constructed, and better arrangements made for water-supply. The necessity for plague precautions gave an impetus to white-washing, disinfecting, and sanitation generally. The Special Inspector notices the need for a road connecting Garden Reach and the Lower Hooghly Jute Mill, towards which the Mill concerned and the India General Steam Navigation Company are reported to be willing to subscribe handsomely. The attention of the Municipality will be invited to the matter.

5. Quarters for operatives.—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division has made the following remarks on the subject of the accommodation of the operatives.—

"Out of the factories under the Civil Surgeon of the 24-Parganas, six have quarters for their operatives, of which three are kutchas and three pukka cooly-lines, of the factories in thana Naihati, four are provided with kutchas huts and one pukka. The mills under Dr Comley in Garden Reach have also cooly-lines, except the Garden Reach Cotton Mills. The operatives live in bustees outside the mills. None of the factories under Dr Gibbons provide cooly-lines for the operatives on account of the difficulty in getting lands for the purpose. The Chairman of the Cossipore-Chitpur Municipality has been trying his best to improve the sanitation of the bustees in which factory hands live."

The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division writes as follows —

"Many of the operatives working in the three factories situate within the Raniganj subdivision, live in quarters attached to them, and these are reported to be better than average coolly sheds. Each of these factories have got a supply of medicines, and a medical practitioner attends when necessary, but in cases of cholera and other serious diseases, as well as in cases of accidents occurring at the Raniganj Pottery Works and the Paper Mills, the patients are sent to the Raniganj dispensary for treatment. The operatives of the Gurulia Silk Factory being all residents of the neighbouring villages attend it daily from their homes, and consequently no quarters for them are necessary. The Civil Medical Officer of Serampore remarks —

‘Cholera and small-pox being diseases chiefly introduced and rendered endemic by up-country mill operatives, the question of each mill being bound to supply its operatives with sanitary quarters may well form a subject for legislation. In the absence of legislation on the subject, the operatives run up quarters as and where they please, and are not only their own enemies, but a curse to the neighbourhood.’

‘Of all the bustees attached to the mills within the Serampore sub-division, the one within the Wellington Jute Mill enclosure is specially bad, and action is being taken by the Magistrate of Hooghly under the authority conferred by the plague notification to improve this bustee. The Serampore Municipality also contemplates taking action under section 246 of the Bengal Municipal Act.’

The Special Inspector mentions new and improved quarters erected at several mills, notably in the Gurulia Municipality.

6. Vaccination of operatives.—Almost all managers have now agreed to the suggestion made by Government that no child should be employed unless he can show good protective marks of vaccination, or agrees to submit to vaccination. In the 24-Parganas, out of 1,262 children examined, about 13 per cent. were found to be unprotected.

7. Water-supply.—The water-supply in most factories, though drawn from various sources, is generally satisfactory. Of the 59 factories working in the 24-Parganas, 33 use filtered water drawn from the Calcutta water-works, 19, filtered river water; 4, unfiltered river water; 1, unfiltered tank water, and 2, unfiltered tank or well water. In the Burdwan Division arrangements have been made in almost all the factories for the supply of good drinking-water to the operatives. Most of the factories situate within the Howrah Municipality get their supply from the Howrah water-works, but the Special Inspector observes that the municipal supply appears scarcely equal to the demand, and the cost considerable. He instances one mill which was unable to obtain a stand-pipe, although willing to pay 12 annas per 1,000 gallons. In Cawnpore the mills are supplied with water at the rate of 2 annas per 1,000 gallons.

8. Number of operatives.—The total number of operatives employed in the various factories was 188,828, against 148,551 in 1896. The number of male adults was 131,761, against 116,367, female adults 21,172, against 19,018, boys 12,434, against 11,379, and girls 1,461, against 1,287 in the previous year. The percentages of male and female adults and boys and girls were therefore 79, 13, 7, and 87, respectively, or practically the same proportions as in the previous year.

9. General health of the operatives.—The general health of the operatives employed in the various factories during the year was good. Some cases of cholera occurred in the Raniganj Pottery Works, but were not due to any want of precautions on the part of mill-owners, the situation of the factory in the heart of the bazar rendering it particularly liable to infection.

The Civil Surgeon of the 24-Parganas has made the following observations —

‘During the year under report the general health of the operatives has been fairly good, and, on the whole, much better than it was in the previous year. A bad form of malarial fever broke out among the people working in the mills and factories along the banks of the Hooghly in August and September. The outbreak was especially severe in Garden Reach, and I visited that locality and made enquiries regarding the disease. The fever, I found, was a bad type of malarial fever, and in no way resembled plague or enteric. There were a great many deaths from it, and the health of the European employes also suffered.’

In the factories under Dr. Leahy in the 24-Parganas there were 59 cases of cholera and 20 deaths, though all the cases were sporadic; there was a severe outbreak of small-pox in an epidemic form in the Shammagar Jute Mills.

10. Wages and general condition of the operatives.—There was no material change during the year under review in the rates of wages paid to different classes of operatives, which are generally higher than those prevailing for agricultural labour in the neighbourhood, but the competition of the factories for labour tends to raise the wages of ordinary agricultural and domestic labour in the surrounding areas

The Commissioner of Rajshahi notices that the general condition of the operatives in the Kajla Silk Filature is reported to be poor, though the rates of wages paid, seem fair. The matter is being enquired into

11. Employment of women and children.—In only a few instances did any disregard of the rules relating to the employment of children come to light during the year. In the Victoria Jute Mill in the Serampore sub division, a boy was found under age, and was promptly turned out. The circumstances of the Sibpur Jute Mill appear to call for special attention. On two occasions in April and October, Dr. Murray detected instances of uncertified children under age at work, and noticed that his appearance in the spinning room of the mill was the signal for a general disappearance of children, while several who seemed to be under age vanished among the machinery and could not be found. The attention of the Manager was drawn to the matter, and he was warned. Mr. Duke, the Magistrate of Howrah, observes that it is difficult to obtain convictions, since the plea of ignorance of the true age is frequently urged with success. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, is unable altogether to accept this explanation, and the case in point seems to have been a flagrant one. The Special Inspector of Factories, while inspecting the Howrah Foundry in September last, found a number of boys under age at work. On enquiry it was found that the register of children was not kept up. The Manager has since reported that strict orders have been issued to his subordinates not to employ boys under 14 years of age, but the Magistrate does not regard the reply as satisfactory, and action will be taken to ensure the non-recurrence of the irregularities detected.

12. Fencing of machinery.—All that is necessary appears to have been done in the matter of the fencing of machinery.

13. Accidents.—The number of accidents that occurred during the year was 651, against 493 and 526 during the two preceding years. Of these, 18 were fatal, as compared with 19 in the previous year. Three hundred and twenty were of a serious nature and 313 were slight, all usually attributed to the carelessness and disobedience of orders on the part of the employes. Many accidents occurred while adjusting the belts of machinery in motion, as to which Mr. Walsh observes that these accidents are as common, if not more so, in England, and there is no satisfactory remedy. Orders to slow down or stop the engines before touching the belts are usually neglected. The following are some of the fatal accidents that occurred during the year under report —

(1) One man was killed at the Sirajganj Jute Mill while working at a sewing machine. The machine belt became mixed up with a handkerchief and a piece of twine round his neck, severing the head from the body

(2) One man was killed at the Empress of India Cotton Mill, by the breaking of the fly-wheel. It was found difficult to arrive at a satisfactory solution regarding the cause of this accident. Either the engine got out of control, and the fly-wheel broke from centrifugal force, bringing down the roof, or, it was conjectured, a beam fell from the roof on the fly wheel, breaking it. On receipt of the report of this accident, the Inspector of Factories visited the mill, and the roof timber appeared perfectly sound

(3) & (4) Two men were killed at the Ganges Jute Mill, and several were injured from the bursting of the fly-wheel. The following report was submitted by the Special Inspector of Factories.—

"The engine was running about 12 o'clock rather fast on the date of accident, and in consequence the yarn was breaking in the spinning department. The assistant left this room to acquaint the Engineer, and during his absence a number of machines, it appears, were thrown out of gear to avoid breakages, thus relieving the engine of its work so suddenly that the speed was greatly accelerated, and although the Engineer shut down steam at the throttle valve, the vacuum was sufficient to keep up the momentum, and the large driving wheel, some 30 feet in diameter, was unable to stand the centrifugal force and flew to pieces."

Since then experiments were made to test the arms of the fly-wheel, as it was observed that in casting them the core had shifted, leaving the metal unequally distributed, to this cause the manager partly attributed the breaking of this wheel. The accident was a most serious one both in the loss of life caused and the damage done, the repairs of which cost some Rs 50,000.

(5) A man was killed by the bursting of a piston at the India General Steam Navigation Company's Dockyard, 6, Garden Reach. It appears that the piston was hollow, and water must have condensed inside it, so that when fire was applied to endeavour to remove the nut which fixed it on the piston rod, steam was generated inside the piston, which thereupon burst.

(6) One man was killed by a bale of gunnies falling on him at the Baranagore Mill.

(7) One man was killed by falling on the "softener" when asleep. Instead of standing at his work he sat on the gearing-box, and fell on the travelling cloth, receiving injuries from which he died.

(8) One man was killed by a bale of jute falling on him at the Baranagore North Mill.

(9) One man was killed at the Kamarhatti Jute Mill by being carried up to the shaft by a belt.

(10) One man was found dead at the bottom of a fly wheel pit. It was not known how he managed to fall below, as the wheel is well fenced.

(11) One man was killed by the fall of a jute bale on him at the Wellington Jute Mill.

(12) One man was killed by the fall of a jute bale on him at Messrs Ralli Brothers' Jute Press.

(13) One man was killed by his cloth lapping the shaft, resulting in a compound fracture of the arms, and his ultimate death from hæmorrhage.

Mr Walsh draws attention to an apparent necessity for a change in the rules. At present if the injured man is alive when leaving the mill, the accident is often returned merely as "serious" and recorded as such, although as a fact the man may die soon after reaching hospital. The Special Inspector will be asked to submit a separate report on the amendment of the rules which he would propose.

The question of ensuring that information of fatal accidents is conveyed promptly to the Special Inspector by managers of mills, and also information of the result of inquests held and of their dates when practicable, has recently been under the consideration of Government, and orders are under issue by which this object will be attained.

14 Prosecutions.—There were two prosecutions instituted during the year as compared with three during 1896. The Manager of the Victoria Jute Mill in the sub-division of Serampore, district Hooghly, was prosecuted on account of the nuisance caused by the filthy state of the latrine, and fined Rs. 200. The other prosecution was instituted against the Manager of the Hastings Jute Mill at Kishra in the same sub-division, under clause (g) of section 15 of Act XV of 1881, as amended by Act XI of 1891, but under the provisions of section 17 of the Act and Part IX of the Bengal Municipal Act, the Chairman of the Serampore Municipality was declared the responsible party, and the manager acquitted.

15. The examination of the working of the mills is in the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor on the whole most creditable to the management, who are not merely careful to comply with the requirements of the law, but spontaneously anxious to promote the health and comfort of the factory hands.

The Report of the previous year and Government Resolution thereon

WITH the exception that the ad valorem duty on sleepers of iron and steel was reduced from 5 per cent to 1 per cent, and that machinery for the manufacture of matches, articles of leather, and tobacco was exempted from duty, there were no changes of importance in the tariff during the year under review

2 The following statement compares the gross and net customs duty collected during the last five years and in the years before and after the remission of the import duties in March 1882 —

	1880-81	1881-82	1882-83	1883-84	1894-95	1895-96	1896-97	1897-98

The total net duty collected during the year fell from Rs. 3,89,37,261 in 1896-97 to Rs. 3,85,05,944, showing a decrease of Rs 4,31,317, or 11 per cent. The falling-off occurred under the heads of import duty on general merchandise (Rs 1,36,291) and on salt (Rs 3,42,525), while the increase of Rs 47,499 under export duty is said to be due to the partial recovery of the rice trade after the famine of 1896-97. The decrease in the import duty on general merchandise is ascribed to smaller imports of cotton and woollen goods and machinery. In the case of salt, the lower receipts of duty were due to larger quantities going into bond, as the actual imports were largely in advance of those of the previous year. The charges of the year, inclusive of refunds and drawbacks, amounted to Rs. 12,00,094 against Rs. 12,15,472 in the previous year. The total net receipts, including receipts other than duty, fell from Rs 3,84,29,248 in 1896-97 to Rs. 3,79,73,556 in the year under review, thus showing a decrease of Rs. 4,55,692, or 11 per cent.

In import duty the decrease occurred chiefly under cotton goods (Rs 9,34,744) and woollen goods and apparel (Rs 1 83,097), while there was a substantial increase under sugar (Rs. 3,27,240), oil (Rs. 2,85,669), and silver bullion (Rs 3,29,438). It is worthy of note in connection with the import duties, that more than 91½ lakhs out of a total of under 132 lakhs, (excluding salt) are realized on four items, viz, cotton goods, oil, liquors, and silver bullion

4 The value of trade.—The following table shows the value of the import and export trade of the province, both foreign and coasting, in the past two years under the three main heads of Merchandise, Treasure, and Government transactions —

The total net value of the foreign import trade in merchandise showed a decrease of Rs. 2,23,95,600, or 7.4 per cent. The decrease, which occurred both in free and dutiable goods, is attributable to the deficient harvest in 1896, and it is very remarkable that the apparent effects of that calamity on trade should be so slight, the value of the imports of merchandise being actually greater than in 1894-95 or 1895-96. Owing to heavier receipts of gold from China and Australia and of silver from the United Kingdom, there was an increase of Rs. 1,48,34,823, or 83 per cent. in the imports of treasure. The value of the stores imported on behalf of Government stood at Rs 2 13,25,189 against Rs 1,65,20,247 in the previous year. This increase is ascribed to larger receipts of railway materials, arms and ammunition, apparel, telegraph materials, stationery, flax goods, and hardware. The total value of the foreign export trade in Indian produce again fell off by Rs 41,68,420. The smaller shipments of opium to Hongkong and the Straits Settlements, and of indigo to the United Kingdom account for this decline. The value of exports of Government stores increased by 105 per cent owing to the unusually large despatches of copper coins to the Straits Settlements. As in previous years, there were no exports of treasure on account of Government. In the coasting trade there was an increase of 14 per cent and of 5 per cent, respectively, in the value of imports and exports of merchandise. The increase in the former is attributable to the unusually large shipments of rice and paddy from Burma to meet the demand caused by scarcity in India, while larger despatches of coal to Bombay, Madras, and Burma, of rice and wheat to Madras, of rapeseed and jute manufactures to Bombay, and of provisions to Burma account for the increase in the exports. Including Government transactions, the total value of the trade of the Province stood at Rs 98,21,51,684 against Rs 95,34,57,341 in the previous year, showing an increase of Rs 2,86,94,343, or 3 per cent.

It will be seen that, as usual, the bulk of the trade was carried on with the United Kingdom, but the proportion which this branch bears to the entire foreign trade of the port declined during the year from 58 57 per cent in 1896-97 to 53 87. The falling-off in value was equivalent to 8 per cent, and the total trade recorded is the smallest since 1892-93. The decrease occurred in both imports and exports. The falling-off under imports is due to smaller shipments of cotton and woollen goods, machinery, apparel, liquors, and umbrellas, while short despatches of tea, raw jute, and raw cotton, dyeing materials, lac, grain, and pulse, oils, and sugar account for the decrease under exports. The United States have again gone ahead of Germany and stand second in the list with a percentage of 7 65 against 5 96 in the preceding year. The increase was wholly under exports, owing to a larger trade in jute, both raw and manufactured, hides and skins, and tea. A noticeable incident in the trade with the United States was the import of a consignment of grain despatched by charitable people for the relief of the famine. The cargo was brought in "a whaleback" steamer—the first of its kind to visit Calcutta. Germany occupies the third place, with a percentage of 7 40 against 6 70 in 1896-97. The increase was both under imports and exports. There was a remarkable advance of 324,566 cwts in the imports of sugar, while raw jute and hides and skins contributed materially to the increase in exports of Indian produce. China comes next, and her share in the trade stood at 5.89 against 5.50 in the previous year. The trade with Hongkong and the Treaty Ports of China increased by 6 per cent and 12 per cent., respectively. The quantity of opium exported to Hongkong rose in quantity from 21,798 to 22,771 chests, but its value fell from Rs. 2,75,02,495 to Rs. 2,35,06,832 owing to a steady and continuous fall in price. The Straits Settlements maintained their position, but with a lower percentage of 3.67. The decrease which has been going on since 1894-95 occurred wholly under exports, and is due mainly to smaller shipments of opium. The marked improvement of 85 per cent in the trade with Ceylon during the last year, though mainly due to the large transactions in gold and silver, is also attributable to larger imports of cocoanut oil, copper, and sugar, and to heavier exports of grain and pulse, coal, teaseed, and jute manufactures. It is satisfactory to note that with the cessation of famine, exports of grain to Ceylon are returning to their normal condition. The increase of 22 per cent. in the trade with Australia is ascribed to heavy receipts of treasure and to enlarged shipments of jute manufactures and of castor and linseed oils. There was, however, a very large falling off in the importation of horses. The trade with France fell by 1.3 per cent. in imports and 5 per cent. in exports. The decline in the former was due to smaller receipts of silk goods, the most important of our importations from France, while short shipments of indigo and raw silk brought about the fall in exports. The increase of 11 per cent in the total value of the trade with Austria-Hungary, in spite of the large decrease in the receipts of cotton and woollen goods, is accounted for by larger exports of raw jute and hides and skins. The reduced purchasing powers of the people occasioned by famine and other troubles, are clearly responsible for the restricted demand for cotton goods. The trade of Italy with Calcutta increased in the past year by 13 per cent, a larger quantity of aniline dyes being imported, and of hides and skins, raw jute, and seeds exported. In the trade with Belgium there was an improvement of 4 per cent., due to larger imports of metals, aniline dyes, cement, and matches, and to a marked advance in exports of oilseeds. The improvement of 33 per cent in the Mauritius trade is attributed to the increased imports and exports of merchandise and exports of treasure. Imports from Mauritius consist mainly of sugar, both refined and unrefined, and the total quantity received during the year rose from 338,146 cwts to 565,891 cwts.

6 Shipping in Calcutta.—The proportion which the trade of Calcutta carried through the Suez Canal during the year under review bore to its total foreign trade was 73.9 per cent. as against 76.9 in the previous year. The table below compares the total shipping entering inwards and clearing outwards without touching at any other port, and the aggregate tonnage, in the past two years —

	1896-97.		1897-98
	Number	Tonnage	Number	Tonnage

Native craft	11	1,850	13	2,131
Total	863	1,744,384	1,025	2,119,043

There was thus an increase of 129 steam vessels, 31 sailing vessels, and 2 native craft, representing an advance of 374,659 in tonnage.

7 Imports into Calcutta—The total value of the imports, including treasure, but excluding Government transactions, into Calcutta from foreign countries fell from Rs 31,90,39,573 in 1896-97 to Rs 31,11,60,201, showing a decrease of Rs 78,79,372, or 2·4 per cent. The decrease occurred under Merchandise (Rs. 2,27,14,195, or 7·5 per cent) against an increase of Rs 1,48,34,823, or 83·4 per cent, under Treasure. The total values of the principal articles of merchandise imported into the port during the last two years are shown below —

	1896-97	1897-98

The total imports of cotton goods, including twist and yarn, decreased by 17 per cent in comparison with 1896-97. The Collector of Customs writes —

"The Cotton trade which was shown in last year's report to be in a most unsatisfactory state has still further deteriorated in the past year. It would be difficult to point to a time when the unfavourable factors then mentioned were so prolonged. Indeed, it was only during the period of the American war that the difficulties of producers were greater. In India the heavy imports of 1896, which could find no outlet owing to the prevailing distress, became a drag on the market, necessitating the carrying forward of large stocks which seriously interfered with the free flow of orders to Lancashire, and resulted in lower prices, stoppage of machinery, and disputes regarding wages. The good monsoon and bountiful harvests have, however, helped to relieve this unsatisfactory position, and prospects all round are considerably brighter with the close of 1897-98. It is unfortunate that the stringency of money caused still further complications in the local trade, for it compelled importers to burden themselves with the stocks of goods, for the native dealers found it impossible under the adverse conditions which existed to pay for and take delivery of their orders. Numerous failures occurred in the bazar, which caused a very uneasy feeling and restricted credit, importers having to exercise greater caution. Confidence, however, is being gradually restored, and it is not improbable that the long-looked-for healthy revival will become an accomplished fact during 1898-99 if no other adverse circumstances intervene."

The improvement of 3·8 per cent in metals is due* mainly to larger imports of brass (wrought), copper (wrought and unwrought), steel, quicksilver, and zinc. The importation of mineral oil increased by 7 per cent owing to larger receipts of the article from the United States and Sumatra. Mineral oil was imported from Sumatra to this country for the first time in 1896-97, and in the past year the quantity imported rose from 558,271 gallons in 1896-97 to 5,332,703 gallons, nearly a tenfold increase. On the other hand, Russian oil shows a decline on last year's record of 6,081,144 gallons. Machinery and mill work fell off by 24·4 per cent owing, it is stated, to the heavy receipts during 1896-97, chiefly of jute and cotton mill machinery. The Collector of Customs observes that most of the mills are now completely equipped, and unless new ones are erected or extensions made to existing ones, the importations during the coming year will consist only of "spares" and "renewals." Sugar shows a marked increase of 117·7 per cent, to which all the exporting countries, except the United Kingdom, contributed. This increase is attributed to the continued operation of the Continental bounty system, regarding which the Collector makes the following remarks —

"Under the encouragement of bounties this trade has been steadily expanding for some years. The past year's trade was further favourably assisted by a plentiful beet crop and an advancing exchange. At the same time, it is not believed that the trade has been a lucrative one. Supply was invariably in excess of demand, causing a continual decline in prices. It is stated that a general opinion is gaining ground as to the desirability of abolishing these bounties. Not only is the bounty system very costly to the countries concerned (for the current year 1898, the cost of France alone is estimated at £1,500,000), but the heavy protection duty also makes it very costly to the consumer. It is stated that the average consumption of Sugar on the Continent is less than one-third that of England.

The consumer objects to the high price he has to pay, and the producer complains of the smallness of consumption. These two grievances combined form the basis for considerable agitation against the bounty system on the Continent. Germany, Austria, and Belgium are in favour of abolition, and the general objection to bounties on Sugar has resulted in the invitation lately issued to the Powers to meet in conference at Brussels."

The Brussels Conference has unfortunately not led to any practical result. In the meantime, the imposition by the United States, America, of counter-vailing differential duties against bounty-fed sugar, while beneficial to the West Indian colonies, is likely to divert Continental bounty-fed sugar to this country, still further depressing the local industry.

The decrease of 20·2 per cent. in the importation of ale, beer, and porter is ascribed to the fact that the despatch to the front of a large number of British regiments, whose messes used to be supplied with English beer from Calcutta, diverted the trade to Karachi. "Pilsener" beer has recovered the place which it lost two years ago as the variety most largely imported. Next comes "Younger and Sons," followed by "Ind Coope," "Bass," and "Tennants." "Mc Ewan's" ale, which last year stood first, is now seventh in order of importance. The falling-off of 1·3 per cent. in the trade in spirits and liquors occurred under the staple spirits, brandy, whisky, gin, and liqueurs, but was mitigated by an increase of 11,494 gallons under "other sorts of spirits." These consist chiefly of methylated spirits, and of "white spirit" from Germany, which is used in the production of spurious brandies and whiskies. The total importation of wines also decreased from 120,801 gallons in 1896-97 to 115,706 gallons, showing a decrease of 4·2 per cent. The decrease was in champagne (2,172 gallons), sherry (1,250 gallons), and other wines (6,354 gallons), while claret and port increased by 1,572 and 3,109 gallons, respectively. The advance of 40·8 per cent. in the salt trade is due to larger shipments by all the salt producing countries, (except Egypt), the largest contributor being the United Kingdom. The increased consumption of Liverpool salt is said to be due to the efforts of the Salt Union to compete with crushed salt from Aden and the Red Sea ports. Hardware and cutlery increased by 2·8 per cent., owing to larger receipts from the United Kingdom. It is observed by the Collector of Customs that large importations were made of agricultural and other implements to meet Government requirements for the construction of remunerative works in the regions affected by famine. The bulk of the wares imported were from the United Kingdom—a tribute to their superiority of manufacture. The decline of 41 per cent. in the total imports of woollen goods is attributed to the fact that both dealers and merchants had heavy stocks of goods, imported in the famine year 1896-97, still left on their hands. Amongst other imports, agricultural implements improved by 11·2 per cent., matches by 86·1, and drugs and medicines by 11 per cent., while umbrellas and apparel declined by 25·8 and 9·2 per cent., respectively. The trade in English matches is practically extinct, and this trade is said to be almost entirely in the hands of Belgium, Germany, Sweden and Norway, and Japan.

8 Exports from Calcutta.—The total value of exports from Calcutta to foreign countries, including treasure, but excluding Government transactions, rose from Rs. 44,96,22,007 to Rs. 45,32,27,558, an increase of Rs. 36,05,551. The value of the trade in the principal exports in 1896-97 and 1897-98 is compared in the table below :—

		1896 97	1897 98

The total exports of raw jute increased in quantity by 32 per cent, but in consequence of the low price prevailing during the year, the aggregate value decreased by 4·3 per cent. Larger exports were made to the United Kingdom, Austria-Hungary, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, the United States, and Australia, while China, Japan, and "Other countries" took smaller supplies. In jute gunny-bags there was an increase of 19·9 per cent., due to the larger amount of machinery now at work in India. In the total exports of opium there was a falling-off to the extent of 1,681 chests, but the trade with China, the principal consumer of the drug, shows an increase of 5·8 per cent. The exports of tea increased by nearly two million pounds or 1·3 per cent. owing to larger shipments to all the importing countries. The excess of production over demand, the rise in exchange, and the fact that the teas were generally deficient in good liquoring quality, lowered the average price of the article, which stood at 8 annas and 5 pies per lb in the year against 8 annas and 8 pies in 1896-97. Ceylon tea continues to gain favour, and the quantity exported during the year increased by 3·9 per cent. The Collector of Customs observes —

"In view of the active competition of Ceylon teas, the Indian planters have taken advantage of the warning note sounded, and are now endeavouring to manufacture a better liquoring quality of tea, and are not trusting entirely to quantity for their profit, experience having shown that most of the lower grades do not repay the cost of production and manufacture."

Among oilseeds, linseed, the principal article of export, increased by 13·7 per cent, owing to larger shipments to the United Kingdom, France, and the United States. Poppy, rape, and til, the other seeds exported, also advanced, the two latter by 492·9 and 15·2 per cent, respectively. Germany, Arabia, Persia, Ceylon, China, and the Maldives took larger supplies of rice, while smaller shipments were made to the United Kingdom, Cape Colony, Mauritius, Natal, Réunion, and West Indies. Ceylon, which is the principal market for Bengal rice, took 41·4 per cent more than in 1896-97 while the exports to the United Kingdom and to Mauritius, the next largest consumers of rice, decreased by 13·6 and 7·9 per cent, respectively. Indigo fell off by 34·5 per cent owing to smaller shipments to the United Kingdom, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, France, Germany, Holland, the United States, Russia, and Italy. The Collector of Customs observes —

"To over-production, to the tightness of the money market, to the substitution of chemical dyes, to the Badische scare, and to the heavy stocks in the home market may be attributed the unfortunate condition to which this once thriving industry is now reduced."

The exports of raw hides, which are the largest item under the head of hides and skins, increased by 47·1 per cent, in consequence of larger despatches to the United States, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Italy, France, and "Other countries." On the other hand, there was a decline of 18·3 per cent in dressed hides. Though the trade in wheat during the past year shows a nominal increase of 2·1 per cent, it has shrunk greatly from its previous vast proportions. The trade in raw cotton with the United Kingdom fell away by 23·2 per cent, with Austria-Hungary by 60·1 per cent, with Belgium by 55·3 per cent, with France by 12·3 per cent, with Germany by 35·4 per cent, with Italy by 27·3 per cent., with Japan by 58·5 per cent., and with "Other countries" by 19·6 per cent., while China took 116·6 per cent more than in 1896-97. The Collector of Customs observes —

"The decline in the total exports is attributable to the cotton crop of the past season being below the average, owing, in the first instance, to the late advent of the rains, which prevented sowing and interfered materially with healthy germination, while on irrigated lands over-irrigation proved injurious to the seedlings; and, secondly, owing to small acreage only being sown, while the greater portion of the soil was utilised for food-grain and fodder."

The exports of shell-lac increased in quantity, but decreased in value owing to the fact of there being no demand for established and more expensive marks, as the rise in exchange restricted the trade, and purchasers were satisfied with a fair quality of goods at a lower valuation. There was an improvement of 10·5 per cent. in the exports of raw silk as compared with 1896-97. The trade with the United Kingdom and "Other countries" shows an increase of 80·7 and 93·8, respectively, while France and Italy took 27·7 and 32·6 per cent. less than in 1896-97.

9 Treasure —The importation of gold increased by 106·9 per cent and of silver by 65·4 per cent. The exports of gold were very small, but there was an increase of 260·7 per cent. in the exports of silver, owing to larger shipments to Mauritius, Ceylon, Siam, and the Straits Settlements.

10 Subordinate Ports —The total value of the foreign trade of the port of Chittagong rose from Rs. 75,39,602 to Rs. 81,50,349, showing an increase of Rs. 6,10,747, or 8·1 per cent. This took place both in imports (21·7 per cent) and exports (4·6 per cent), and is attributable mainly to larger receipts of salt from the United Kingdom and kerosine oil from America, and to heavier shipments of raw jute to the United Kingdom, Dunkirk, and Hamburg, of tea to the United Kingdom, and of rice to Ceylon. The imports of liquors from foreign and Indian ports declined by 17 and 43 per cent., respectively. As in previous years, there were no imports or exports of treasure in the foreign trade. In the coasting trade imports increased in value, owing to larger receipts of rice from Akyab and Rangoon and of jute from Narayanganj, while the heavy shipments of raw cotton to Calcutta and of treasure to Calcutta, Akyab, and Rangoon for the purchase of rice, raised the value of the exports.

The total value of the trade, both foreign and coasting, at the Orissa ports, as compared with 1896-97, rose at Balasore from Rs. 1,26,61,352 to Rs. 1,46,76,513, at Cuttack, from Rs. 26,09,173 to Rs. 27,63,354, and at Puri, from Rs. 4,59,818 to Rs. 4,61,170. The net amount of customs duty, inclusive of the duty on imported salt collected at the Orissa ports, rose from Rs. 4,00,625 to Rs. 5,91,736, showing an increase of Rs. 1,91,111, or 47 per cent. The improvement, it is said, is due mainly to the increase in the import duty on salt realised in the port of Balasore, and partly to a considerable decrease in refunds on exports in all the three districts of this Division.

The trade at Narayanganj, which is carried on with coast ports only, rose from Rs. 55,88,341 to Rs. 60,40,026, an increase of 8 per cent. Salt was the only dutiable article imported into this port, and the duty on it rose from Rs. 4,37,950 to Rs. 7,15,777, or by 63 per cent. No kerosene oil was imported by sea into Narayanganj, as the supplies are said to have been obtained by other routes from Calcutta. The exports were of rice only, and 5,587 cwts. were exported during the year against 966 cwts. in 1896-97, the increase being due to heavy shipments made to Chittagong, where the prices ruled high.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor's thanks are again due to the Collector of Customs and to the Board of Revenue for their supervision of the Department during the year. The report of its operations is as usual full of interest. The names of the officers who have been favourably mentioned by the Board will be communicated to the Appointment Department.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

E. N. BAKER,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The Report for the year 1896, and the Resolution of Government recorded thereon

MR HARRY was Inspector-General of Police throughout the year. The present report was received by Government on the 6th July. The preparation of the statistical returns in the revised forms prescribed by the Government of India caused some delay in the submission of divisional reports to the Inspector-General of Police. Only three reports were, however, overdue at the end of March.

2 Constitution of the force—The sanctioned strength of the force showed an increase of 139. While the number of head constables was reduced by 49, there was an increase of 1 inspector, 75 sub-inspectors, 51 constables, and 51 town chaukidars. The force actually employed on the last day of the year was, however, short of sanctioned strength by 37 sub-inspectors, 37 head-constables, 177 constables, 16 town chaukidars, and 1 European constable. The omission to fill the vacancies among the sub-inspectors and head-constables was intentional—in the case of the former, with a view to leaving room for sub-inspectors appointed by competitive examination, and in the case of the latter, in order to allow the substitution of sub-inspectors, on the principle laid down by the Police Redistribution Committee. The deficiency in the number of constables was due to difficulty in recruitment.

3 Expenditure—The following table compares the expenditure under the main heads during the financial years 1896-97 and 1897-98—

Sub-heads	HEADS OF CHARGES	Actual expenditure for 1896-97	Actual expenditure for 1897-98	Increase	Decrease
1	2	3	4	5	6
		Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
1	Inspecting agency	1,60,903	1,59,077		6,826
2	Pay of District and Assistant Superintendents	4,96,168	4,80,813		15,355
3	Pay of Executive Police and establishments, with good conduct pay and batta allowance, &c	3,62,935	3,62,718	2,62,783
4	Travelling allowance	1,21,285	1,27,480	6,195
5	Fixed boat establishment	59,817	65,138	6,121
6	Special, regular and contract contingencies	6,01,339	6,01,575	236
7	Government contribution to the Municipal and Railway Police	1,61,748	1,70,324	8,591
8	Bengal Military Police	70,514	52,851		17,663
	Total	50,39,194	52,83,276	2,83,926	39,844
	Net increase*			2,14,082

The expenditure shows an increase of Rs 3,99,276 over the budget grant for the year. Of this Rs 2,73,142 was expended in compensation for dearness of provisions, which had to be paid throughout the year, and has now been discontinued. The remainder of the excess was mainly due to the entertainment of extra men in connection with the plague, the famine, and railway extensions, and to repairs and rebuilding necessitated by the earthquake, and the cyclone in the Chittagong district.

	Rs
1888-89	40,82,462
1889-90	40,81,342
1890-91	40,19,887
1891-92	42,26,194
1892-93	43,00,082
1893-94	43,99,736
1894-95	46,89,430
1895-96	49,77,375
1896-97	50,39,194
1897-98	52,83,276

The cyclone alone entailed an expenditure of Rs 20,000. The cost of the police in each of the last ten years is shown in the margin. The increase which has occurred was in the main inevitable. It is largely attributable to additional charges sanctioned on the recommendation of the Police Redistribution Committee as essential to the maintenance of an honest and efficient body of men to the necessity which constantly arises for strengthening the force with the development of railways and trade, to special measures for suppressing outbreaks of crime, and, in the last two years, to the famine and the measures connected with the plague. Notwithstanding this increase the cost of police protection per head of population is still only 1 anna 1 pie as against 1 anna 10 pies in the North-Western Provinces, 2 annas 3 pies in the Central Provinces, 2 annas 8 pies in the Punjab, and 3 annas 2 pies in Bombay. Nevertheless, it is necessary that the growth of the police expenditure should be closely watched. The department will now be relieved of the exceptional charges of the last year, and there are details in which the Inspector-General can exercise considerable economy. These the Lieutenant-Governor does not doubt will receive his steady attention. Estimates should be carefully framed and sustained effort made to keep the expenditure within them.

4 Recruitment of investigating officers.—The number of officers selected at the two competitive examinations was 83. Besides these, 31 head-constables and writer-constables with a meritorious record of services were promoted to the rank of Sub-Inspector, of whom 10 had attended the training school for a term. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to find that effect is thus being given to the desire of the Government that promotion should not be withheld from deserving and competent officers who have not been admitted into the force through the new system of competitive examination. The sub-inspectors appointed under that system now, however, number 580, this being nearly half of the total of officers in that grade. They are men of better social status and better education than their predecessors, and the Government looks now for a distinct improvement in both the character and the work of the police.

5. The Police Training School.—Mr. Henry considers that the course of instruction at the school is too short and should be extended. The expenditure involved would, however, be considerable, and any change must, therefore, be deferred. There were 165 students in the past year, of whom 69 were admitted after selection by open competition, and 13 under special orders, the remaining 63 being officers already in the service, who were permitted specially to attend for the purpose of improving themselves. Of the total number, 3 qualified as Inspectors and 118 as Sub-Inspectors, and 14 failed to obtain certificates. Apart from the knowledge imparted in the classes, much good may be expected to result from the maintenance of a healthy discipline and the encouragement of athletics and outdoor games at the school. The increase in the number of district schools started for the education of the rank and file of the police is satisfactory. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that additions have been made this year to the 17 schools which existed at the end of the past year. This is the most effective means of reducing the percentage of illiterate men in the force, which is now so high as 74.

6 Town Police.—As noted in last year's Resolution, the pay of town chaukidars has been raised in fifteen districts from Rs. 5 to Rs. 6 per month, and in two other districts from Rs. 4 to Rs. 5 per month. In Serampore and the neighbouring urban areas, where there exists a large population of operatives drawing high wages, it was found necessary to withdraw the system of employing chaukidars and revert to regular constabulary. The night patrol system, which was first adopted in Patna City in lieu of the old system of watch and ward, under which each constable or chaukidar was fixed on one beat, has now been introduced in some towns in all Divisions. It has been followed by excellent results in the detection and arrest of criminals, especially in the Patna Division. The system is not, however, suited to small municipalities where the houses are scattered. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to learn that in some places its adoption has been prevented by a refusal on the part of the municipality either to light the streets or to provide oil for the police lanterns. Such refusal is singular in the case of large municipalities like Hooghly and Dacca. The success of the plan in other municipalities should again be brought before the Committees, and, should assistance be still declined, the Lieutenant-Governor would be glad to have a report of the reasons for the refusal. The report states that the town police system must be considered unsatisfactory in the numerous municipalities of the 24-Parganas, because the strength of the police is altogether incommensurate with the duties they have to perform. An increase of the police is obviously a question of money, but the remarks of the Inspector-General will be brought to the notice of the Commissioner of the Division.

An addition of 4 officers and 61 men to the total strength of the town police of the province was made during the year.

7. Rural Police—A further increase has been made in the number of chaukidars appointed under Act VI of 1870, which was 117,999 at the close of the year against 115,762 in the previous year. The services of chaukidars under Regulation XX of 1817 were in consequence dispensed with, their number being reduced from 32,000 to 28,815. Nearly half the chaukidars of this class are found in the Burdwan Division, where proceedings for the introduction of the system of panchayats and cash payment of the chaukidars have been going on for some years. Much has been already done, but the progress made in some districts has been far from satisfactory, and the matter calls for the special attention of the local officers. Mr Henry dwells with reason on the improvement which has been effected in the last few years in the general condition of the chaukidars. The men receive in every respect greater consideration, and are, in consequence, acquiring more and more the confidence and self respect which are requisite for efficient and honest work. A large sum is paid to them annually in rewards, they are generally provided with suitable uniforms, and sheds have been built for their shelter at the stations, where they are required to report themselves weekly. They are numbered by thousands in some districts, the total for the Province being 160,000, and the necessity for placing them under petty officers of their own class has long been felt. This has now been met in many districts by the appointment of dafadars, who are intermediaries between them and the police. The measure has proved a success and should be adopted as soon as practicable in the other districts, where there is no local impediment.

The dafadars of Bogra are said to have done excellent service in giving important clues to the police in serious cases. In Backergunge there have been many instances of similar assistance given by chaukidars. In Noakhali it is reported that 15 chaukidars have passed the Primary or Middle Vernacular Examination, that 84 can read and write fairly well, and that 303 can read print.

The Oussa chaukidari system is in course of reorganization. Panchayats and cash payment of the chaukidars will be introduced, the Government paying for the large body of dafadars required out of the proceeds of the resumed service lands.

8. Rewards to chaukidars.—The total number of chaukidars departmentally rewarded rose from 4,354 in 1896 to 7,454, and the total sum paid shows a considerable and satisfactory increase, being Rs 32,946-4 against Rs 21,033-5-3 in the previous year. In several districts, however, the balance to the credit of the Reward Fund was allowed to increase unduly during the year, notably in Nadia, Jessore, Dacca, Saran, and Muzaffarpur. Saran and Backergunge had each more than Rs 6,000 to their credit at the end of the year. These balances would show that still greater liberality may be exercised in rewarding the chaukidars for good work. In Backergunge Mr Beatson-Bell has instituted the practice of giving medals, which is much appreciated by the men, and some mark of distinction for good service, to be seen and noted of all men, is a system which deserves encouragement throughout the province. The amount credited to the Fund throughout the province was less than in the previous year. This is no cause for regret, as it was apparently partly due to a diminution in the number of chaukidars fined departmentally. On the other hand, from the fact that the number of chaukidars brought to judicial trial or departmentally punished with dismissal was larger than in the previous year, it may be inferred that due notice was taken of cases of serious misconduct, in order to secure improvement in the efficiency of the rural police.

9. Station-beat system—The Inspector General mentions the general introduction of the station-beat system. The Lieutenant Governor recognises the value of this plan within limits, but it may be made the occasion of much harassment, and he trusts that the Inspector General will very carefully watch its development and restrict the patrol to villages which are known to be the residence or resort of bad characters.

10. Railway Police.—There was an increase of 1 Sub Inspector and 115 constables in the permanent force of the Railway Police during the year. These were sanctioned for employment on the East Coast Railway at Puri.

A total temporary force of 1 Sub-Inspector, 27 head-constables and 114 constables was also entertained for railway guard duty and to deal with crime in the vicinity of railway construction works.

11 Special constables and additional and private police — Altogether 826 men were appointed special constables during the year to keep the peace in connection with disturbances, actual or apprehended. Of these 711 were appointed for short periods in the Darbhanga district alone, the next largest number in one district being 60 in Champaran. Those in Darbhanga were required during the festivals of the Bakri Id and Muharram as a precaution against the renewal of disturbances which had occurred on previous occasions. In 13 cases forces of additional police were sanctioned by Government. Five Sub-Inspectors, 33 head constables and 436 constables were supplied to various persons at their own expense under section 13 of Act V of 1861.

12 Military Police — Three companies of military police, each one hundred strong, were maintained at Dacca, Dumka, and Bhagalpur, respectively. The barracks in which the Dacca company was quartered were so severely damaged by the earthquake as to be rendered unsafe. Steps are being taken for the construction of a new building. Detachments from these companies were utilised on several occasions during the year for the preservation of the peace outside their own districts at Hooghly and in the 24-Parganas during the Muharram and after the Tallah riots in Calcutta, and at Bankipore during the Bakri Id. The Dumka company was marched through the Damin-i-koh. Mr Henry speaks highly of the physique and smart appearance of the men. The service is popular, and most of the men whose first term of three years has expired have re-engaged for a further term. Schools have been started in all the three companies, and sports and gymnastics are encouraged. Since the end of the year orders have issued for the formation of a new company to be quartered in the neighbourhood of Calcutta for employment on the occurrence of disturbances among the numerous upcountry operatives employed in the mills on the banks of the river Hooghly. Stationed across the river near Barrackpore the company will be in a central position, whence the men could be promptly moved by road or river to the scene of any threatened disturbance.

13 District Police Reserves and Ordinary Reserves — The District Police Reserves were maintained at the head quarters of every district, and number 50, 25 or 20 constables, with officers, according to the need of the district. In each district this force is always kept at full strength and is not drawn upon for ordinary work. The men are thoroughly drilled, and, as they have shown themselves whenever employed, are competent to deal with any disturbance of an ordinary kind occurring within their district. The Ordinary Reserves are maintained for the purpose of filling vacancies due to leave and sickness among the ordinary police of the district. They number about 15 per cent. of the strength of the district force, but in the more unhealthy districts, especially in the Rajshahi Division, this percentage is frequently found insufficient.

14. Casualties. — The following table shows the casualties during the year —

1 Retirement on pension or gratuity	383, or 1.5 per cent	273, or 1.12 per cent	258, or 1.05 per cent
2 Resignation	814, „ 3.31 „	774, „ 3.17 „	491, „ 2.03 „
3 Dismissal	591, „ 2.40 „	534, „ 2.19 „	484, „ 1.97 „
4 Discharge	184, „ .74 „	144, „ .59 „	203, „ .82 „
5 Desertion	90, „ .36 „	66, „ .27 „	68, „ .27 „
6 Death	621, „ 2.11 „	520, „ 2.12 „	552, „ 2.25 „
Total	2,583, „ 10.5 „	2,311, „ 9.4 „	2,056, „ 8.3 „

While the percentage of deaths and of discharges was last year somewhat greater than in the two previous years, a decrease occurred under all other heads, and the percentage of casualties to the total strength of the force fell from 10.5 in 1895 and 9.4 in 1896 to 8.3 in 1897. The number of admissions to hospital was 9,091 against 9,653 in 1896 and 11,277 in 1895. The average daily percentage of sick in hospital on the actual strength of the force was 1.3. The percentage was highest (3.4) in Rajshahi and lowest (.9) in Chittagong.

15 Punishments — The number of officers and men judicially punished under the Penal Code during the year was 176 against 258, and under Act VI 158 against 167 in the previous year. The number dismissed was 484 against 539, and the number fined or degraded 2,794 against 2,694 in 1896. The decrease in the number of prosecutions and of dismissals indicates improvement in the conduct and discipline of the force. The number of fines and degradations was large, but under orders issued by the Inspector-General, with the approval of the Government, fines are now imposed with due regard to the pay of the men, and the pecuniary affect of degradations is duly considered. Mr. Henry remarks that, as the result of the more considerate treatment accorded to the men, the Bengal police are at present a contented force, though the smallness of the pay given to the lowest grades is responsible for many resignations.

16 Conduct of the police — There was an increase of 328 in the number of constables wearing good-conduct stripes. The number of educated officers was 3,024, or 84.5 per cent, and that of educated men 5,038, or 24.6 of the total force. One Inspector and 16 Sub-Inspectors are graduates, and 37 Inspectors, 467 Sub-Inspectors, and 21 head-constables have passed the Entrance and F A examinations, while 133 Inspectors, 719 Sub-Inspectors, and 1,269 head-constables, although they have passed no examination, know sufficient English to be able to transact ordinary business in that language. In seven cases embezzlements were detected on the part of police officers and criminal prosecutions were instituted. Four officers were convicted, one was punished departmentally by dismissal, and two were under trial at the end of the year.

The general conduct of the police was discussed at considerable length in the report for 1896 and the Government Resolution on it. The system of competitive examination, followed by training at the Police School, has introduced into the force officers unquestionably superior in social position and education to the great majority of the old officers. The new men necessarily have still much experience to acquire, and further time must be allowed to elapse before a definite judgment is formed as to their efficiency in dealing with crime. For the purpose of estimating the effectiveness of the present force as an agency for the detection and prevention of crime, Mr. Henry has reproduced, with the addition of the figures for the past year, the statistics of serious crime in quinquennial periods since 1882, which were introduced in the report for 1896. The percentages of cases convicted show an improvement under a few heads of crime, but in rioting, murder and dacoity a marked increase of cases occurred in the past two years, while detection has also fallen off. This is a feature certainly unfavourable to the police. On the other hand, they have shown greater activity in prosecuting for bad livelihood and are far more successful in proving previous convictions. As an agency for dealing with organized disturbances, the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with Mr. Henry in commending the police for their uniform good conduct.

17. Charges of torture and extortion against the Police — Altogether 23 charges of torture were brought against the police. Of these 20 were found to be false after judicial or departmental enquiry. In nine cases the complainants were prosecuted, and five were convicted, and three acquitted, one being under trial at the close of the year. Of the remaining three cases against the police, one was declared true and in the others the accused were acquitted.

Charges of extortion were brought in 149 cases against 99 in 1896. Of these, 82 were dismissed or declared false, while 21 cases were found to have been much exaggerated and were entered as true under minor sections of the Code. Ten cases resulted in convictions, in 12 the accused were discharged, 9 were compromised, in 3 there was no evidence, and 12 were pending at the end of the year. It is noticeable that out of the total of 149 cases no fewer than 92 were in the district of Mymensingh alone, this number being far in excess of the institutions in any previous year. The large increase shown for the whole Province in these charges against the police during the past year is, in fact, entirely due to the complaints made in that district, where the police have had for several years past to contend against this form of harassment. The small number of convictions must be accepted as evidence of the generally unfounded or exaggerated character of the complaints.

18. Inspections—The Inspector-General spent 111 days on tour, and the Deputy Inspectors-General 174 and 167 days respectively. All the districts except Mymensingh, Manbhum, and Purnea were inspected by one of these officers. These three districts have been inspected since the beginning of the year. The Inspector-General has, as requested, shown in tabular form for each class of crime the number of cases investigated locally by the District Superintendent of Police. Burdwan, Midnapore, Dinajpur, Pabna, Patna, Champaran, and Manbhum show the largest number of such cases, while Murshidabad and Cuttack show no cases locally investigated. The Inspector-General should obtain an explanation in regard to these two districts.

19. Suicides and accidental deaths—The number of suicides throughout the Province was 3,154, showing an increase of 212 over the total of the previous year. There was also a large increase in the number of accidental deaths, which showed a total of 46,061 against 29,351 in 1896. Deaths from drowning show an excess of over 13,000. No cause has been assigned for this extraordinary increase. In 25 cases enquiry showed that cases of murders had been reported as accidental deaths.

20. Crime—The following table shows the incidence of cognizable crime according to Divisions, excluding nuisance cases and cases not investigated—

Division	Police	Population	Cognizable crimes (minus public and local nuisances serial No 87) actually investigated		Proportion of police to population	Proportion of police to cases of cognizable crime investigated		Proportion of cases of cognizable crime investigated to population

The total number of cases of cognizable crime was 106,561 as compared with 83,515 in 1896. The proportion of police to cognizable cases was highest in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, where there was one policeman to every 2,111 and 2,126 of the population respectively. It was lowest in the Dacca Division, where one policeman was employed to every 4,014 of the population. The statement in paragraph 46 of the Report comparing the proportion of police to population and to cognizable crime reported and investigated in the various Provinces of India shows that more work is required of the police in Bengal. The strain on the force must have been very severe in a period of exceptionally heavy crime such as the past year has been.

21. Police tests.—The following figures show the working results during the past three years according to the prescribed tests.—

		Percentage of cases investigated to cases reported	Percentage of cases ending in conviction to cases decided	Percentage of persons convicted to persons sent up for trial
Classes I to V taken together	1895	...	67	74

These figures show no very marked difference in the work of the three years.

There was in cognizable crime an increase of 37,628 cases and in non-cognizable crime a decrease of 3,669 cases. Both were the natural outcome of the abnormally high prices which prevailed throughout the year. The increase in cognizable crime consisted largely of petty offences against property. It was noticed in the Resolution on the Annual General Administration Report of the Jail Department that the small proportion of persons previously convicted showed that many people belonging to the non criminal classes of the population had been driven into crime by the universally prevailing high prices. For the decrease in non cognizable crime the true but reasonable explanation may be given, that in a season of scarcity and pressure the people refrain in many cases from incurring the expense of prosecuting in the Courts.

23 The incidence of crime, both cognizable and non-cognizable, and the proportion of crime to population in each Division, are shown in the following statement —

24. The following table shows the number of cases declared false, and the result of prosecutions in each of the last five years —

	1893	1894	1895	1896	1897.
Number of cases declared to be false	6,103	6,694	6,735	6,891	6,141
Percentage of ditto ditto	4.4	4.7	4.9	4.6	3.3
Number of cases in which prosecution was instituted	725	695	584	627	600
Percentage of prosecutions resulting in conviction	37.2	29.5	33.3	35.2	37.8

The diminution in the percentage of false cases in 1897 is, no doubt, due mainly to the large increase in the number of petty offences against property—a class of cases in which the percentage is always small.

The extraordinarily large number of cases in the Mymensingh district ordered to be excluded from the returns as arising out of a mistake of law or fact calls for enquiry. The Commissioner will be requested to report whether there have been errors in classification, or whether this feature of the returns is due to some local characteristic of the people.

The percentage of cases reported by the police as false but declared by the Magistrate to be true was 8.3 against 8.5 in the previous year. The large number of petty offences against property in which there could be no reasonable occasion for doubt would naturally tend to lower this percentage.

The number of prosecutions for bringing false cases varied from 33 in Midnapore and 30 in Gaya to 2 in Malda and 3 each in Dinajpur and Jalpaiguri. The percentage of successful prosecutions for the Province was 37.02. The use made of the provisions of section 560 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was nowhere large. In Bankura, Jalpaiguri, and Pabna, no compensation was granted under this section. Mymensingh again heads the list in the number of false cases, which was 345. Only eight prosecutions were instituted, in three of which convictions were obtained. The proportion of prosecutions to the total number of false cases for the whole Province shows a slight increase, but is still far short of what is needed for the effectual checking of this crime. The advisability of prosecuting in all such cases in which there is some prospect of success should be always borne in mind by the Magistrates before whom the reports of the cases come.

25 Abstention from enquiry by the police under section 157, Criminal Procedure Code—The following table shows the extent to which use has been made by the police of this section in respect of cases of house-breaking and theft in each of the last four years:—

The figures show that in burglary cases particularly attention has been paid to the orders of Government, reiterated in the Resolution of last year, which pointed out the inadvisability of abstaining from enquiry when the offender may be presumed to have had some experience in crime, and the advantage which accrues from a visit to the spot, even when the chance of success appears remote, through the intimation which the bad characters thus receive that the authorities are on the alert and the consequent fear that they may suffer on a repetition of crime. Mr Henry observes that enquiry might with advantage be refused in a larger number of theft cases. In this observation the experience of the Lieutenant-Governor leads him strongly to agree. When the thefts are petty and there is reason to believe that they are not the work of professional criminals, it is not desirable to press the police to make enquiries. The enquiry ends in nothing, and there is a good deal of needless harassment, which reflects itself in a concealment of crime. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad if Magistrates will give this matter their attention in the current year. On the other hand, in all cases in which there is reason to believe that such offences were committed by professional criminals, it is just as desirable that the authority to refuse investigation should be most sparingly exercised. The police are then on the track of men who make their living by theft and burglary, and every clue which gives the smallest hopes of success, must, in the interests of the community at large, be patiently and studiously followed up.

On examination of the figures by districts, the best results are again seen in Howrah, where the percentage of convictions was 93 6 The worst results are shown by Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, and Tippera These figures, however, include cases of local and public nuisances in class VI, which are necessarily very numerous in large towns, like Howrah, and in which the percentage of conviction is always very high Exclusive of this class of cases, the police arrested 59,887 persons, of whom 38,152, or 63 per cent, were convicted, against 46,558 arrests and 26,909 convictions, or 58 per cent, in the previous year. The number of persons arrested under orders of the Magistrates was 22,104, of whom 6,382, or 29 per cent., were convicted On these figures Mr Henry remarks that the police appear to exercise their powers of arrest with better discretion than the Magistracy It must, however, be borne in mind that, apart from those cases in which the police arrest red-handed, they in all cases have the opportunity of making full enquiry before the arrest of an accused The Magistrate, on the other hand, does not, as a rule, hear more than the complainant's statement, and in the classes of cases in which he issues process preliminary enquiry by the police is generally undesirable It is, however, undoubtedly the case that process is frequently issued by Magistrates without adequate examination of the complainant, and this is a defect on which, the Lieutenant-Governor admits with regret, yearly homilies have been preached to the Magistracy with no visible effect These homilies must, nevertheless, be persistently continued, for careless examination of complainants is a perpetual cause of unnecessary harassment to people needlessly dragged before the Courts The percentage of persons convicted on commitment to the Court of Session throughout the Province was 56·5 against 58 2 in the previous year Darbhanga and Jalpaiguri show the best result, while in Singhbhum only 20 per cent were convicted. The uniformly poor results obtained in the districts of the Chota Nagpur Division call for notice, and should engage the attention of the local officers. So far as they may be due to want of completeness in the preliminary enquiries or delays in the trial of the cases after commitment, there should be prompt remedy.

In the matter of recovering stolen property, the police attained much the same measure of success as in the previous year, the percentage of property recovered to property stolen being 17 9 against 17 2 in 1896

27 Analysis of crime by classes—The following table shows, class by class, the number of true cognizable cases reported during 1897, and each of the seven preceding years.—

It will be observed that the increase in crime last year occurred in every class, but was especially marked in classes III and V, which include burglaries and thefts.

28. Class I—(Offences against the State and public tranquility)—In offences relating to coin there was a decrease of 28 in the number of cases reported true Out of 112 persons sent up for trial in connection with 76 of these cases, 70 were convicted Forty-eight of the cases related to the uttering and passing of quicksilvered pice, which is usually a petty fraud There were three cases of counterfeiting and 10 of possessing counterfeit coins or moulds Offences relating to coin are specially prevalent in the district of Khulna, and success, creditable to the District Superintendent and his subordinates, was obtained in dealing with them last year. A serious case of wholesale forgery of Government currency notes in a village of the Nadia district was successfully worked out by the Calcutta and the district police.

Rioting cases rose from 2,363 to 3,203 in number, or by 39 per cent. The increase is most unsatisfactory, especially as it occurred in all Divisions. The quarterly returns for the present year show still higher figures as compared with those for the corresponding periods of last year, and it is necessary that the causes of this marked increase should be enquired into and the requisite measures considered and taken. The Commissioners will, therefore, be requested to take up the matter without delay in respect to each district where an unusual number of rioting cases has occurred, and advise the Magistrates as to the preventive and police measures which should be adopted. The Dacca Division again heads the list with 688 cases, the next being the Presidency Division with 563 true cases. The number of cases under section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, was 2,219 and 281, respectively, in the two Divisions. In the Presidency Division the Commissioner thinks that sufficient use was not made of the preventive sections of the Code, and his opinion appears correct. In the Burdwan Division there was a serious riot among mill-hands of the Standard Jute Mill in Hooghly. The increase in rioting in both the 24-Parganas and Khulna was marked. Orders have recently issued directing the gradual reduction of gun-licenses in the latter district, especially in the Morrelganj thana, where guns have been used in riots. Of the numerous riots in the Dacca Division, 12 in Faridpur, 9 in Backergunge, 3 in Dacca, and 2 in Mymensingh were attended with fatal results. In Backergunge it is stated that village head-men have been employed with success for the settlement of petty disputes.

29. Serious offences against the person.—The total number of true cases reported under this head was 5,950 against 5,417 in 1896, the increase being 533 cases. The head "Grievous hurt" shows a decrease of 63 cases, and four other heads small reductions, while an increase appears against all the remaining heads, the largest being under the head "Kidnapping." The increase under this head from 316 cases in the previous year to 699 cases in the year under review is explained by Mr. Henry to be due to complaints relating to marriage being preferred as cases of kidnapping, in order to make them cognizable by the police. There were 422 cases of murder of all kinds during the year, or one in excess of the number in the preceding year, and sentence of death was passed on 19 persons, being 2 less than in the previous year.

The result of the special measures taken to deal with the serious increase of murder, especially by gunshot, in Backergunge should be noticed here. The measures have been increase of the investigating staff, the institution of proceedings for the demand of security for good behaviour from persons credibly believed to be professional assassins or their associates, and, most important of all, the complete disarmament of the district. In 1896, 380 and last year 331 persons were required to furnish security, failing which they were kept in imprisonment. A special report submitted by the Magistrate in April last furnishes the following statistics of murders —

These figures show that murders by gunshot fell off from 14 in 1894 and 21 in 1895 to 13 in 1896, and that not one was committed in the past year. A marked reduction has simultaneously occurred in ordinary murders, that is, murders other than by gunshot, there having been only 28 cases in 1897 against 38 in 1896, 49 in 1895, 32 in 1894, and 35 in 1893. The anticipation of some people that the withdrawal of guns, while reducing the number of murders by gunshot would increase those committed by other means has thus been falsified, and the measure of disarmament adopted by Sir Alexander Mackenzie has been fully justified by the results. The objection urged against complete disarmament that the people would be deprived of protection against injury to life and crops from wild animals has been met by the supply of Government guns and ammunition to village panchayets, and this expedient has attained its object. The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in recording his appreciation of the energy and judgment displayed in this matter by the District Magistrate, Mr. Beatson Bell, and the District Superintendent, Mr. Ryland, now employed elsewhere. The special Inspectors have also done excellent work.

The attention of the Magistrates is drawn to the remarks of the Inspector-General of Police on the subject of drugging cases. In all such cases prosecuting officers should press for trial under section 394, Indian Penal Code.

30 Class III—(Serious offences against property)—The number of cases under this head was 51,949 against 38,764 in 1896, an increase of 13,185 cases or of 34 per cent. having thus occurred. The abnormally high prices of the year doubtless contributed to this increase, the bulk of which (12,504 cases) was under the head of lurking house-trespass or house-breaking. Out of the total of 51,949 cases convictions were obtained in 4,132, or 7.9 per cent. Of 10,720 persons sent up for trial, 6,172, or 57.5 per cent., were convicted. The more serious feature under this head is the very large rise in cases of dacoity. In 1896 there were 328 cases in 1897 the number rose to 549. After allowance for 135 cases of grain dacoities, which only technically fall under section 395, Indian Penal Code, there still remains the very large increase of 76 cases of professional dacoity. The cases were most numerous in the Chota Nagpur Division, where the number rose from 37 cases in 1896 to 127 cases in 1897. This is undoubtedly in part attributable to the famine, which affected this Division, and drove the lower classes to crime, many of those concerned being inhabitants of the adjoining native States. After Chota Nagpur, Rajshahi shows the worst result. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to see that the improvement of the village watch is now receiving more attention in that Division. There was also a marked increase in the Bhagalpur Division, for the greater part of which the Sonthal Parganas and Purnea were responsible. Since the beginning of the present year the Purnea district has been the scene of a very great outbreak of dacoity, no fewer than 44 cases having occurred up to the end of June. The matter has been dealt with by the Government, and the Officiating Inspector-General has taken special measures

In connection with this subject Mr Henry remarks —

"It is said, and this is an allegation made by the witnesses examined by the Police Committee appointed in 1877, that the punishment meted out by the Courts is not sufficiently severe to prove deterrent, and having regard to the great terror caused to law-abiding people by the commission of dacoity, and to the heinousness of the offence, that the maximum sentence permissible by law should be more often passed. Of those convicted of dacoity during the past year, 233 were sentenced to imprisonment for three years or less, 212 to periods of between 3 and 5 years, 183 to periods of between 5 and 7 years, 140 to more than 7 years imprisonment, 3 were sentenced to death, and 1 to whipping."

The last year and, to some extent, the preceding year have been exceptional. It remains to be seen, when the returns of the present year are brought under review, to what extent this large increase in dacoity has been due to temporary causes. In any case, it is incumbent on the police to direct their energies specially to the checking of this serious crime, and the Lieutenant-Governor knows that the matter will receive the fullest attention at the hands of the Inspector-General.

31. Class IV, Minor offences against the person.—There was an increase from 2,271 to 3,106 offences under this head. The result of prosecutions before the Courts was practically the same as in the previous year, and no remarks on this class of cases are needed.

32. Class V, Minor offences against property.—True cases under this head increased from 82,433 in 1896 to 117,564 in 1897, that is, by 35,031, or 43.6 per cent. Theft and burglary account respectively for 13,884 and 12,504 cases out of the increase. The generally petty nature of the crime under the former head is indicated by the fact that in nearly 40 per cent of the cases, the property stolen consisted of vegetable produce. In burglaries, again, property was reported not to have been stolen in 40.6 per cent of the cases, while in 24.4 per cent the value of the articles taken was under Rs 5. With the return of normal seasons there should be a considerable reduction in this crime from the figures of the past year. Mr. Henry points out that, notwithstanding the large increase in the past year, the incidence of burglary, if reporting is accurate, is still very low compared with the neighbouring North-Western Provinces, where, with a population numbering only two thirds of that of Bengal, 122,000 cases were registered against 48,782 in this Province.

33. Class VI, All other cases.—The total number of cases under this head was 46,128, comprising 33,948 cases of public and local nuisances and 12,180 of all other kinds. There was a decrease of 904 cases under the Arms Act and an increase of 954 cases of bad livelihood. The number of prosecutions for bad livelihood was 4,904, of which over 79 per cent were successful. The largest number of cases was instituted in Backergunge, and next came Mymensingh, followed by Gaya, Patna, Manbhum, Midnapore, and Champaran. In last year's Resolution the Government commented on the small number of bad livelihood cases tried in the villages of the accused in many districts. The proportion of cases so tried in the past year was very little larger than in the preceding year. The Lieutenant-Governor expects that, the extra work involved by the famine being now over, the orders of the Government in this matter will be more carefully complied with. A local trial is desirable not only with a view to procuring all possible evidence against the accused without harassment of witnesses, but also in justice to the accused himself, who thus has the fullest opportunity of producing any evidence there may be to rebut the allegations of the prosecution. The preventive provisions relating to this class of cases have been enlarged in the new Code of Criminal Procedure by additions to the classes of habitual offenders against whom proceedings could formerly be taken, and their application has been simplified by the empowering of the Courts to deal in the same enquiry with two or more persons if they have been associated in habitual crime.

At the close of the year there were under surveillance 49,499 registered bad characters against 43,810 at the end of the previous year. The system of surveillance has been legalised by the new Code. Rules for working it are under the consideration of this Government, and will be submitted for the approval of the Government of India.

34 Railway Police—The number of cases, cognizable and non cognizable, reported to the Railway Police during the year was 4,430 against 3,813 in the preceding year. Of these 2,753 cases were declared true, and 1,677 were sent up for trial, resulting in the conviction of 1,918 persons. There were 708 accidents during the year, in which 326 persons were killed, as compared with 626 accidents and 216 deaths in the previous year. Twenty-one cases of obstruction were reported against 32 in the preceding year. In 13 cases prosecutions were instituted, of which 5 ended successfully. Most of the cases were petty.

35 Working of the Arms Act.—There was a considerable falling off in cases under the Arms Act, only 1,312 having been instituted against 2,216 in the preceding year. The number of prosecutions varies greatly from year to year, the fluctuations being apparently attributable, partly, to difference of opinion among the Magistrates as to the necessity for severity, and, partly, to the fact that the institution of many prosecutions in one year renders licensees more careful to avoid prosecution in the next year, by applying for renewal in due time. As remarked in last year's Resolution, while it is necessary to insist on punctuality, unintentional omission to apply for renewal of licenses should not be treated with severity. The Lieutenant Governor trusts that officers have given due attention to the enforcement of the orders for the marking of guns, as they were reminded to do in the same Resolution. Orders will shortly be issued to ensure the more accurate accounting for every license in a district at the end of each year.

36. Non-cognizable crime—The total of non cognizable crime for 1897, as compared with that for 1896, is shown in the following table—

		Number of cases		Increase	Decrease
Class		1896	1897
I	...	9,692	9,127	..	565
II	..	26	23		3
III	..	849	721		128
IV	.	63,164	60,289		2,875
V	.	11,497	11,931	434
VI	.	13,879	14,229	350
Special laws		30,332	29,450		882
Total	.	129,489	125,770	784	4,453

Net decrease 3,669

There is a total net decrease of 3,669 cases, which occurred principally under class IV, and is due to a very large falling off in the number of cases of assault. In the table showing the percentage of persons actually appearing before the Courts to persons summoned, over 100 per cent is entered against several districts. If this is due to the inclusion of persons in cases sent up by the police as cognizable and declared by the Courts to be non-cognizable, the practice of including such persons should be discontinued. The percentages should be calculated only for the cases in which complaints are filed before the Courts. In the two districts of Jalpaiguri and Monghyr, the acquittals exceeded the convictions in number. It seems clear that in both districts, and in others also, too little discrimination was exercised in the issue of process by Magistrates who take cognizance of cases on petition of complaint.

37. Remands.—The following table compares the percentage of remands in cases sent up for trial by the police in each of the last three years—

YEAR.	Percentage of cases disposed of at first hearing	Percentage of cases remanded once	Percentage of cases remanded twice	Percentage of cases remanded three times	Percentage of cases remanded four times	Percentage of cases remanded five times	Percentage of cases remanded six times	Percentage of cases remanded more than six times	Pending
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
1895	34.3	23.4	15.1	9.0	6.0	3.5	2.2	3.0	2.7
1896	33.1	23.7	15.3	10.3	6.6	3.7	2.3	3.2	3.4
1897	34.5	23.7	15.3	10.4	6.2	3.9	2.3	3.5	3.0

The percentages for the past year are, on the whole, creditable to the officers in view of the heavy work due to the famine. In some districts, however, the proportion of cases disposed of at the first two hearings was very low and the Lieutenant Governor, while refraining from censure in consideration of the difficulties of the year, trusts that the returns for the current year will show a distinct improvement. The average period of detention of under-trial prisoners has been commented on in the Government Resolution reviewing the Annual Administration Report of the Jail Department.

38. Reconvictions of old offenders.—In prosecutions for offences against property, enquiry is made to ascertain whether the offender has been previously convicted of similar offence. Out of 24,970 persons convicted of these offences during the year, the police were successful in proving previous convictions against 3,243, or 12·9 per cent. The percentages of reconvictions proved in 1896 in Bombay and the North-Western Provinces were 8·7 and 15·2 respectively. The percentage of 1897 exceeds any previously attained in Bengal, and the Lieutenant-Governor does not doubt that there will be still further improvement in the coming year. The police can render no better service to the community than by the discovery and removal of professional criminals.

39. Anthropometry.—During the year the Central Office in Calcutta succeeded in identifying 492 persons whom the local police were unable to recognize. In the previous three years the number of such identifications was 143, 207 and 334 respectively. Of the identifications effected during the year, a large proportion was obtained by means of finger-prints on the remarkable system originated and perfected by Mr. Henry himself. The favourable report of a Committee appointed to examine this system was noticed in last year's Resolution. Considerable progress has been made in substituting it for anthropometry, and Mr. Henry estimates that in the present year two out of three identifications will be effected by it. The simplicity and certainty of the process give it a very great advantage over the rival system of anthropometry and its aid to the police will be yearly more valuable.

40. Character of Officers.—Mr. Henry's excellent work for many years as head of the Police Department in this Province was lately recognized by the bestowal of a decoration. Messrs Pratt and Masters have filled efficiently the posts of Deputy Inspector-General, and the work of Mr. Showers, as Personal Assistant to the Inspector General, is again commended by Mr. Henry. The names of the District Superintendents, Assistant Superintendents, and Inspectors mentioned in paragraph 44 of the Report will be noted in the Appointment Department.

ORDERED that copies of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Police, the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, and to all Commissioners of Divisions, for information.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. W. BOLTON,

RESOLUTION ON THE FINAL REPORT ON THE SETTLEMENT OF
THE KOLHAN GOVERNMENT ESTATE IN DISTRICT SINGHBHUM

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE

RESOLUTION No 3020

Dated Calcutta, the 5th September 1898

READ—

Letter No 516A, dated the 25th May 1898, and enclosures, from the Board of Revenue, submitting, with their remarks, the Settlement Officer's Completion Report on the settlement of the Kolhan Government Estate in Singhbhum

The settlement of the Kolhan Government Estate in Singhbhum was commenced in February 1895 and brought to a conclusion in March 1897, the operations being completed within the sanctioned time and at less than the sanctioned expense, the result reflects much credit on the Settlement Officer, Mr Craven. The final report was submitted in June 1897, but owing to delay in printing and in the correction of the proof, it did not come before the Board until May 1898.

2 The previous settlement of the Kolhan Government Estate was concluded by Mr. Hayes, the then Deputy Commissioner of Singhbhum, for a term of 30 years, with effect from the 1st April 1867. The question of effecting a re-settlement was taken up by Government in 1894, and in Resolution No. 2559 of the 8th May of that year, the Board of Revenue were requested to submit proposals for fresh proceedings, which were received with their letter No. 974A., dated the 6th August 1894. Mr Grimley, Commissioner of Chota Nagpur, in submitting his recommendations, gave a history of the Kols of Singhbhum, which it is essential to bear in mind in considering the results of a resettlement of their lands, and described their position as follows —

“Our relations with the Kols of Singhbhum date from 1820. At that time Singhbhum was an asylum for fugitive offenders from the bordering districts of Chota Nagpur, and plundering excursions were frequently made by these people, Larka Kols, as they were called, into neighbouring territory. They thus became a thorn in the side of the Raja of Porahat, to whom the whole of Singhbhum was nominally subject, as well as to the Kuar of Seraikella and the Thakur of Kharsawan, who had succeeded in separating themselves from Porahat and acquiring supremacy over a large tract of country. The British Government, wishing to put an end to the plundering excursions, formed relations with the Raja of Porahat and, on his acceptance of certain terms, assisted him and the Seraikella and Kharsawan chiefs in bringing into submission the Larka Kols and causing them in 1821 to agree for the first time to pay a rent of 8 annas per ‘plough’ or yoke of oxen.

“The following is the form of agreement —

“‘First — We acknowledge ourselves to be subject to the British Government and engage to be loyal and obedient to its authority.

“‘Secondly — We agree to pay to our chief or zamindar 8 annas for each plough for the five years next ensuing, and afterwards one rupee if our circumstances admit it.

“‘Thirdly — We engage to keep the road through our parganas open and safe for all descriptions of travellers, and, if robbery takes place to deliver the thief to justice and account for the property stolen.

“‘Fourthly — We will allow persons of all castes to settle in our villages and afford them protection, we will also encourage our children to learn the Uriya or Hindi tongues.

“‘Lastly — If we should be oppressed by our chiefs or zamindars, we will not resort to arms for redress, but complain to officers commanding the troops on our frontier, or to some other competent authority.’

“The arrangement, however, turned out to be a farce, for, as events proved, the chiefs failed in bringing the Kols under the influence of their control, and from 1830 to 1836 the latter resisted all attempts to realise rents from them, and waged war on all their neighbours. The British Government then resolved to interfere and to take their territory under its direct control, and thus in 1837, 23 Kol purs or parganas previously belonging to the three chiefs above mentioned, were detached from their estates, and, with four purs taken from Moharbhany, brought under direct management under the name of the Kolhan. The Kols eventually agreed to pay the rent of 8 annas per plough that had been previously fixed, and the total assessment amounted to Rs. 8,000, the number of villages being 622.

"In 1855, without altering the principle of assessment, but by simply doubling the rate per plough, a net revenue of Rs 17,445 was obtained, and a settlement for 12 years concluded. The number of villages at this settlement was ascertained to be 786

In 1867 a radical change was made in the mode of assessment in all the purs, except the four noted on the margin (in which, owing to the backward state of the cultivators the old system was continued), and with the consent of the Kols it was agreed—

- (1) that their lands should be measured,
- (2) that the system of assessment per hal should be continued, but that the area of land contained in each hal should be fixed, and that such area should contain an admixture of 1st, 2nd and 3rd class lands,
- (3) that the rate per hal should be enhanced from one to two rupees,
- (4) that the settlement should be for 30 years

"Formerly a hal of land was a very uncertain quantity, being supposed to contain sufficient land for five maunds of seed to be sown in it—a mode of assessment that was probably suited to the nomadic habits of the Kols, but in 1867 the area of each hal was fixed at 12,500 square yards, or at 7 bighas 16 cottahs and 4 chitacks of the standard bigha

"The rate of Rs 2 per hal assessed in the settlement of 1867 thus gave a little over 4 annas per bigha, or 12 annas per acre. The gross assessment amounted to Rs 64,528-14, and the net assessment paid to the Government to Rs. 46,247, the difference being paid as remuneration to the Mankis, Mundas and village accountants at the rate of 10, 16 $\frac{1}{2}$  and 2 per cent respectively

"More than a quarter of a century has now elapsed since the last settlement, and during this long interval the following important changes have taken place in the district —

- (1) The creation of a Government Forest Department and of large Government forest revenues
- (2) The protection of unreserved forests by the Deputy Commissioner
- (3) The opening of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway
- (4) The influx of a large number of foreigners
- (5) The spread of primary education

"The reservation of forests by the Government has served to take 523 square miles of the area of the Kolhan out of the occupation of the Kols, and the protection of unreserved forests by the Deputy Commissioner has further restricted the area of cultivation, and thus indirectly served to check the nomadic habits of the people and to bind them within the limits of their villages, so that they have now come to attach a greater value to their lands and learn to bestow more labour and care on their cultivation than they ever did in former times, while unforested culturable wastes, which were previously neglected because it was less troublesome and more profitable to cultivate forest-covered lands, have been brought under cultivation, with the result that there has now been an enormous increase in the cultivated area

"The railway has opened out the country, and the cultivators have now found that the demand for the products of their lands from other parts of the country is large, and this had led them not only to cultivate their lands with greater care, but to extend the areas of their cultivation. In my crime report for 1893, in accounting for the increase in the number of thefts in the district of Singhbhum, I have remarked how the facilities for export afforded by the railway had taught the people the value of their surplus stores, and led them to prosecute even petty pilferers, who formerly would not have been interfered with. The last census returns show that whereas in 1867, out of a total population of 118,281 in the Kolhan, 93,968, or about 80 per cent, were Kols, in 1891 the population of the Kolhan rose to 229,188 souls, out of whom 163,966, or only 71.5 per cent, were Kols. These figures indicate that during the 24 years between 1867 and 1891, not only has there been a large increase in the population of the Kolhan, but that a large proportion of this increase is due to the influx of non-aborigines from the Tributary States and Orissa. The number of these non-aborigines as found in the census records is 65,220, out of which no fewer than 63,035 are Hindus. The Deputy Commissioner of Singhbhum says that, as the Kolhan is a purely agricultural tract, it is not difficult to conceive how very large must be the cultivation over that of 1867 when there has been so enormous an increase in the population, and it is not surprising that the Kols have improved their cultivation with the examples set them by the careful Uriya Gowala cultivators, who are now so largely scattered among them

"Primary education, too, has done much towards civilizing the Kols, for instead of the wild and turbulent race of former times, they are now a peaceful and industrious people who give very little trouble to the authorities"

3. In instituting the recent settlement operations one of the first points for decision was whether the country was sufficiently advanced to require a field survey, on which point Sir Charles Elliott had entertained doubts. The measurements at the settlement by Dr. Hayes were made after the native fashion, and only rough chittas and sketch maps were prepared, the system having been adopted through fear of possible disturbance consequent on the introduction of foreign ameens, before introducing any innovation it was therefore considered desirable to discuss the matter openly with the people—a procedure appreciated by them, and in conformity with local traditions and usage. The point was discussed at a conference held between the Deputy Commissioner and the leading Mankis and Mundas, and the proposal to make a cadastral survey and record of rights was unanimously adopted by the people present. At the same time two other important points were brought under discussion: the desirability of assessing the gora or uplands which hitherto, by the universal custom prevalent in Singhbhum, had escaped assessment, and the question of reducing the rates of commission paid to Mankis, Mundas and village accountants, which were unusually high. Mr Grimley personally was in favour of a slight increase on the rates of assessment of bat and bera (low-lying rice) lands, a method of enhancement to which the people were accustomed and which had been adopted at previous settlements, and with an increase of two annas per bigha on the estimated large increase of the assessable area, anticipated the realisation of a net revenue of Rs 99,978 even after retaining the commission to Mankis and Mundas at the existing rates. The Kols present at the conference, after some wavering, eventually accepted a light assessment upon gora lands, and the question of the reduction of the rates of commission paid was not pressed.

4. The system of assessing only rice lands has hitherto prevailed in parts of Chota Nagpur, the Sonthal Parganas, Angul and other remote primitive regions, and it has everywhere been the policy adopted in recent settlements to get rid of it gradually without exciting discontent and opposition. The system is curious for this reason, that, in order to render the land fit for the cultivation of rice, the tenant has to embank it at his own expense, so as to retain water for irrigating the rice, and, having reclaimed it from jungle and embanked it, he has to pay rent for it; at the same time he may, without payment of rent, cultivate as much upland as he pleases with crops that do not require so much irrigating and need no embanking and little or no outlay on his part. The apparent anomaly is probably due to the facts (1) that the area of land which can be terraced or embanked and rendered fit for rice cultivation in such regions is limited; (2) that, when a man has terraced or embanked a particular plot, it becomes more valuable than unembanked land, and, if he does not pay rent for and so secure an occupancy right in it, somebody else will offer rent to the landlord who will oust the original reclaimer of the soil and let the land to another, and (3) that it pays the landlord to encourage reclamation and embankment of such lands, and consequent permanent cultivation, by giving the tenant, who thus incurs an outlay on embankments, the right to cultivate upland or unembanked land free of rent. The right to cultivate uplands free of rent is in fact an incident of the holding of the embanked land at a certain rent. It is part of the consideration for which the tenant reclaims the jungle, turns it into rice lands, and incurs an outlay of labour and money in rendering it fit for profitable cultivation of rice. The system is not, therefore, so unreasonable as it seems at first sight, and great caution was felt to be necessary in suddenly or arbitrarily changing it. As time goes on and population and competition for land and settled cultivation increase, the conditions are gradually reversed. The uplands in the neighbourhood of village sites get manured, the profits arising from them are enhanced, and consequent competition for them encouraged, with the result that in the highly cultivated and thickly populated parts of the country, the uplands round the village sites (the gora lands of Chota Nagpur) are found to be paying higher rents than the outlying low rice lands. Concrete examples of the different stages of this process of development may be found in different parts of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, for example, in the Kolhan rice lands are assessed, and uplands pay nothing, in the north of Darbhanga along the Nepal frontier, rice lands still pay higher rents than the manured areas round the village sites, though the latter do also pay rent, while in the south of Darbhanga and Muzaffarpur, where the population is dense, cultivation intense, and competition for land great, we find the uplands paying far higher rents than the low outlying rice lands. These facts indicate that what may appear at first sight to be anomalous and unreasonable in the agricultural system of the Kolhan and other similar primitive tracts is in reality suited to the requirements of local conditions, that it is the result of the local history, and that innovations on the local system that may on a priori grounds appear to strangers to the locality obviously reasonable may strike the cultivators as harsh and unjust. In the introduction of any innovation in the customary methods of assessment, careful handling was therefore required.

5 Feeling this, Mr Stevens, who was at the time Member of the Board of Revenue, and had been for several years Commissioner of Chota Nagpur, visited the Kolhan before the survey was begun for the purpose of consulting the local officers and headmen. The results of his visit were recorded in the Board's letter No. 974A, dated 6th August 1894, in which the following recommendations were made, that—

- (1) the whole work should be done by a single officer subordinate to the Deputy Commissioner and directly responsible to him, he being in his turn responsible to the Commissioner and to the Board,
- (2) if possible, the amins should be entirely Kols, and if a sufficient number of Kols were not available, that the rest should be Sonthals,
- (3) areas should be calculated, and attestation should be made on the spot,
- (4) no attempt should be made at soil rates, soil maps, or any differential or scientific system of assessment, but the existing method of fixing a uniform rate throughout the Kolhan should be continued, the understanding being that each rayat was to have a fair share of the acknowledged classes of land,
- (5) the local bigha of 2,500 square yards should be retained,
- (6) no parchas should be issued, as being likely to be of no use till the areas had been calculated and the revenue assessed,
- (7) all disputes, whether of possession or of boundaries, should be referred for decision to the Mankis and Mundas just as the people themselves would naturally refer them, and only when the village heads failed to decide them should the Superintendent interfere,
- (8) the rates of commission to Mankis, Mundas and accountants should remain unchanged,
- (9) the police powers of Mankis and Mundas should not be taken away, as it was not desirable to cause discontent by diminishing their status and influence, and consequently their power to decide disputes and collect revenue,
- (10) the gora lands should not be assessed, or at least the decision to assess them should be postponed,
- (11) liberal allowance should be made in the case of holdings found to contain areas in excess of those recorded at the last settlement.
- (12) the revenue should be collected in two kuts;
- (13) the question of maintenance of the records should be borne in mind from the first, and the simplest possible method of maintaining them with fair efficiency, should be adopted.

Sir Charles Elliott accepted these recommendations generally, but was of opinion that there were several details as to which the experience gained as the work went on, might lead to some modifications. The method of assessment of gora or unembanked lands in particular was to be the subject of a separate report as soon as the Settlement Officer was in a position to submit one.

6 The rate report called for by Government was submitted by the Board after Mr Stevens had himself paid a second visit to the Kolhan and consulted the local authorities and village headmen, as a result of which he recommended that the old rate on rice lands of  $6\frac{1}{2}$  annas per local bigha of 2,500 square yards, i.e., Rs 2 per hal of 12,500 square yards, should be allowed to continue, and that a rate of one anna per local bigha should be imposed for the first time on gora lands, in preference to the proposal of the Commissioner, Mr. Grimley, that the rates for rice lands should be raised all round from  $6\frac{1}{2}$  to 8 annas per local bigha, and that gora lands should be left unassessed as before.

These rates are extremely moderate, involving no enhancement of the old rates on rice lands after a settlement of 30 years, and the imposition on gora lands of a nominal rate of only one anna per local bigha, or approximately 2 annas an acre. They were finally agreed to by the Deputy Commissioner, the Settlement Officer, and the people whom Mr Stevens had met at Chaibassa, and Sir Charles Elliott in accepting the Board's recommendations issued the following orders —

- (1) that a rate of one anna per bigha should be imposed on gora lands,
- (2) that the existing rate of rent for bera and bad lands, viz.,  $6\frac{1}{2}$  annas per local bigha of 2,500 square yards, or 12 annas an acre, should be maintained,
- (3) that in the pattas the right should be distinctly reserved to Government to alter the rates of rent at future settlements,
- (4) that where Dikkos (foreigners) had been allowed to come into the country by the connivance of the Mundas (village headmen), and without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner, the rate of rent in each case should be left to the discretion of the Settlement Officer to fix,
- (5) that a provision should be inserted in the record-of-rights and in the patta declaring that the holding was not transferable by gift, sale or mortgage, without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner,
- (6) that the headmen should be required, under the penalty of fine and, possibly after repeated neglect, of dismissal, to report such transfers immediately, when they did occur, to the Deputy Commissioner,
- (7) that pattas should be given to the Mundas and Mankis, each raiyat being furnished with an extract from the settlement rent-roll showing the particulars of his land, i.e., the area, rate, and amount of rent, as they stood at the time of the survey-settlement,
- (8) that the police powers hitherto enjoyed by the Mankis and Mundas should not be taken away

7 Mr. Craven's report gives the results of the recent operations by which effect was given to these orders. The total area of the Kolhan is returned as 1,955 square miles, of which 525 square miles are cultivated, 450 square miles cultivable, 217 square miles not cultivable, 212 square miles protected forests, 531 square miles reserved forests, and 20 square miles lakhuaj. The population has increased during the period of the last settlement from 118,281 in 1867 to 237,320 in 1897. The gross rental has been raised from Rs 64,828 to Rs 1,77,300, or by Rs 1,12,471, of which Rs 88,388 is due to extension of cultivation of bad and bera lands, Rs 17,080 to assessment of gora lands, Rs 6,536 to enhancement of the rents of new foreigners, and Rs 465 to the assessment of homesteads in the occupation of foreigners. The indigenous residents are allowed to hold their homesteads free of rent. The all-round rate of incidence of the new rents is 8 annas  $5\frac{1}{2}$  pies per acre, or 4 annas  $4\frac{1}{2}$  pies per local bigha. The rental is subject to a deduction of Rs 49,772 on account of commission to Mankis, Mundas, and tahsildars or village accountants, at the rate of 10, 16, and 2 per cent respectively on the gross amount collected. In dealing with the percentages of commission allowed to these headmen and village officials under Dr. Hayes' settlement, it was deemed prudent, having regard to the history of the estate, the primitive and wild character of the Kols, and to the fact that Government was introducing innovations on established customs, to be liberal in minor matters, and not to alter the percentages of commission which had been hitherto given. The area of bera and bad (rice) lands has increased from 82,427 acres in 1867 to 194,739 acres during the currency of the last settlement, or by 136.3 per cent. The great extension of cultivation on these lands, which involves an outlay by the cultivator on reclamation generally and especially on embankments, indicates that the people are well off, and tends to show also that the lenient policy adopted in the previous settlement (which has been repeated in this) bore good fruit in the past by extending cultivation, and is likely to bear good fruit in the future. The increase of revenue would at first sight appear to be very great, but the settlement is really very moderate. It has been accepted by the people, and the new rents have been realised in full without difficulty. Theoretically

Government would have been entitled to raise the rates on bad and bera lands largely, on the ground of rise in prices, which amounted to 100 per cent during the currency of the last settlement, while in fact it has imposed no increase in the old rate for rice lands and has assessed (gora) uplands at the nominal rate of one anna per bigha. The nature of the country and people had, however, to be considered, and it was only possible to induce the latter to agree to any innovations in the customary system of assessment, by making proposals which they would be likely to accept as manifestly lenient. The results in this particular case are satisfactory, but the working of the settlement requires at the same time to be closely watched. If experience should show that the tenants cannot pay the large increase of rents now imposed, leniency should be shown in making remissions or reductions in particular cases, but meanwhile the Lieutenant Governor is pleased to confirm the settlement, which will continue in force for 20 years with effect from the 1st April 1897.

8 In paragraphs 141 to 149 of the Settlement Officer's Report, questions of forest conservancy are discussed, on which the Commissioner and the Board have promised a special report which will be awarded by Government.

9 A question has been raised by the Settlement Officer in paragraph 88 of the Report, as to the desirability of making an attempt by executive order, to put some restriction on the local Magh festival, lasting over six weeks, at which drunkenness and licentiousness of every kind are indulged in. At present the festival is observed on different dates in different villages, with the result that the Kols go round from village to village drinking and carousing for the space of about six weeks, and it is therefore proposed to fix by order the same date for all villages, and so to shorten the carnival, as was done with success in the Sonthal Parganas. The Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner are opposed to interference, but the Board consider that the suggestion should not be summarily rejected till the opinion of the Mankis and Mundas has been ascertained. The Lieutenant-Governor, agreeing with the Board, requests that local opinion may be consulted, when, if any action is contemplated, definite proposals should be submitted.

10 Figures are given in paragraphs 135 and 136 of the Report showing the number of sales and mortgages which are ascertained to have taken place since the settlement of 1867. The figures show that while at the last settlement the transfer of holdings to aliens without the consent of the Mankis and Mundas, and the express sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, was considered inadmissible, yet 611 entire holdings were sold, and 1,252 and 1,405 part holdings were sold and mortgaged respectively during the currency of it. In most cases the sales were by verbal agreement and the prices received inadequate, and frequently trivial. With reference to the figures of sales of whole holdings which amount to about 2 per cent, of part holdings comprising about 4 per cent, and of mortgages of part holdings affecting about 4.2 per cent of the total number of holdings, Sir John Woodburn desires to endorse the following remarks which have been made by the Board:—

"These figures show that, while it should not be difficult to maintain the exclusive character of this estate, with little danger of the people generally falling into the hands of foreign money-lenders, nevertheless the practices to be guarded against have begun, and are in some vogue, and will require the constant vigilance of the local officers, specially now that the indigenous chiefs and heads have begun to forget their tribal allegiance, and are in some instances corrupted into conniving at them."

As already noticed, transfer of land by gift, sale, or mortgage, without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner, has been expressly prohibited by a condition in the pattas given at the present settlement, and the headmen have been made responsible for reporting any neglect of these orders.

11. The question of the maintenance of the settlement records of the estate will be dealt with separately. It was originally hoped that the assistance of the Mankis and Mundas would be found sufficient for a system of correction of the records which would be effectual, and at the same time simple and inexpensive. Experience has, however, shown that these men are too illiterate for the work required, and a proposal for a special establishment of amins under a Sub-Deputy Collector, to cost Rs. 6,500 a year, was submitted by the local officers. The Board, however, are not in favour of maintaining so expensive an establishment for the annual record of extensions of cultivation, the profits of which will go to the village officials. The principal object of Government in maintaining the records corrected up to date is to see that the rules regarding the prohibition of transfers, and sale and settlement of holdings with foreigners, are observed, and thus the Board hope to be able to effect at less expense. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Board that this object should be attainable at less expense than is proposed by the local officers, and will await their proposals.

12. In confirming the settlement, the Lieutenant-Governor desires to express his appreciation of the excellent work done by the Settlement Officer, Mr Craven, who was specially chosen for the work, as his service on settlement work in the Sonthal Parganas had given him that experience in dealing with aboriginal people which enabled him to gain their confidence and secure their assistance. The result has fully justified the selection. The Lieutenant-Governor also notes with satisfaction the commendation bestowed on the work of Babu J N Chakravarti and Babu B D. Gupta, Assistant Settlement Officers.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast, g, gloomy, d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers.

Provided that the Local Government may, by notification in the local official Gazette, declare this Act applicable in any other local area as if it were a Presidency-town

XIV of 1882. 3 Sections 523 to 526 of the Code of Civil Procedure are hereby repealed as regards the Presidency towns, and shall be repealed as regards any local area to which this

Act may hereafter be applied by notification under the last foregoing section, with effect from the date of such notification

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

THIS Bill has been drawn on the lines of the English Arbitration Act of 1889, and is the outcome of certain representations received from the Chambers of Commerce at Rangoon, Karachi and Cawnpore. The proposal thus made has been circulated for opinion and has elicited very general support, including that of the Bengal, Madras and Bombay Chambers of Commerce, the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce and the British Indian Association.

2 The case for legislation is based upon the inadequacy of the existing law. The provisions on the subject, which are now to be found in the Contract and Specific Relief Acts, amount to this, that, if a person who has contracted to refer to arbitration any dispute that may arise between him and another, refuses to do so his contract will be a bar to his afterwards bringing a suit in respect of the matter which he originally agreed so to refer. These provisions are, however, of a negative kind and ineffective in practice, for the recalcitrant party has, as a rule, only to remain inactive in order to be beyond the reach of the other party. The Code of Civil Procedure, no doubt, aims at what is required, but the sections in point are defective in that—

(1) they have been held to apply only to disputes which have arisen at the time of the agreement to refer, and not to disputes which may arise in the future, and

(2) they require the agreement to refer either to name the particular arbitrator or to leave the Court to appoint one.

3 The first of these defects has been to some extent removed by the recent Full Bench ruling of the Bombay High Court in the case of Fasulbhoy Mehrali Chinoy v. The Bombay and Persia Steam Navigation Company, Limited, I L R 20 Bom 232, in which it was held that the Code does apply to future disputes. But the second defect remains, with the result that the case of an agreement to refer, for example, "to the arbitration of a person to be nominated by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce," is apparently unprovided for. Moreover, it is uncertain whether the other High Courts will follow the Bombay Judges, while the ruling of the latter itself shows that the provisions of Chapter XXXVII of the Code which it is proposed to supersede, require revision in view of the many conflicting decisions regarding them which are to be found in the Law Reports.

4 The measure is drawn so as to apply in the first instance to the Presidency-towns alone and to be capable of further extension should that be deemed desirable.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE CALCUTTA MEDICAL INSTITUTIONS FOR THE YEAR 1897

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MEDICAL

Calcutta, the 7th September 1898.

RESOLUTION—No 5677 Medl

READ—

The report on the Calcutta Medical Institutions for the year 1897.

Read also—

The report for the year 1896, and the Resolution recorded thereon

THERE has again been considerable delay in the submission of the report, which was not received until the 29th July, though due to Government on the 1st May. The cause of this delay has not been explained

2. In Calcutta the death-rate rose from 35.7 to 36.1 per thousand, and in Howrah from 37.34 to 38.49. The rates in both instances are lower than in 1895, (when they were 39.6 and 42.84 respectively) but higher than the rates recorded during the preceding six years, 1889 to 1894, which were as follows, viz:—

		Calcutta.	Howrah.
1889	...	28.7	22.71
1890	...	29.8	20.62
1891	.	31.5	18.29
1892	...	29.6	23.68
1893	.	29.5	21.41
1894	...	32.9	25.95

It is noteworthy that the death rate during the past three years, 1895, 1896 and 1897 has been in Calcutta largely, and in Howrah very largely, in excess of the rates recorded for a number of years previously. The high current rates were referred to in the Reports for 1895 and 1896, but the continuance for a third year of what the Lieutenant-Governor hopes is an exceptional mortality deserves further examination. The matter falls more particularly within the province of the Calcutta Corporation and the Sanitary Commissioner, whose attention will be directed to it. The increase in Calcutta and Howrah has now been maintained for three successive years, and appears to deserve more attention than it has yet received. The Lieutenant-Governor desires that Surgeon-Colonel Hendley will have the present course of mortality closely watched, and that any unusual feature that may attract his notice may be promptly communicated to Government.

The deaths from cholera in Calcutta and Howrah fell from 3,449 and 1,118 to 2,349 and 395, respectively. In all other diseases, however, Calcutta shows an increase of mortality, while in Howrah there has been a considerable diminution in the number of deaths from bowel-complaints and "Other causes." Small-pox prevailed in an epidemic form during the early part of the year, though to nothing like the extent to which it grew in Calcutta in 1895.

3 The numbers of in-door and out-door patients treated during the last two years in the hospitals of Calcutta and Howrah are compared in the following table—

4 The number of out-door patients rose from 258,794 to 260,806. The South Suburban Hospital, which is now styled the Shambu Nath Pandit Hospital, shows the largest increase (11,516), which is attributed to the growing popularity of the institution, under the constant personal supervision of Surgeon-Major A. Leahy. The Shama Charan Law Hospital shows an increase of 2,735, also evidence of growing popularity. The numbers at the Medical College Hospital rose by 967, at the Presidency General Hospital by 169, and at the Howrah General Hospital by 911. The increase in the Medical College Hospital is ascribed to greater sickness among the poorer classes whose undoubted privations from the high prices prevailing during the year under report led to a still more marked increase at the Campbell Hospital. The Mayo Hospital and the Chitpur Dispensary also show a small increase in the attendance of patients. Against this, the Eden Hospital shows a diminution of 4,621, the Dufferin Victoria Hospital of 2,069, the Sukea Street Dispensary of 730, and the Ezra Hospital of 548. The cause of decrease in the case of the Eden Hospital is reported to be due to errors in calculating the returns of two previous years, old cases having been included among the new patients. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that steps will be taken in future to prevent the recurrence of such mistakes. The considerable falling off in the number of patients at the Dufferin Victoria Hospital was the necessary consequence of the limited accommodation provided in the present temporary building, and the closure of the institution for a month during repairs. The similar closure of the out-door department of the Ezra Hospital in September accounts for the decrease in that institution.

5. There was an increase of 3,308 in the total number of in-door patients treated, and the daily average attendance rose from 1,238.51 to 1,408.16. The increase of 2,833 at the Campbell Hospital, essentially the hospital of the poor, is the most noticeable, and was caused by the large number of pauper patients who were admitted during the famine. A good deal of overcrowding took place during the later months of the year, though additional shed accommodation for 300 patients was provided. On the other hand, in the Presidency General Hospital, the numbers dropped from 2,836 to 2,391, a fall said to be due partly to the temporary closure of certain wards of the hospital and partly to the unpopularity of the institution. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the reconstruction of the hospital and the other reforms under consideration and now almost ripe for introduction will make this institution more popular in future.

6. Including out-door and in-door patients, 177,770 men, 48,981 women and 63,010 children were treated during the year. The total number of men rose by 6,290, and of women by 2,269, while the number of children treated fell by 3,239, the net increase, taking all classes together, being 5,320. The number of Europeans and Hindus treated increased by 242 and 10,159, respectively, while that of Eurasians and Muhammadans diminished by 1,296 and 4,338.

7. Excluding the cases treated in the Eye Infirmary, at which there was one death, due to old age, the death-rate for all the institutions rose from 14.2 to 16.40, the highest mortality recorded for 11 years. This increased death-rate is no doubt correctly attributed to the admission of a large number of persons who came to Calcutta from the famine-stricken districts in a moribund condition. The mortality in the several hospitals varies widely, depending to a great extent upon the class of patients admitted and the condition in which they are brought to the hospital. Thus the death rate for men ranged from 1.20 at the Police Hospital to 23.07 at the Campbell Hospital, while at the Howrah Hospital, where an unusual number of moribund cases, many of them pilgrims, were admitted, it reached 28.35. Similarly, in the case of adult women, the Dufferin Victoria Hospital shows a death-rate of 63 and the Campbell Hospital of 28.63. The death-rate among men and women was higher than last year in the Campbell, Howrah General and South Suburban Hospitals, where many of the patients were brought for treatment in a very emaciated condition. The returns for these very large hospitals have, of course, markedly affected the total statistics.

8. Small-pox was more prevalent during the year, and the number of patients admitted into hospital suffering from the disease rose from 57 to 218. With the exception of one case, which was taken to the Medical College Hospital for educational purposes, the rest—the majority of which were received from Howrah—were treated at the Campbell Hospital. Of these persons, 146 were unprotected, either by vaccination or inoculation, and 60 of them or 41.09 per cent. died. Of 58 persons who had been vaccinated, 4 or 6.89 per cent. died. In two of these the vaccinal scars were faint. The total death-rate was 29.81 against 22.80 in the previous year.

9. The number of admissions to hospital of persons suffering from cholera was 1,200 against 1,007 in the previous year, and 664 cases proved fatal, giving a death-rate of 55.33 per cent. The increase is most marked in the Campbell Hospital, where many cases from the coolie depôts in Eutally were admitted. The attention of the General (Emigration) Department will be invited to this. Among the patients, there were 36 Europeans and Eurasians, of whom 20 died, being a ratio of 55·55 per cent, the same as in the previous year. The Lieutenant Governor notices with satisfaction that there was only one case of local origin in the Campbell Hospital against 26 in 1896, notwithstanding the overcrowding of patients in the institution throughout the year. In the Medical College Hospital, which had enjoyed immunity for several years, two local cases occurred. These could not be traced to any defects in the food or sanitary arrangements, and it is noted that at the time the cases occurred, cholera was prevalent in an adjoining bustee.

10 The admissions to hospitals on account of dysentery increased from 7,778 to 8,415, and the death-rate from 27·81 to 33·81. The Campbell, South Suburban and Howrah General Hospitals show a high rate of mortality, dysentery and diarrhoea were the main causes of mortality among the cases from famine-stricken districts. Diarrhoea patients also rose from 8,020 to 9,836, and the death-rate increased from 39·87 to 40·64. Conversely, in the case of malarial fevers, the admissions fell from 48,982 to 46,025, while the death rate increased from 9·49 to 11·38 per cent. The number of persons treated for venereal diseases increased from 14,216 to 14,523, the more serious cases sharing in the increase. Fifty lepers were admitted into the hospitals during the year against 22 in the previous year, and of these, 35 were dealt with in the Campbell Hospital. There were 27 cases of enteric fever and 869 cases of remittent fever against 23 and 1,075 respectively in 1896. The cases recorded as enteric were more numerous than in any year since 1877, and the Superintendent of the General Hospital, where 22 of the 27 cases were treated, attributes the increase to a tendency to include cases of remittent fever in the category of enteric fever. Of the 27 cases, 26 were Europeans or Eurasians, and only one was a native.

11. The total number of surgical operations increased from 24,067 to 25,745. Death followed in 178 cases, giving a percentage of 70 against 73 in the previous year. The largest number of operations was performed at the Medical College Hospital, where the death-rate was 78 against 86. The figures for the Presidency General Hospital show a reduction of 27 cases. The Lieutenant Governor is glad to notice that, in accordance with the remarks recorded by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, on the occasion of his inspection of the hospital, the objectionable practice of using the operating room for dressing surgical cases has ceased. At the Campbell Hospital the majority of the important operations were performed by the Assistant Surgeon. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Inspector General of Civil Hospitals in thinking that this being a medical school, it is desirable that the Superintendent should perform more surgical operations of importance with his own hands. It is reported that at the Mayo Hospital, where the pupils of a private school attend, the arrangements for teaching them are inadequate. In the absence of any arrangement for the registration of duly qualified medical practitioners in this country, such a defect may have dangerous results, and the Lieutenant-Governor would be glad to receive a further report on the subject, with the views of the Superintendent of the Mayo Hospital. There was a slight increase in the number of operations in the Dufferin Victoria Hospital, viz, from 18 to 31. There were also 1,410 operations in the out-door department of this hospital, but it is reported that details of these operations are not systematically kept. The Inspector-General has doubtless arranged to have these details in future preserved, as without them the figures are useless. The Inspector-General draws attention to the small number of operations performed at this hospital for female diseases, which numbered 15 only during the year under review, and the attention of the Committee will be drawn to the matter. In the Sumbhu Nath Pundit Hospital the number of operations rose from 479 to 2,174. Many of them were of a serious nature. Although there has been some increase in the number of operations at the Howrah General Hospital as compared with the previous year, the Inspector-General is still of opinion that more surgery should be done in this institution. It is reported that the change in the system of recording surgical operations, introduced last year under the orders of the Government of India, is not convenient, since it cannot be ascertained whether medical officers are as active in this important field of work as they ought to be. The Lieutenant-Governor is prepared, if a sufficiently strong case is made out, to recommend a change in the present system on the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals pointing out the difficulties and submitting separate proposals on the subject

12 The total number of women and children admitted at the Eden Hospital as in-door patients fell from 1,579 to 1,535, of whom 220 were Europeans, 501 Eurasians, 701 Hindus and Muhammadans, while 173 belonged to other classes. The death-rate for Europeans and Eurasians was 4.99 and for the others 10.18, the figures for the previous year being 6.47 and 10.50. The mortality among native children was rather high, being 33.64 against 25.36, and is explained by their being brought in, in a moribund condition. Confinement cases decreased from 640 to 616. Of these only 22 proved fatal against 49 in the previous year. There were 24 cases of septicaemia, of which 11 died. None were contracted within the hospital. There were 1,146 operations performed against 3,478 in the previous year. The decrease is attributed to the exclusion from the returns of repetitions in the passing of catheters in the same individual. Of the 13 cases in which ovariotomy was performed, 11 proved successful. His Honour notes with pleasure the success which has attended this difficult operation, as indeed all the operations in abdominal surgery. Brigade-Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel Joubert performed almost all the important operations himself.

13. The increase in the number of in-door patients treated during the year in the Shama Charan Law Eye Hospital was nominal, while the number of out-door patients rose from 13,206 to 15,941. There was a diminution in the daily average attendance, which was 158.45 against 161.34, but the number of operations rose from 597 to 1,197, of which 327 were extractions of lens for cataract. Vision was restored in 83.24 per cent of these cases against 80.40 in the previous year.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure that the work done by trained nurses at the Medical College, Howrah General, Campbell and South Suburban Hospitals is well spoken of by the Medical Officers concerned. The nursing at the Presidency General Hospital is under the superintendence of the Clewer Sisters, whose devotion to their work is spoken of in high terms of praise. The Superintendent has, however, noted a tendency on the part of the nurses to restrict their work to taking temperatures and administering medicines, relegating their other duties to menial servants. Steps have been taken to check this. The whole question of nursing in this hospital has been under the consideration of a Committee, and much needed reforms both here and at the Eden Hospital will, it is hoped, be introduced before long.

15 The invested capital of the Calcutta and Howrah Hospitals shows a decrease from Rs. 5,96,100 to Rs. 5,92,700. Rupees 600 was invested during the year by the Medical College Hospital, and securities to the face value of Rs. 4,000 were sold by the Howrah General Hospital. The following statement compares the main heads of receipts and expenditure for all the hospitals during the year.—

16. The total income, excluding the opening balance, amounted to Rs 7,29,502, which exceeds that of the previous year by Rs 71,630. The cost to Government shows an increase of Rs 71,881, due to larger expenditure on buildings and repairs, on diet, and on European medicines. Receipts from paying patients show an increase of Rs 2,274, mainly due to the fact of the Campbell Hospital having received a sum of Rs. 4,575 from the Bengal Branch of the Indian Famine Fund for dieting of patients. Rupees 7,943 were also received from the same fund by the Campbell Hospital for the pauper patients treated in the sheds built by the Calcutta Municipality. There is a reduction of Rs. 13,439 in the receipts from local funds, which is attributed chiefly to smaller receipts from the Hospital Port Dues fund, owing to smaller admissions of seamen in the Medical College, Presidency General and Howrah General Hospitals. There was a slight increase in the receipts from municipal funds and in subscriptions from Europeans, while subscriptions from natives decreased by more than half. The total expenditure rose from Rs. 6,54,444 to Rs. 7,33,041. The amount spent on buildings and repairs increased by Rs. 34,987 owing to quadrennial repairs at the Medical College, and the construction of the out-door department and sheds for the accommodation of extra patients at the Campbell Hospital. There was also an increase both under Diet and Miscellaneous charges. The large increase from Rs. 6,706 to Rs. 11,849 in the expenditure on European medicines in the General Hospital was plainly due to imperfect supervision, there having been eleven Assistant Surgeons in charge of the dispensary during the year. The whole management of this hospital has lately been investigated by a Committee whose report is now under consideration.

17. The Inspector-General has expressed doubts as to the propriety of continuing the appointment of a lady doctor for the Chandney Hospital. The small attendance of female patients does not seem to warrant the retention of a lady doctor, and if the Inspector-General will submit proposals for utilising to better advantage the money that is now spent in this way, they will receive the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration.

18. The construction of a new building for the Presidency General Hospital at an estimated cost of Rs. 22,00,000 has at last been sanctioned. It is impossible to provide so large a sum at once; and arrangements have been made to construct the new buildings gradually, the subsidiary buildings which will be of immediate advantage to the existing hospital being taken up first. In the current year's budget 3 lakhs have been provided, and it has been decided in addition to such construction of the male block as the funds permit, to take up the following works in the first instance and in the following order, viz — (1) the contagious diseases ward, (2) the main kitchen, including a milk store and dairy, and (3) the steam Laundry and thus provide at once these most necessary appendages to the existing hospital.

The entire work will take some years to carry out, but when complete it will supply one of the most pressing wants of the town. The Committee appointed to state how the existing defects of the hospital can best be remedied, to examine the nursing arrangements, the supply of bedding, &c, and to report on the general system of supervision, and the adequacy of the staff of servants and to suggest rules for management, have only recently submitted their report, which is now under the consideration of Government.

19. Surgeon-Colonel J. H. Newman was Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals throughout the year, and the Lieutenant-Governor takes this opportunity of acknowledging his efficient supervision of the hospitals under his control. Sir John Woodburn's thanks are due to Surgeon-Colonel T. H. Hendley, C.I.E., who took charge on the 9th April, for his clear and concise report.

RESOLUTION ON THE STATISTICAL INFORMATION FURNISHED BY THE BOARD OF REVENUE REGARDING THE STAMP DEPARTMENT
FOR THE YEAR 1897-98.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—SEPARATE REVENUE

Calcutta, the 7th September 1898

RESOLUTION—No 60298 R

READ—

A memorandum from the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, No 622B, dated the 10th August 1898, submitting statistical information regarding the Stamp Department for the year 1897-98.

The total receipts, charges, and net revenue in 1897-98 under the Indian Stamp Act, I of 1879, and the Court-fees Act, VII of 1870, were Rs 1,77,59,390, Rs 5,03,229, and Rs. 1,72,56,161, respectively, against Rs 1,75,74,296, Rs. 4,96,172, and Rs. 1,70,78,124 in the previous year. The increase in receipts occurred in judicial stamps only, the largest increases having taken place in Calcutta (Rs. 1,28,689), Rangpur (Rs. 33,118), Murshidabad (Rs 31,251), Bankura (Rs. 27,961), Tippera (Rs. 27,614), Midnapore, (Rs 25,200), and Jalpaiguri (Rs. 21,501), increased litigation, the higher value of some of the suits, and improved receipts from probate duty, being ascribed as the main causes.

2. A net decrease of Rs 23,942 occurred in the receipts from the sale of non-judicial stamps. The decrease was shared by all classes of stamps, except impressed sheets, notarial stamps, advocate, vakil, and attorney stamps, and impressed one-anna stamps for cheques, bills, &c. The revenue derived from the sale of impressed sheets, the most important of the non-judicial stamps, amounted to Rs. 35,30,987 against Rs. 34,88,156 in the preceding year. The largest increase (Rs. 27,190) occurred in Midnapore, and is attributed to the execution and registration of a large number of deeds on account of the dearth of food-grains. Midnapore, however, was not a district seriously affected by the famine, and the explanation is therefore open to question. The same explanation is offered of the increases in Shahabad and Darbhanga, where it may be valid. The largest decrease occurred in Mymensingh (Rs. 33,833), but no satisfactory explanation of the falling off is given. The revenue derived from impressed labels or special adhesive stamps which are in use in Calcutta only shows a decrease of Rs 20,194, or 2·3 per cent. In explanation of this decrease, the Collector of Stamp Revenue remarks that in anticipation of the passing of Act XIII of 1897, which raised the duty on a transfer of lease to that payable for a conveyance, assignments of several tea estates with their appendages, were accelerated so as to reach completion before the end of 1896-97, thus causing an increase of revenue during that year as compared with the previous year of Rs 1,11,964. The revenue derived from the sale of receipt or one anna revenue stamps amounted to Rs. 3,74,696 against Rs 3,80,946 in the preceding year. The decrease in the sale of foreign bill stamps which was confined to Calcutta and the 24-Parganas, is ascribed to the general tightness of the money-market during the greater portion of the year. The revenue derived from the sale of hundi or bill of exchange stamps amounted to Rs 86,075 against Rs. 1,24,489 in the previous year. The largest decrease occurred in Calcutta, and it also is attributed to the tightness of the money-market, which affected remittances by hundis to the mufassal.

3 The cases in which deficient duty and penalty were levied by the Civil and Revenue Courts numbered 3,352 against 3,411 in the preceding year, and the amount of duty and penalty realised was Rs 30,405 against Rs 34,296 in 1896-97. The falling off is attributed to the fact that in 1896-97 there were four cases of an exceptional nature, in which Rs 4,296-8 were realised as duty and penalty, while all the cases during the year under report were of the ordinary kind. The number of prosecutions instituted during the year for the infringement of the provisions of the Indian Stamp Act was 1,302, in which 1,267 persons were brought to trial, against 415 cases and 468 persons in the preceding year, and the fines imposed amounted to Rs. 8,566 against Rs 3,261. It is noteworthy that 874 prosecutions were instituted for default of payment of duty on hundis issued by native merchants in Faridpur, Backergunge, and Dacca and negotiated in Ballhaghatta and Ultadingi in the 24 Parganas. Convictions were obtained in 871 of these cases, and fines to the aggregate of Rs. 5,863 were inflicted on the offenders. The amount distributed in rewards was Rs 6,029-8 against Rs 1,093 8.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE INCOME-TAX DEPARTMENT FOR
THE YEAR 1897-98.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.—SEPARATE REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 8th September 1898

RESOLUTION—No 50788 R

READ—

The report of the Board of Revenue on the financial results of the Administration of the Income-Tax for the year 1897-98.

The Board's report is, as usual, a plain statistical review of the working of the Act, showing the proceedings of the assessing staff, the number of assesseses, the demand, collections and balances, the proportion of objections and of coercive measures, and the cost of administration. All reference to the sources from which assessable incomes are drawn, and the profits of various forms of business, is advisedly excluded.

2. No change of any importance was introduced during the year under report in the administration of the Income-Tax Act. The following statement compares the financial results during the last two years —

Number of persons originally assessed, excluding Government servants	1896-97. 112,901	1897-98. 113,625
Number of persons finally assessed, excluding Government servants	111,190	111,680
Number of persons finally assessed, including Government servants	120,106	121,081
Number of assesseses, including Government servants, who paid tax within the year	117,050	117,894
Final demand of income-tax for the current year	Rs 48,59,582	Rs. 49,22,207
Final demand of income-tax, including penalties, fines, and arrears	50,61,295	51,15,378
Collections of income-tax within the year	47,54,783	48,01,512
Gross receipts	49,15,713	49,46,973
Charges	1,79,599	1,88,447
Percentage of charges on receipts	3·7	3·8
Net revenue	47,36,114	47,58,526

The net revenue shows an increase of Rs 22,412, or '5 per cent against an increase of 5·8 per cent in the previous year. During the last 10 years, the collections of the tax have risen from Rs. 31,20,344 to Rs. 42,81,995, exclusive of the tax on salaries and the interest on Government securities, and the average annual increase, which has been remarkably steady, has been Rs. 1,16,165. The reduction of this normal increment by four-fifths illustrates the check applied to the growing prosperity of the province by the great national calamities of 1897, and it would have been a matter for little surprise had their effects been even more conspicuously reflected in the income-tax returns of the year.

3. There was an increase in the final demand in all the Divisions except the Presidency and Chittagong; while the only districts in which a decrease occurred were Calcutta, Jessore, Dinajpur, Bogra, Backergunge, Chittagong, Patna, Purnea, Hazaribagh, Lohardaga, and Manbhum. It is remarkable that in none of these, except the last three, was there acute famine in 1897, and it is still more striking that all the four North Behar districts—Saran, Champaran, Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga—in which distress was most severe, show an increase both in the final demand and in collections of the tax. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that in the first three of these four districts, there was a marked increase in the amount of penalties imposed and collected by district officers, and he would have been glad had the Board given some assurance that all due lenity was shown in administering the Act in these districts in a year of stress. The largest proportionate increase (49·4 per cent.) in revenue was in Singbhum, and is ascribed to the construction of the railway now in hand, but the tax paid by this district is insignificant. A similar reason is assigned for the increase of 16·6 per cent. in Midnapore. There was a considerable increase in Faridpur and Burdwan, of which no special explanation is given.

The decrease of 9·6 per cent. in Chittagong is attributable to the damage done by the storm-wave and cyclone of October 1897, while in Lohardaga a depression in the lac trade and in the profits of liquor shops is said to account for a falling-off of 8·8 per cent. in receipts. The latter element in the decrease is an indirect result of the famine, which has also led to a marked reduction in the excise settlements for the current year. It is curious that in the neighbouring district of Palamau there was an increase in the demand and collections. The decrease in Bogra and Dinajpur is attributed to the transfer of certain thanas to Rajshahi; but as there is a net decrease in the final demand of the three districts of over Rs. 2,000, the explanation does not seem convincing.

4. Assessments.—The districts of Manbhum and Singbhum, which under Government Order No. 16483R of 21st March 1893 had been placed under one assessor, were again separated during the year under report, as the arrangement was found unsatisfactory. The staff of assessors was thus increased to 50.

The number of villages (a street in Calcutta is held to be a village for this purpose) visited by these assessors was 75,623 as against 72,220 in the previous year. The increase is ascribed to the Board's order under which the Income-Tax Deputy Collectors took up the assessment in towns, leaving the assessors free to devote all their time to villages.

The most marked decrease (536) in the number of villages visited was in Champaran; and the cause attributed is that for the first six months of the year the assessor was employed on famine work in addition to his own duties. There were also decreases in Malda, Bhagalpur, Noakhali and eleven other districts. In the province as a whole the number of persons finally assessed rose by 490, the chief increases being in Midnapore, Faridpur and Calcutta. In twenty-one districts there was a decrease, which in most cases was due to the exemption of petty traders, who had been hard hit by the prevailing scarcity.

5. Demands, collections, and balances.—The original demand, the revised demand, and the percentage of collections from assesseees, exclusive of Government servants, is shown in the following statement.—

Year	Original number of assesseees.	Revised number of assesseees	Original demand. Rs.	Final demand after revision. Rs.	Amount of final demand collected. Rs.	Percentage of final demand collected Rs.
1896-97	.. 112,901	111,190	44,47,472	43,62,857	42,48,058	97·6
1897-98	.. 113,625	111,680	45,19,407	44,62,690	43,51,995	97·3

The outstanding balance, including penalties, costs and arrears was Rs. 1,68,600 as against Rs. 1,42,605 in the year 1896-97. Of this balance, Rs. 1,18,200 are reported to be good and under realization, Rs. 27,997 bad and irrecoverable, and Rs. 22,403 doubtful.

6. Coercive measures.—The following table compares for the last three years the coercive measures which had to be taken for the realization of the tax throughout the province:—

Year	Number of persons finally assessed.	DISTRESS WARRANTS		DETRAINTS.		SALES.
		Number	Percentage to col. 2.	Number	Percentage to col. 2.	Number	Percentage to col. 2.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1896-96	106,901	5,036	4·7	2,175	2·0	317	·3
1896-97	112,190	4,858	4·3	2,302	2·1	337	·3
1897-98	111,680	5,108	4·5	2,111	1·9	345	·3

From this statement it will be seen that coercive measures were more extensively employed than in the previous year.

The most marked increase was in Calcutta, Jessore, and the 24-Parganas. The scarcity of ready money as indicated by the high rate of interest is said to be the cause of this increase.

In Jessore (16·4), Singbhum (12·4), Rangpur (11·4), Bhagalpur (10·9), 24-Parganas (10·7) and Darbhanga (10·8) the proportion of warrants issued to the number of persons assessed exceeded 10 per cent. Darbhanga, Jessore and Singbhum are almost always in this category, and the Lieutenant-Governor would be glad of the Board's opinion whether this is due to causes which cannot be avoided.

The largest number of sales reported by district officials was 57 in Rangpur, 47 in Dinajpur, 27 in Gaya, and 24 in Rajshahi. The three districts first named have for some years had an unenviable prominence in the sale list, and the Board, by whom the explanations offered for these high figures are considered unsatisfactory, have desired the Commissioners of Rajshahi and Patna to call for and examine the records of all cases of sale that occurred in the districts in question, and to enquire whether their prevalence was due to careless assessments. The Lieutenant-Governor awaits a report on the result of these enquiries.

7. Penalties and costs.—The demands and realisations under the heads of Penalties and Costs for the year under review, as compared with the previous year, are shown in the following statement.—

YEAR.	PENALTIES		Costs
	Demand.	Realisation.	Demand.	Realisation
1	2	3	4	5
1896-97	Rs. 26,297	Rs. 13,572	Rs. 11,596	Rs. 8,592
1897-98	31,454	16,675	12,951	9,573

8. The amount collected during the year under report from companies and other employers, who agreed to collect the tax from the salaries of their servants, rose from Rs. 2,87,934 in the previous year to Rs. 3,19,319; while the remission allowed by way of commission to the employers rose from Rs. 9,454 to Rs. 10,371. The Collector of Calcutta is reported to have induced 54 new firms to enter into this contract, and there are indications that the system may be worked to some advantage in Calcutta.

9. Incidence of the tax.—Including the tax on the interest on Government securities and the salaries of Government officials recovered by the Accountant-General, Bengal, the incidence of the tax for the whole Province was Re. 1 to every 14·6 persons, as against Re. 1 to every 14·6 in the previous year. Excluding the taxes recovered by the Accountant-General, Bengal, the incidence was Re. 1 to every 16·2 persons as against Re. 1 to every 16·3 in the previous year.

Outside Calcutta the incidence was Re. 1 to every 32·2 persons as against every 33·2 persons in the previous year; and it varied from Re. 1 to every 4 persons in Dacca to Re. 1 to every 78 persons in Cuttack.

One person in 36 in Calcutta paid the tax as against one in 37 in the previous year, and its incidence per head was Re. 1 to every 4 persons, while in the entire Province one person in 637 paid the tax as against one person in 640 in the previous year.

10. The following statement illustrates for the year under review and previous years the distribution of the income-tax, and of the other direct taxes which preceded it, as between Calcutta and the rest of the Province:

* Figures not available

† Exclusive of the tax on salaries, &c., recovered by the Accountant General and the tax on the interest of Government securities

These figures show a steady yearly increase in the amount of Income-tax collected. It will be seen that Calcutta contributes nearly as much as all the rest of the Province.

11. Expenditure.—The expenditure incurred in the working of the tax during the year under report rose from Rs. 1,79,599 in the previous year to Rs. 1,88,447.

There was a substantial increase under all the different heads of expenditure (except Commissioner's establishment) for which, however, sufficient reasons have been assigned; the most important being the grant of grain compensation to peons, the increase in the establishment of certain districts moved up into higher classes; and the appointment of a whole-time assessor in Singbhum.

12. General.—The system of payment by money-order continues to advance in favour with the public. The Board have decided that there is no necessity to open a sub-treasury in the office of the Collector of Income-Tax, Calcutta. No case of embezzlement was brought to light. Two persons were convicted for personating assessors and illegally collecting tax, while there were four successful prosecutions against persons who resisted the attachment of property by peons and other income-tax officials.

13. The names of the Deputy Collectors specially reported by the Board as having done good service will be communicated to the Appointment Department.

14. In conclusion, the Lieutenant-Governor thanks the Board for their administration of this Department during the year under review.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

E. N. BAKER,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore 0·03 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·6° higher, and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew Standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Low Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No 86, recently at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beekley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SECTION VIII.—Rules for weighment and discharge of salt from ship-board into warehouses, public or private

1 On receipt of an application under section 91, Act VIII of 1878, for the admission of salt into a public or private warehouse, and after the due execution of a bond under the provisions of section 92, Act VIII of 1878, the Collector of Customs shall make such arrangements as he may deem necessary for the proper weighment of salt during its discharge from the vessel, for the purpose of being conveyed to the appointed licensed warehouse

2 In special cases the Collector of Customs is authorised at his discretion to allow salt to be discharged from a vessel before the execution of a bond, and either with or without weighment

3 The weighment shall be conducted in the presence of the Preventive Officer on board and on his responsibility by weighmen to whom licenses shall have been issued under rules notified by the Board of Revenue with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, and the bonder shall defray all costs of weighment

4 When salt is discharged from a vessel without weighment, it shall be taken to the warehouse in which it is to be stored, and the weighment shall be conducted there in the presence of a Preventive Officer

5 No salt for which the full duty has not been previously paid shall be taken from any vessel, save in a lighter provided with hatches, which are capable of being securely fastened down, and it shall be the duty of the Preventive Officer on board to satisfy himself that such lighter is in serviceable condition before permitting such salt to be placed therein

6 As soon as the bonder or his agent or servant shall notify to the Preventive Officer that he desires to proceed with any boat-load of salt, he shall obtain a boat-note in which the name of the importing vessel and of the bonder, the quantity of salt contained therein, and the warehouse wherein it is to be deposited shall be specified. The salt shall thereupon be carefully impressed with a stamp specially provided for this purpose, and the hatches shall be closed and sealed by, or in the presence of, the Preventive Officer. The lighter shall then be allowed to proceed in charge of a Custom House peon accompanied by an agent on the part of the bonder

7 When salt is discharged into lighters beyond the limits of the port of Calcutta, a Preventive Officer shall be placed in charge of not more than three lighters, in addition to a Custom House peon for each lighter, and he shall accompany them from the side of the discharging vessel to the warehouse in which the salt is to be stored

8 Salt imported from Madras and packed in bags of uniform size, which contain two maunds each, and intended to be bonded in a public warehouse, shall be discharged into lighters, without weighment, a tally of the bags being kept by the Preventive Officer in charge of the vessel. The hatches of the lighter shall be closed and sealed, and a Custom House peon placed in charge, as provided by Rule 6. On arrival at the warehouse, the salt shall be landed and the weights of not less than five per cent of the bags tested by the Inspector in charge of the warehouse. If any of the bags are found to be over weight, the whole consignment shall be reweighed, and a report submitted to the Collector

9 In the case of a vessel lying in the Kidderpore Docks and discharging salt into lighters for storage in the bonded warehouse at Kidderpore, it shall not be necessary to close and seal the hatches of the lighter, provided that the salt is taken to and bonded in the warehouse during the daytime. The hatches of every lighter containing salt shall, however, be closed and sealed at 5 P.M., and hatches or hatch-covers must be put on during wet weather

10 The working hours on boardship shall be from 8 A.M. to 5 P.M. for vessels lying in the stream, and from 7 A.M. to 4 P.M. for vessels lying at the Port Commissioners' jetties or in the Kidderpore Docks. This fee is to be in addition to the fees provided by Rule 11, and will be distributed between the Superintendent and his subordinates at the golahs in such proportion as the Collector of Customs, subject to the order of the Board of Revenue, shall determine.

This special extra fee is altogether separate from, and independent of, the fee of Rs 100, which is levied as a Custom House fee for working on boardship on these specified holidays, and which will continue to be levied and distributed as at present.

13 The agents of a vessel discharging salt beyond the limits of the port of Calcutta as provided by Rule 7 shall pay the travelling and other expenses of Preventive Officers and peons required by them. A fee of Rs 4 for the day and Rs 4 for the night shall also be payable for the services of each Preventive Officer in charge of boats in transit between the discharging vessel and the warehouse.

14 Persons wishing to discharge salt into bond at night shall submit an application to the Collector of Customs or Superintendent, Preventive Service, 24 hours before the time when such work is to begin, stating the name of the vessel, the berth or moorings at which she is lying, the bonded warehouse into which she is to discharge, the hour of commencement, the probable number of hours of work which will be required, and the number of scales which it is proposed to work. #### SECTION IX — Rules for the admission of salt into, and clearance from, bonded warehouses, public or private

1 On the arrival of a boat containing salt it shall be anchored, if possible, at the steps of the ghat leading to the warehouse in which the salt is to be stored, otherwise at the moorings nearest to such ghat.

2 Notice of the arrival of such salt shall at once be given by the Custom House Officer or peon to the Government Superintendent in the case of salt to be bonded in a public warehouse, or, if the salt is to be bonded in a private licensed warehouse, to the Inspector or Superintendent of licensed warehouses, who shall thereupon note the date and hour of arrival, bringing any unreasonable delay to the notice of the Collector of Customs, and depute an officer to examine and compare the boat-note delivered by the Preventive Officer to the bonder or his agent, and the cargo of salt, and to superintend its removal to, and storage in, the appointed warehouse.

3 The bonder's agent and a Custom House peon shall remain on board of the boat in charge until the seals and hatches are examined and all the cargo landed and stored.

4 The bonder will be held responsible for any departure from these rules on the part of his agent, and the Superintendent or Inspector of the warehouse shall take notice of any dereliction of duty on the part of the Custom House Officer or peon.

5. All expenses connected with the removal and storage of the salt shall be borne by the bonder.

6 If the officer appointed by the Superintendent or Inspector of the Government or private licensed warehouse shall have reason to believe that the salt has in any way been tampered with during its transit by river, he shall at once report the circumstance to the Superintendent or Inspector, who, with the permission of the Collector, shall direct the salt to be reweighed, such reweighment shall be made at the expense of Government.

7 If there be found any unexplained deficiency in the salt on board the cargo-boat as compared with the quantity specified in the boat-note, the whole of the salt contained in such boat shall be confiscated, and the bond under which the salt is in course of being stored shall be cancelled.

8 When a deficiency so found is satisfactorily explained and no suspicion of fraud exists, the bonder should apply to have the amount written off from the bond under the orders of the Collector of Customs. The Superintendent will then be authorised to deduct the amount from the total under the bond.

9 Salt relating to different bonds shall be stored separately and distinctly. Any admixture of salt specified in different bonds shall render these bonds liable to cancellation, and the holders to immediate payment of the full duty payable thereon.

10 On salt bonded in a public warehouse the duty shall be calculated on the quantity actually delivered from such warehouse.

11. On salt bonded in a private licensed warehouse, the duty shall be calculated on the quantity delivered on weightment from the side of the ship in which it was imported, less an allowance on account of wastage, which shall not in ordinary cases exceed 2½ per cent on the quantity bonded.

12 In any special case the Board of Revenue as Chief Customs authority of the Presidency is competent to direct that an increased allowance for wastage shall be granted in accordance with the provisions of section 122, Act VIII of 1878.

13 If the Collector of Customs has any reason to believe that any fraud has been perpetrated by the bonder or owner of the salt, or any person in his employ, he shall refuse to make any allowance on account of wastage, and shall demand the full duty payable on the entire quantity received into bond.

14 In the case of public warehouses, the Board of Revenue shall fix from time to time the amount of rent to be paid by the bonder per 1,000 maunds of salt. Ordinarily no golah should be made available unless the quantity of salt to be bonded is equal to two-thirds of the storage which the golah is capable of containing; but when accommodation in golahs of suitable dimensions is not available, the rent to be demanded should be calculated on the quantity of salt, which would amount to two-thirds of the storage capacity of the buildings, whatever the actual quantity of salt bonded may really be.

15 All deliveries of salt bonded in a public or private warehouse under the provisions of Act VIII of 1878 shall be supervised as required by section 99 of the above Act by a Customs Officer and a native officer styled a ghat muharrir. These officers will be deputed on application to the officer in charge of the Custom House.

16 A charge of Rs 5 per diem for each Customs Officer and of 12 annas per diem for each ghat muharrir at Calcutta, and of Rs 4 per diem for each Customs Officer and of 8 annas for each ghat muharrir at Chittagong, will be made for the services of these officers, and must be deposited before delivery is given.

17 The working hours at the Sulkea Government golahs and all other warehouses in Calcutta, whether public or private, shall be from 6 A.M. to 2 P.M. from 1st March to the 31st October, and from 7 A.M. to 3 P.M. from 1st November to 29th February. On payment of the overtime fees provided by Rule 34, work shall be allowed after-hours from 2 P.M. or 3 P.M. to sunset. No work shall in any case be allowed between sunset and sunrise.

18 Persons wishing to discharge salt at night direct from shipboard into the Kidderpore golahs, shall submit an application to the Collector of Customs or the Superintendent, Preventive Service, Calcutta, 24 hours before the time when such work is to begin, for permission to have the golahs kept open at night. They shall also undertake to pay the fees prescribed in Rule 35.

19 The night is divided into two watches, from 6 P.M. to midnight and from midnight to 6 A.M., respectively.

20. For each watch one Inspector, one officer and three peons shall be posted to the golahs, in addition to the Inspector and officers employed on the discharging vessel. If two or more vessels are discharging salt at the same time, the same Inspector and officer may take charge of the work at the golahs, if the Superintendent approves.

21 Suitable lights to be approved by the Superintendent shall be provided by the bonder between the discharging vessel and the golahs and also inside the golahs. The Superintendent may stop work between sunset and sunrise, if he considers the light imperfect or for any other reasonable cause.

22. Scales and weights will be provided by Government, but bonders are required to make their own arrangements for labour and tools.

23. There will be one Customs Officer at each scale, and his duty will be to keep on tally sheets, provided for the purpose at the expense of Government, a correct tally of the bags as they are weighed and taken off the scale by the bonder's people, as well as to see that each bag contains neither more nor less than the prescribed quantity of salt, viz., two maunds. He will be held personally liable for any excess or deficiency that may be discovered at the check-scales referred to in Rule 24.

* Under the existing practice a contractor supplies tools and labour for the purpose at fixed rates.

24 The Superintendent will maintain check-scales in charge of a Special Custom House Officer and will arrange that at least 10 per cent of the bags issued from every golah shall pass over these scales

25 Should any dispute arise between the Customs Officers and the bondor or purchaser of the salt under delivery, the former will stop the weighment, and at once refer the matter in dispute to the Superintendent for orders

26 The Customs Officer will be careful to bring every irregularity that he may become cognizant of to the notice of the Superintendent without delay, and will be held responsible for failure in doing so

27 There will be one ghat muharrir for each scale. He will be posted at the discretion of the Inspector either at the ghat when salt is being removed by boat, or on the railway platform or roadway when salt is being removed in railway wagons or carts. He will not be allowed to hold any communication with the Customs Officer supervising the weighment of the salt except through the Inspector, until after the day's work is over, when his tally will be compared with that kept by the Customs Officer, and, if found to agree, will be signed by the Inspector.

28 The ghat muharrir's duty will be to keep a tally similar to that of the Customs Officer, but in Bengali. He will also keep a tally by means of counters supplied by the Department. One such counter will be made over to him by each cooly as he passes him with a bag, and will represent one bag or two maunds of salt. After the rowannah quantity has been delivered, these counters will be compared with his written tally as well as with that of the Customs Officer, for the purpose stated in Rule 27.

29 When discrepancies in the accounts cannot be reconciled, and whenever the Superintendent has reason to believe that the quantity of salt conveyed to the boat, railway wagon or cart is not correctly represented in the accounts, he shall hold a reweighment. The expense of such reweighment shall be borne by Government.

30 A rowannah will be issued to cover one boat only, and applications should be made accordingly, the amount of salt to be put into the boat and consequently also to be shown in the rowannah being calculated beforehand.

31 More than one consignment may be loaded on steamers or flats, provided that each consignment shall be kept separate.

32 Whenever the bondor or purchaser is desirous of removing his boat, railway wagon or cart from the premises, the Superintendent shall satisfy himself on every point before granting the usual protective documents. In particular, he shall in every case, before granting a pass, satisfy himself that the exact quantities entered in the rowannahs have been delivered.

When for any reason the rowannah holder desires to remove a rowannah from the boat carrying the salt covered by it, the Superintendent of the Salt Golahs may grant a boat-note which shall protect the salt within the limits noted therein, such limit being within the port.

33. The following fees shall be paid by bondors (in addition to those payable on ordinary working days) on account of the reception into and delivery from bond on Sundays and holidays —

9 When the loading of a boat is commenced, it must be finished before the loading of another boat is commenced. Deliveries on a rowannah which is not likely to be completed within working or extra hours shall be allowed, provided that the rowannahdar or his representative on board applies for delivery in writing. The Preventive Officer in charge of the ship shall in such cases warn the rowannahdar or his representative that no refund of duty will be allowed owing to any accident that may occur through the partially loaded boat remaining alongside the ship during the night.

10 If delivery on a rowannah has not been completed by sunset, or if through any unforeseen circumstance it should become necessary to interrupt delivery, the boat partially loaded shall receive a boat note in the following form, and shall remain alongside the discharging vessel and shall be subject to seizure in the event of her trying to leave the ship's side —

11 On the completion of delivery of salt from boardship upon rowannahs, the holders thereof must present them to the Board's Office for the purpose of having the endorsements made on them by the Preventive Officer examined. This rule will not prevent salt merchants removing their salt-laden boats from the ship's side to safe and convenient places in the river under the boat-notes previously granted by the Preventive Officers. Preventive Officers will invariably, when they deliver a completed rowannah to a merchant or to his gomastah, warn him to present his rowannah at the Board's Office.

12 No salt may be landed from ship-board or removed from the bonded golahs into the excepted limits of Calcutta and Howrah unless protected by a "certificate" (Form 12) granted by the Collector of Customs (see section II, Rule 37A). Within 24 hours after the delivery of salt from boardship under a certificate, the holder thereof must present it at the office of the Collector of Customs for the purpose of having the endorsement made on it by the Preventive Officer examined, after which it will be returned to the holder in order that the salt covered by it may be landed.

13 The currency of each certificate will expire 48 hours from the time when delivery of the salt is completed, and any certificate which has not been finally returned under the following rule to the office of the Collector of Customs within 48 hours from the time of delivery of the salt, must be presented within that time for renewal by the Collector.

14 Within 48 hours after the landing within excepted limits of salt removed upon a certificate from boardship, or from the bonded golahs, the certificate must be returned to the office of the Collector of Customs, with an endorsement by the holder, showing the time and place of landing and the place of storage.

Any failure to present a certificate at the Collector's Office as directed in Rules 12, 13, and 14 within the time specified in each rule will be punishable with a fine of Rs 500 under section 167, clause I of the Sea Customs Act.

15. Salt imported from Bombay, Madras or Coconada in bags which contain two maunds each, and on which duty has been paid in full, may be discharged without weightment on presentation of the usual rowannahs or certificates, and under the following conditions—

- (1) That the salt shall come packed in bags of uniform capacity containing two maunds each
- (2) That the salt shall be covered by a certificate from the local Customs authority, giving the particulars detailed in the resolution of the Madras Board of Revenue
- (3) That the bags shall be tallied out here by a Preventive Officer, and the certificate accepted according to tally, the necessary documents being then obtained for the quantity certified to as duty-paid, in the same way as if that quantity had been ascertained here by reweighment.
- (4) That the importer shall waive all claim whatever to any refund of duty on account of wastage in transit or loss of salt from the bursting of bags. The Preventive Officer in charge of the vessel shall weigh 5 per cent. of the bags, and if any are discovered to be over weight, the whole consignment will be detained, and a report be at once submitted.

RESOLUTION

JAILS

Dated Dargajing, the 13th September 1898

READ—

Letter No 6637, dated the 28th June 1898, from the Inspector-General of Jails, submitting the Annual Reports on the Alipore and Hazaribagh Reformatory Schools for the year 1897

Read also—

The Reports for the years 1896 and 1895, and the orders of Government recorded thereon

The submission of these reports by the Inspector General of Jails should be expedited in future. They should reach the Government soon after the Annual Administration Report of the Jail Department

2 The total number of boys in the two institutions on the 31st December 1896 was 529, of whom 201 were in the Alipore and 328 in the Hazaribagh School. The number of boys admitted during the year 1897 was 78 at Alipore and 89 at Hazaribagh, the total at the two Schools being raised to 606 against 695 of 1896. During the year under report, 103 boys were released on expiry of sentence, 34 on attaining the age of 18 years, and 1 by special order of the Government on account of sickness; and 4 died—1 in the Alipore and 3 in the Hazaribagh School. On the 31st December 1897, 554 boys remained—212 in the Alipore and 342 in the Hazaribagh School. Of these 380 were Hindus, 163 Muhammadans, 10 aboriginals, and 1 a native Christian. The daily average number of boys for the year was 190 at Alipore and 344 at Hazaribagh, compared with 215 and 331 respectively in 1896 and 218 and 344 respectively in 1895. The general health of the boys was better than in the preceding year. Though the number of admissions into hospital in both the Schools was larger, the daily average number of sick was smaller, viz., 5.03 in the Alipore School and 1.71 in the Hazaribagh School, against 5.35 and 2.12 respectively in 1896. A large number of dysentery cases occurred at Alipore, but the use of rice-water (man) with a small quantity of salt has since proved a good preventive against the disease, and been also beneficial to the health of the boys, who have generally gained in weight. In the Hazaribagh School there were many cases of fever during the rainy season, which were, however, of a very mild character.

3. Offences, punishments, and marks—It would appear from the following figures that the number of offences committed and punishments awarded has been increasing in the Alipore School since 1894, while in the Hazaribagh School it has decreased—

Number of offences and punishments

	Alipore School	Hazaribagh School
1894	55	336
1895	83	332
1896	162	271

This continuous increase in the one School and equally continuous decrease in the other are sufficiently curious, and the systems pursued at the two Schools appear on the papers to be so materially different that the Inspector-General of Jails must make enquiry as to which best fulfils the object of the reclamation of the boys. On a daily average of 190 boys at the Alipore Reformatory, 108 boys were punished, 57 per cent, on a daily average of 344 boys at Hazaribagh, 148 were punished, 43 per cent. The more serious offences on the list are theft and the destruction of Government property. The proportion of such offences to the total last year was 16 per cent at Alipore, 46 per cent at Hazaribagh. Nevertheless, the proportion to the total of the severer punishments, that is by hand-cuffing, whipping and separate confinement was 39 per cent at Alipore, but only 14 per cent at Hazaribagh. At Alipore 28 per cent of the boys were punished more than once, at Hazaribagh only 16 per cent. It seems to the Lieutenant Governor fairly certain that a large number of petty offences are not recorded at Hazaribagh, because they are not punished. This is a small matter if the system of punishment for the more serious offences shows a reduction in their number and the maintenance of a superior discipline. But while in Alipore there were 88 serious punishments against 36 serious offences, there were in Hazaribagh only 37 serious punishments against 114 serious offences. Nevertheless, to the daily average of boys the proportion of serious offences was 19 per cent in Alipore and 33 per cent in Hazaribagh, and this ratio shows no tendency to diminish. For the years 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896 and 1897, respectively, it was 17, 15, 40, 33, 33, and 33. The great increase in 1894 was explained by the sudden addition to the numbers in the Reformatory which took place in that year. Young criminals are doubtless, when first caught, less amenable to discipline than they are later, and it is probable that the boys at Alipore belong to classes more habitually and doggedly criminal than the boys at Hazaribagh. But the effects of the sudden access of 1894 should have long since abated, and there is reason to fear, on at least a paper comparison of the two institutions, that the system at Hazaribagh is too lenient.

The average number of boys who earned marks was 179 in the Alipore and 325 in the Hazaribagh School. The system is reported to have worked satisfactorily. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets that he cannot, on the face of the figures he has just reviewed, accept for the present at least, that assurance. He cannot find that it has had the smallest influence in reducing the more serious offences at Hazaribagh, and the diminution in this class of offence at Alipore seems to be due to much severer forms of punishment than the forfeiture of marks. He would like to be assured that the system of marks is clearly explained to the boys and thoroughly understood by them. He has found reason to believe that it is certainly not apprehended by the adult convicts of the Central Jails.

4 Instruction and Gymnastics — The instruction in English has been discontinued at both Schools. The educational staff of the Alipore School has been reorganized, and a similar change at the Hazaribagh School is under consideration. The classes will in future be under the inspection of the Education Department. The trades taught in the two Schools have been the same as in the previous years, but a revision is suggested by Dr. Nott, the Superintendent at Hazaribagh. The Lieutenant-Governor will await any proposal that the Inspector-General may wish to submit on the subject. Drill and gymnastics were carried on in both institutions, and these exercises are reported to have done good to the boys. Another teacher qualified to teach gymnastics should, if possible, be engaged at Hazaribagh in the place of the teacher who has resigned.

5 Character reports of released boys — Enquiries were made, as usual, regarding the conduct of the boys released in the preceding year. This is the crux of the whole undertaking. Of the 80 boys released from the Alipore School during 1896, it is reported by the District Magistrates that 43 were well conducted, 16 could not be traced, 7 were in jail, 4 were viewed with suspicion, and 10 were pursuing the trades they learnt at the School. During the same year 76 boys were released from the Hazaribagh School, but information has been furnished in the present report regarding 47 only. The Lieutenant-Governor is greatly disappointed at this failure. There is, indeed, reason to fear, from the absolute identity of the items submitted this year and last year, that there was no enquiry at all. The enquiries as to the conduct of the boys released from Hazaribagh must be at once resumed, and a full report submitted to Government regarding the entire number. Of the number reported on, 36 were well conducted, 4 could not be traced, 2 were in jail, 1 was viewed with suspicion, 3 were pursuing the trades they learnt at the School, and 1 had died. The Superintendent reports that the accounts which he has received of the career of some of the boys released from five to ten years ago tend to show that a fair proportion of the boys who return to their homes and revert to the occupation of their castes after a while become discontented with their position and emigrate to Calcutta or other places, where there is a demand for more intelligent labour, and often do very well. It is, therefore, possible, he thinks, that released boys returned as "not traceable" may be the very boys who have received the greatest benefit from their detention in the Reformatory School, and not those who have returned to a life of crime, as has been generally feared. The Inspector-General will be good enough to get the opinion of the Board of Management at Alipore upon this summary. The Lieutenant-Governor understands that the boys who are reported by the District Magistrates as well conducted are now resident with their families. He would be glad to know how many of these are following the family trade. He understood that this was the trade boys were, as far as possible, taught in the reformatories, but he has been perplexed by the separate and insignificant item of lads pursuing in freedom the trades taught them in the reformatory schools. It was definitely decided in 1891 that enquiries as to the conduct of boys discharged from the reformatories should be confined to those discharged in the year preceding that of report. The Lieutenant-Governor acquiesces in this decision. It is not desirable that lads who may be doing well should be haunted by the repeated periodical enquiries of the police. This makes it all the more necessary that the one enquiry, which the police do make, should be a complete and thorough one, for in the results of it is concentrated the whole of our information as to the success or failure of our efforts at reform.

6 Manufactures — In the Alipore School the profit from manufactures continues to show a falling off under almost all the heads. The total profits of the two schools were Rs. 9,589-11 and Rs. 5,960-0-1 against Rs. 11,189-1-10 and Rs. 4,883-15-10 respectively in 1896. The decrease at Alipore appears to have been chiefly due to the release of 34 of the most skilled artisans on attaining the age of 18, and to the sale at considerably reduced rates of goods which had been in stock for a long time and had deteriorated in value. The chief sources of income continue to be book-binding in the Alipore School and cloth weaving and tailoring in the Hazaribagh School. The average earning per head at Alipore was Rs. 42-0-9 and at Hazaribagh Rs. 25-7-7 against Rs. 60-8-5 and Rs. 19-5-7 respectively in the preceding year.

7 Expenditure—The following table compares the expenditure under the several heads in the two institutions during the past two years—

The famine necessarily caused an increase in the cost of diet. The increase under other heads at Alipore is explained in the report and calls for no notice. The larger expenditure on works was incurred on improvements of permanent value. The workshop accommodation was doubled by the addition of a second storey to the old building.

8 General—At present only one boy from Assam is at the Hazaribagh School, and the requirements of that Administration can be met by the existing accommodation. A change was made during the year in the sanctioned scale of diet at Alipore, which now approximates closely to the scale prepared by Dr. Nott. A proposal is under consideration for the amalgamation of the warder staff of the Schools with the warder establishment of the Jail Department. The proposal made last year by the Inspector-General of Jails for the appointment of a matron at each School, chiefly for the purpose of looking after the boys of tender age, has not been approved by the Government. The provision of section 31 (1) of the new Act, which permits the Courts, instead of sending a juvenile offender to a Reformatory, to order him to be discharged after due admonition, or delivered to his parent or guardian or nearest adult relative, on the execution by the parent, guardian or relative of a bond for his good behaviour for any period not exceeding twelve months, will reduce in the future the number of boys confined at the Schools. In accordance with the spirit of this provision, the Lieutenant-Governor, exercising the authority vested in the Local Government by section 14 (a) of the Act, has, since the close of the year, directed the release of a number of very young boys from both institutions on security for their good behaviour. The cessation of the famine and the working of the new law have already caused a rapid decrease in the number of boys sent to the Hazaribagh School.

9 The renumbering of the tables proposed by the Superintendent of the Alipore School in paragraph 31 of his report is approved.

Ganjam Road in the district of Cuttack, as far as Barang, the present terminus of the East Coast Railway. It was also extended to the town of Midnapore, but too late in the year to permit of much progress being made. It is now in force in the places noted in the margin

2 Licensed Lodging houses—

There was again a decrease of 156 in the number of lodging-houses, which stood at 1,409

during the year against 1,565 in 1896 97 and 2,066 in 1895-96 The decrease was most marked in the chatties on the Jagannath Road in the districts of Cuttack and Balasore, and in the town of Puri This was chiefly due to the opening of the East Coast Railway as far as Barang, six miles from Cuttack, with a branch line to Puri The pilgrims now usually go by the Khurda Road to Barang, and from there by train, with the result that the portion of the Jagannath Road which lies south of Cuttack is going out of use The completion of this railway, and the construction of a connecting branch of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway will probably affect the route taken by pilgrim traffic, and the local officers should take steps to adjust the operation of the Act in accordance with the new conditions The decline in the town of Puri is due to the fact that the season was not regarded as auspicious for the purpose of pilgrimage. In Nadia and Gaya the number of lodging-houses rose from 190 and 233 to 202 and 315 respectively

The total number of lodgers accommodated during the year again fell from 43,105 in the previous year to 36,897 The decrease extended to all places where the Act is in force, except Sitakund and Deoghar; and was most marked in the chatties along the Jagannath Road in the three districts of Orissa and the town of Puri. The cause of this has been stated above There was also a large decrease in Nadia and Gaya, in the latter of which places it is ascribed to the operation of the recent orders raising the space to be allowed for each pilgrim from 16 square feet to 24 square feet with a height of 9 feet. Other causes which accounted for the decrease were the famine, and the measures of prevention against plague adopted at railway stations

Income.—The total income of the year was Rs 32,798 against Rs 34,244 in 1896 97, the opening balance being Rs 27,776 and the closing balance Rs. 23,798. There was a decrease under the heads "Fees for licensing and regulating lodging-houses" and "Fees for the issue of Health Officers' certificates," due to the fall in the total number of lodgers for whom accommodation was provided during the year There was also a considerable decrease under the head "Other fees," the only income under that head being Rs. 187 against Puri town There was, however, an increase of income derived under the heads "Fines" and "Miscellaneous." The increase under the former head is in many cases said to have been due to the energy of the Assistant Health Officers in bringing to light instances of overcrowding in the lodging-houses. The increase under the latter head was derived mainly from the chalties in the Cuttack and Balasore districts, that against Cuttack being due chiefly to the payment by the Bengal-Nagpur Railway of the sum of Rs 2,058 as compensation for the acquisition of the Gopalpur rest-house. The increase in Balasore is attributed to the fact that "the income derivable from roadside lands increased greatly during the year by annual auction sale." The Commissioner remarks that it is not clear whether this is the result of brisker bidding or of the introduction of a new system of auctioning for one year only. The receipts in 1896-97 were only Rs 4, but in 1895-96 they were Rs 1,718. These fluctuations require further explanation. In Gaya the fees were raised from 12 annas to Re 1 per pilgrim with a view to making good any falling off in receipts that might result from the enforcement of the Government order directing the provision of increased accommodation.

Expenditure—The total expenditure was Rs 37,072, against Rs 40,845 in 1896-97. The decrease was chiefly under the head "Conservancy." Practically the whole of this decrease occurred in Gaya, where the expenditure was reduced from Rs 9,625 to Rs 3,448. The closing balance at Gaya is very large, and should be utilized and not hoarded. Under the head "Miscellaneous" Rs 3,993 was expended, against Rs 1,072 in the previous year. This increase was chiefly due to the acquisition of land at Sitakund, but the purpose for which the land was acquired has not been stated. The closing balances of all the funds have sunk to Rs 23,798, against Rs 27,976 in the previous year. In Sitakund, Gaya and Cuttack, however, they are considerable, and the money might be expended on works of improvement.

Prosecutions—The number of prosecutions for offences under the Act and bye-laws was 262 against 138 in the preceding year, and the number of persons accused was 253 against 139. The amount of fines recovered also rose from Rs 1,093 to Rs 1,323.

Public Health—The health of the places where the Act was in force is reported to have been generally good during the year, and it is satisfactory to note that no serious epidemic occurred. In Nadia there were seven cases of cholera with six deaths, against 11 cases and eight deaths during the previous year. In Ulubaria there were only seven deaths from cholera, diarrhoea and all other diseases, against ten from cholera alone in the previous year. In Gaya there were 73 deaths from cholera against 26 in the previous year, and altogether there were 101 deaths among pilgrims from all causes, against 87 in the preceding year. In all the places in the Orissa Division there were 148 deaths from cholera. In Deoghari cholera was rife for a time, but the general health of the town was not bad. One hundred and eighteen persons were inoculated with anti-choleraic virus, the example being set by the Subdivisional Officer, Mr. Heard. There was no death from any cause at Sitakund. At Sitakund a new cholera hospital seems to be built every year, the materials of the old one being sold. It is presumed that these are temporary mat and thatch structures, but the arrangement seems extravagant, and it might be well to employ part of the balance in hand in constructing a more permanent building. The following statement shows the statistics of disease and mortality among the pilgrims during the year—

N.B.—This statement does not include the figures for the town of Deoghari, which have not been supplied by the Commissioner of the Bhagalpur Division.

Water supply —In Garhbeta the excavation of a well for the supply of good drinking water, sanctioned in Government Order No. 1913M, dated the 5th May 1896, was completed during the year. The Health Officer reports that another well is urgently required in the interior of the town, where the want of good drinking-water is very badly felt. The Commissioner has the matter under consideration. In Dantun, where the water-supply appears to be good, one masonry well is under construction. In Uluberia nothing was spent towards the improvement of the water-supply. There is only one good tank in the town, and the want of another is much felt. Mr Duke, the Magistrate of Howrah, writes that the Lodging-house Committee have initiated a movement in Uluberia for procuring another reserved tank with the help of local subscriptions. In all the places in the Orissa Division the tanks and wells were cleared and properly disinfected. In Puri two earthen ring wells were sunk close to the merchants' bazaar in Markundshahi, where the want of drinking-water was much felt, and the construction of masonry wells is said to have been commenced at different localities, in accordance with the scheme sanctioned in Government Order No. 1669M, dated the 22nd March 1898. A tank in the town, the water of which had become very offensive, was filled up with earth, and another was dewatered and thoroughly cleansed. At Sitakund an iron pipe conveying water from the Mandaguni Spring on the Chandia Nath Hill to the temple of Shambhu Nath, was laid at a cost of Rs 1,260, of which Rs 1,000 was contributed by Mohanto Kishore Bow. The water of the spring is said to be excellent. Other tanks were also cleared and reserved for drinking purposes. In Nadia most of the people obtain their drinking water from the sacred stream of the Baghnathi, on the bank of which the town is situated. The municipality spent a sum of Rs 99½ in sinking two masonry wells.

8 On the whole the Act appears to have worked satisfactorily and without friction during the year, and the local officers generally have taken an interest in its administration.

ORDER —Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be submitted to the Government of India, in the Home Department, and that copies be forwarded to the Commissioners of the Burdwan, Presidency, Chittagong, Patna, Bhagalpur and Orissa Divisions for information.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution be communicated to the Sanitary Commissioner and to the Sanitary Board and that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CIVIL VETERINARY DEPARTMENT, BENGAL, FOR 1897-98

Calcutta, the 16th September 1898

RESOLUTION—No 8158

READ—

The Annual Report of the Civil Veterinary Department, Bengal, for the year 1897-98

Letter No 1899A, dated 26th August 1898, from the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, submitting the Report

THE report which was due to Government on the 1st June, and which was submitted by the Superintendent of the Civil Veterinary Department to the Director of Land Records and Agriculture on 2nd May, was not received from the latter until the 27th August. The delay was probably in the printing. The report might have been very much shortened by more systematic arrangement, and a great deal of unnecessary matter was inserted in the appendices, defects which the Director of Land Records will set himself, in consultation with the Superintendent, to put right before the next report is undertaken. Some of the subjects mentioned do not find a fitting place in an Annual Administration Report, and should have been dealt with in special reports. These are, however, defects which will not recur, and the Lieutenant-Governor hastens to recognize the spirit and energy which have led to notable improvements in every branch of the work.

2. Bengal Veterinary Institution—The hostel attached to the institution at Belgatchia, affording accommodation to a maximum of fifty students, was opened during the year, and at the end of the session all the students were resident within it. The Lieutenant Governor notices with pleasure the improvement in discipline which is reported to have followed, as also the success attending Captain Raymond's efforts to foster a spirit of activity and manliness among the boarders, by the encouragement of riding and gymnastics and the exercise of a firm but sympathetic control. Sanction has recently been given to the lease of a considerable area of land adjoining the hostel which will afford ample space for the recreation of the students, and for the accommodation of animals forming the subject of experiment or requiring isolation.

Fifteen students continued their studies in the lower course throughout the year, and were all successful in the examination for promotion held in March 1898. The examination continued to be held by the Superintendent, the proposal that it should be conducted by the Board of Examiners having fallen through. At the final examination 15 candidates presented themselves, of whom 14 passed. The results show a considerable improvement on those of the preceding year, when out of 14 candidates, 9 only were successful. The difficulty of imparting a thorough practical knowledge during a course of two years nominally, but which with vacations, &c., is barely a year and a half, is again represented, the extension of the course to three years is still under the consideration of the Government of India.

Twenty stipends paid by Government were awarded to students during the year, and six stipends were contributed by various District Boards and held by their nominees. The Superintendent draws attention to the regrettable failure of Muhammadan students, and to the necessity for the exercise of care on the part of District Boards in the distribution of their nominations. A statement is annexed to the report, showing the subsequent history of the 35 passed Veterinary Assistants whom the institution has turned out, from which it appears that 14 are in permanent employ, 2 obtained permanent posts which they subsequently resigned, 5 are in private practice, 2 have found temporary work, and 2 have been more or less lost sight of, 4 are undergoing further training, and the remaining 6 are but newly passed and have not yet settled down. It will be seen therefore that the prospects of employment offered to the students are excellent, while the field of possible employment is still but slightly trenching on

3. Infirmery for animals.—The number of animals treated as in-patients at the Veterinary Hospital rose to 714, and as out-patients to 325, in comparison with 479 and 248 respectively in the preceding year. The increase is satisfactory, and while indicating the growing appreciation of the institution, is most beneficial in extending the experience of the students by the exhibition of the treatment of actual cases. The death-rate among the cases treated fell from 12.3 to 8 per cent, while the percentage of recoveries from rinderpest rose from 20 per cent. to 50 during the year under report. Captain Raymond remarks that with the number of rinderpest and glanders cases admitted, and the fact that so many cases are not sent until their condition is hopeless, there must always be a tendency for the death rate to be high. 272 operations were performed as compared with 166 during 1896-97. A revised scale of fees for the treatment of cases in the hospital was sanctioned after the close of the year, and its effect on the number of admissions should be especially noticed, after experience has been gained of its working. The number of horses shod at the forge decreased from 368 to 307, the change of regiments at Dum-Dum being suggested as the cause. Enquiries for the purpose of ascertaining whether it would be worth while to engage a European farrier to teach men sent from the districts, met with no favourable response.

4. Veterinary Dispensaries.—The working of the Sitamarhi dispensary continued to be encouraging, nearly double the number of cases in the previous year being treated. While the Veterinary Assistant went out to treat epidemics in the villages, and the more well-to-do and educated availed themselves of the dispensary, the ordinary cultivator brought in practically no cases. Some improvements were made in the Patna dispensary, though others still appear possible. A new dispensary at Dumraon has been opened by the liberality of the Maharani, and others are in contemplation at Gaya, Dacca, and Muzaffarpur, by the Court of Wards as Manager of the Hatwa Estate, and by Mr. Toomey, of the Kanti Indigo Factory in Muzaffarpur. A donation of Rs. 20,000 was offered some time ago to establish a veterinary hospital at Howrah, but the proposal was referred for further consideration, and has not as yet been resubmitted in a complete form.

5. Outbreaks of contagious disease.—Only 25 cases of glanders were admitted into the institution at Belgatchia during the year, but Captain Raymond expresses a suspicion that the disease is far more prevalent in Calcutta than these figures would appear to indicate. The two principal diseases in the town are foot-and-mouth disease and rinderpest. The mortality from the former is small (about 2 per cent. of the cases attacked), but indirectly in the temporary loss of the use of the animals, the results are more serious. From rinderpest Captain Raymond estimates no less than 16,707 animals have died during the last four years, involving a loss of some  $3\frac{1}{2}$  lakhs of rupees, taking an all round value of Rs. 20 per head. The necessity for embodying further powers to deal with epizootic disease in the Calcutta Municipal Bill, is under the consideration of Government.

A severe outbreak of glanders in North Bihar led to the extension of the Glanders and Farcy Act, XX of 1879, to the districts of Muzaffarpur, Champaran, and Saran, and the appointment of three Special Veterinary Assistants in addition to the Superintendent of the Civil Veterinary Department and his staff, as Inspectors under the Act. Detection of the disease by the use of mallein was adopted, the Planters' Association contributing towards the cost. The operations are still in progress.

Rinderpest and foot-and-mouth disease appeared to a greater and less extent in most districts, those of Mymensingh, Bhagalpur, Midnapore, Nadia, and Burdwan suffering most severely from the former disease and Palamou, where the number of cases reported amounted to 22,562, from the latter.

Birbhum, Rangpur, Darbhanga, Dacca, Gaya, Midnapore, Cuttack, Manbhum, Saran, 24 Parganas, Angul, Darjeeling, Bhagalpur, and Muzaffarpur.

Veterinary Assistants were engaged to deal with outbreaks of disease in the districts marginally noted, and in the Municipalities of Dacca and of Baranagar in the 24-Parganas. In the Resolution of last year special attention was drawn to the necessity for the communication of prompt information of outbreaks of disease by District Officers to the Superintendent of the Civil Veterinary Department. The latter has been in correspondence with District Collectors as to the possibility of officers in charge of thanas sending information to him direct. There appear to be practical difficulties in the way; and the subject is reported to be under the consideration of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture, but the Lieutenant-Governor does not consider there should be undue delay in communicating information through the District Officers, were the matter treated with the urgency it deserves.

6 Experiments on the subject of Dr. Koch's system of inoculation against rinderpest—Captain Raymond has given a full and detailed account of the experiments undertaken by him in the demonstration of Dr. Koch's system of inoculation against rinderpest. The value of the results achieved has already been recognised, and the Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank Mr. Toomey, of the Kanti Factory, Muzaffarpur, for the valuable assistance rendered by him to the Veterinary Department in the matter.

7 Cattle Fairs and Shows—Captain Raymond was unfortunately prevented by the stress of his other duties from visiting all the important cattle fairs held during the year. The Lieutenant-Governor recognises that this was unavoidable, though in view of the influence of these gatherings in the spread of epizootic disease, it was to be regretted.

8 Horse, Mule and Cattle Breeding—At the request of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, Captain Raymond was requested to make special enquiries into the possibility of improving the breed of the ordinary country pony. These enquiries are said to be in progress, but the whole subject of horse-breeding in the province has fallen behind, and its revival will be a matter of time and difficulty. The attempt to introduce mule-breeding into Shahabad has not so far met with much success. Babu Hardhyan Sing, Vice Chairman of the Buxar Municipality, is reported to have offered assistance, but the arrangements do not seem to have worked altogether smoothly.

In the matter of cattle-breeding, the Lieutenant-Governor regrets to observe the statement by Captain Raymond that further experience tends to confirm his previously expressed opinion that the breed of cattle is degenerating. The experiment of sending bulls from Tirhut to the lower districts of Bengal has not proved a success, and a falling off in the Ilissar bulls imported for use in Tirhut is also reported. It is now suggested that Bengal should undertake the breeding of bulls to meet her own requirements, and the old Pusa Stud Farm in the Dabhanga district is mentioned as a likely locality for the purpose. The detailed proposals are still under the consideration of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture, and have not as yet been submitted to Government.

9 Financial and General—The expenditure of the Civil Veterinary Department during the financial year amounted to Rs 45,096, and receipts from fees to Rs 4,988.

Captain Raymond was on tour for a period of 171 days, and to meet the difficulties involved in carrying on much of his work during his absence from Calcutta, a proposal has recently been submitted to the Government of India for the appointment of a Personal Assistant to him.

The Lieutenant-Governor desires to express his thanks to Captain Raymond for the zealous energy he has brought to bear in the discharge of his duties and for the excellent results attained. All round there has been advance. The students of the Veterinary College are better taught, qualified practitioners are being turned out in increasing numbers, employment is ready for them as fast as they are ready for employment, progress is being made in the diagnosis and treatment of disease, and support and encouragement are being received on all sides to the work of the Department. Thanks are also due to Mr. Lyon for his supervision of the Department as Director of Land Records and Agriculture, and to the Committee of Management of the Bengal Veterinary Institution.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

M. FINUCANE,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Lohardaga.—Rainfall at Sadar 5.89. Serguja sowing nearly finished. State of standing crops good. Rice sells at Ranchi 9 seers per rupee and in the interior from 11 to 16 seers per rupee. Cattle-disease continues in the interior. Fodder and water sufficient. Grain in stock sufficient.

Manbhum.—Rainfall at Sadar 4.81, Gobindpur 4.99. Weather seasonable. Prospects of crops excellent. Cattle-disease not reported. Fodder and water sufficient. Average price of common rice at Sadar 13 seers and at Gobindpur 12 seers per rupee. Supply sufficient.

Singhbhum—Rainfall 5.41. Prospects excellent. Rice 12 to 16 seers per rupee.

General Summary—There was heavy rain accompanied by high wind throughout the Province during the week. Heavy floods are reported from the Patna Division, specially from Muzaffarpur and Champaran, and have done considerable damage to the bhados crops. In some places the rice crop has also been submerged. In Noakhali some damage is also reported from excessive rain. The general prospects of the crops in all other parts of the Province are favourable. The bhados crops are being rapidly harvested. New aus rice and makai are selling cheap. In Champaran prices, which rose last week owing to the floods, have fallen slightly. Cattle are generally in good condition, except in the flooded tracts. Some cattle-disease is reported.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF AUGUST 1898

THE chief feature of the weather over Bengal during August, in contrast to what obtained in July, was the general heavy rainfall in all parts of the province, except the extreme north-east corner, including Cooch Behar, the Duars and part of Jalpaiguri, where there was a large deficiency, in some places as much as 20 inches. The average fall during July was generally between 80 and 90 per cent of the normal, the defect being most marked in North Bengal. Excepting that division, where there was only 87 per cent of the normal in August, all other parts of the province received a large excess, more especially Orissa and Lower Bengal. Over that large area the excess varied from 33 to 57 per cent of the normal.

The rainfall which was well maintained throughout the month was due to the frequency of low pressure areas over the land, the occurrence of which is on all occasions favourable for rainfall. Depressions during August form either in the north-west angle of the Bay at no great distance from the Orissa coast, or over Lower Bengal. In the former case the usual line of advance is to the north-west across Orissa and Chota Nagpur, the rainfall being to a large extent confined to the south-western districts. In the second case the rainfall is much more general and continuous. The land depressions are more shallow, slower in movement, and affect the weather over any particular area for a longer time.

The disturbances during the past month were more of the nature of the second class. Though the centre of the cyclonic circulation was on two occasions over the Bay, it was close to the Bengal coast, and as the depressions remained shallow and soon moved over the land, the time for development was not sufficient to give rise to cyclonic storms with strongish winds and rough sea over the north of the Bay. The rainfall was in consequence more heavy and better distributed over the province than if a cyclonic disturbance had passed over Orissa towards the north-west.

The first depression began to form about the 7th, and after remaining shallow and stationary over Lower Bengal and the extreme north of the Bay for two days, it moved towards Bihar, where it filled up about the 11th. The subsequent changes of pressure resulted in a widespread shallow depression over the province between the 12th and 15th, during which period rainfall was heavy and general. The second depression partly over the north of the Bay appeared on the 21st and moved westward more rapidly than the previous one. It originated in Burma and crossed Lower Bengal and the north of the Bay in a direction almost due west.

Though the rainfall was more heavy in places during the passage of this depression, it was not till two or three days afterwards, viz about the 24th, that the rising pressure in the west, accompanied by a brisk fall in the east or north east, gave rise to a land depression similar to what occurred about the middle of the month. From the 24th to the 29th it remained over Bengal proper and caused heavy general rainfall in all districts except those in the extreme north-east and the south-west.

At the beginning of August pressure was falling briskly in Burma and rising slowly in Bihar, so that though everywhere below the normal, readings were comparatively low in the east. Winds were more westerly than usual over the Bay, but were more normal in Bengal. A very shallow depression drifted westward over the province on the 2nd and 3rd without perceptibly influencing the general weather conditions, and on the latter date the pressure distribution was fairly normal.

On the 4th a brisk fall of pressure again began in the east or north-east and continued steadily for several days, extending slowly south-westward till on the 7th a shallow depression was shown over the north of the Bay and Lower Bengal. During the 5th and 6th, when pressure was lowest over the central districts of the province, and a cyclonic circulation of light winds prevailed, rainfall was general and sometimes heavy, but after the depression became better defined on the 7th, rainfall was much lighter, and such falls as occurred during the subsequent development of the disturbance were chiefly in the south-western districts.

From the 9th it began to move in a north-westerly direction, on the 11th the central area was in Bihar, and by the 12th it had almost disappeared, but there was still a diffused area of low pressure over Bengal, as shown by the general defect of a tenth of an inch.

The changes on the 13th were of greater importance from the point of view of rainfall than any of those during the previous week. Pressure rose in the west and fell briskly in the east, so that the shallow land depression which was faint on the 12th became well defined on the 13th with a regular cyclonic circulation of winds. Rainfall became general and was heavy over almost the whole province on the 14th. It followed the low pressure area towards the north west, and was still fairly heavy in Bihar on the 15th, and in the extreme west on the 16th, by which time the depression had almost disappeared. On the 17th the distribution was normal over the whole area, rainfall being light everywhere and scattered in places, especially towards the north.

Pressure continued to rise, and the excess readings recorded between the 17th and 20th were practically the only ones during the month. A fall had by that time begun in Burma, and another shallow depression moved westward from that area, but with greater speed than before. It was over the north of the Bay and Lower Bengal on the 21st, and was passing out of the province on the 22nd.

Pressure rose rapidly on the 23rd, and the distribution was again nearly normal, but for a short period only, as pressure changes similar to those which occurred on the previous occasion resulted in another shallow land depression. This depression, though developing steadily, was not well defined till the 26th, when the area of lowest pressure was shown over the central districts of the province. The heavy rainfall which had begun in North Bengal on the 25th was much more general on the 26th, and as the depression first moved slowly eastward, then due westward, the heavy rain continued in places for several days. On the 30th the depression had practically left the province, and on the 31st after a rapid rise of pressure in Chota Nagpur the distribution was again normal.

Pressure, as stated above, has rarely been above the normal, and then by only small amounts. On the other hand, it has frequently been below, and at times, during the existence of depressions, by considerable amounts. The means for the month are hence below the normal over the whole province by about 0.6 inch. The deficit diminishes rather quickly over the head of the Bay, which shows an average gradient for the month considerably steeper than usual over that area. As it was normal in direction, it was favourable for a strong monsoon over the province and for the general and continuous rainfall, which was a marked feature of the month.

Temperature differed very little from the normal on an average for the month. On the whole, the day readings were relatively lower than those for the nights, probably owing to the cloudy weather which obtained with little or no break. In North Bengal, where there was less cloud and rain, mean temperature was about half a degree above the normal, in other parts it was low by similar small amounts.

Rainfall was almost continuous throughout the month, except in some of the outlying districts, where occasional small breaks occurred, while pressure was low over the central parts of the province. The only area of deficient rainfall of any importance is in North Bengal and North Bihar, and includes Jalpaiguri, Cooch Behar and the northern half of Rangpur. There the deficiency ranges up to 20 inches. The actual falls were not so deficient in North Bihar, but when compared with the normal the defect is as large as in North Bengal. As will be seen in a table below, the defect expressed as a percentage of the normal was 60 at Jalpaiguri, 46 at Cooch Behar and 42 at Purnea.

The defect in North Bihar was counterbalanced by the heavy falls in South Bihar, the average fall for the whole division being 1.36 inches above the normal.

In Orissa and Chota Nagpur there was occasionally a deficiency, rarely more than 2 inches, while over South and Central Bengal falls were everywhere above the normal with the exception of a part of the Midnapore district, where there was a small defect.

The comparison of the actual rainfall in the various large divisions of the province with the normal is most accurately and conveniently shown in the form of a percentage. The figures representing the rainfall for the month, calculated in this way, are included in the table below under the heading of August. This table really gives a condensed summary of the rainfall statistics of the present year up to date for each meteorological division, the first eight columns giving the actual average rainfalls in each division in each month expressed as a percentage of the normal, while the ninth column gives the total rainfall for the first eight months expressed as a percentage of the normal rainfall for that period —

METEOROLOGICAL Divisions	January	February	March	April	May	June	July	August	Actual rainfall of first eight months of 1898 expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for the period

The following table gives full data for comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of August in all districts of the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance or weight being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 25 years; the second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district; the third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal.

rainfall as a percentage the fourth column states as a percentage how much the district rainfall of the month varied from the normal —

The mean pressure, temperature, &amp;c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA,

CLERKSHIPS (CLASS I) IN THE HOME CIVIL SERVICE, AND EASTERN CADETSHIPS

Syllabus showing the extent of the Examination in certain subjects

English Composition—An Essay to be written on one of several subjects specified by the Civil Service Commissioners on their Examination Paper

English Language and Literature—The Examination will be in two parts. In the one the Candidates will be expected to show a general acquaintance with the course of English Literature, as represented (mainly) by the following writers in verse and prose, between the reign of Edward III and the accession of Queen Victoria

Verse—Chaucer, Langland, Spenser, Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Pope, Gray, Collins, Johnson, Goldsmith, Crabbe, Cowper, Campbell, Wordsworth, Scott, Byron, Coleridge, Shelley, Keats

Prose—Bacon, Sir Thomas Browne, Milton, Cowley, Bunyan, Dryden, Swift, Defoe, Addison, Johnson, Burke, Scott, Macaulay (Essays and Biographies)

A minute knowledge of the works of these authors will not be looked for in this part of the Examination, which will, however, test how far the Candidates have studied the chief productions of the greatest English writers in themselves, and are acquainted with the leading characteristics of their thought and style, and with the place which each of them occupies in the history of English Literature. Candidates will also be expected to show that they have studied in these authors the history of English Language in respect of its vocabulary, syntax, and prosody.

The other part of the Examination will relate to one of the periods named below, which will follow each other year by year in the order indicated —

1	A D 1800 to A D 1832
(1899)	[Nineteenth Century writers to the death of Scott]
2	A D 1600 to A D 1600
(1900)	[Chaucer to Spenser]
3	A D 1600 to A D 1700
(1901)	[Shakespeare to Dryden]
4	A D 1700 to A D 1800
(1902)	[Pope to Cowper]

The Examination in this part will require from Candidates a more minute acquaintance with the history of the English Language and Literature, as illustrated in the chief works produced in each period, and will be based to a considerable extent, but by no means exclusively, on certain books specified each year by the Commissioners*. The names placed under the dates are intended to suggest the general character of the literary development of the period, and, consequently, the natural limits of the Examination. All the works of Shakespeare, for example, will be regarded as falling within the period 1600 to 1700, all the works of Swift within the period 1700 to 1800, all the works of Scott and Wordsworth, and all the works of Macaulay within the period 1800 to 1832.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER, BENGAL, FOR THE YEAR 1897

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION

Calcutta, the 19th September 1898

RESOLUTION No 57828

READ—

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for the year 1897

Read again—

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for the year 1896, and the Resolution of Government recorded thereon

THE Report was nearly four months late, but for this the Lieutenant-Governor attaches no blame to the Sanitary Commissioner, who, he is well aware, had entailed upon him, by the supervision and organization of plague precautionary measures, an enormous increase of work. In a note submitted on the 19th of February (printed as Appendix V to his Report), the Sanitary Commissioner has examined the effect of famine and scarcity on the general health of the people as reflected in the birth and death-rates, and he has incidentally noted on the variations in fever, cholera, and dysentery resulting from dearness of provisions and famine. No statistics of mortality among relief workers, or those on gratuitous relief in the various districts, were available. This is a matter for regret, as valuable inferences might have been drawn. The exceptional healthiness of the year under report is attributed by the Sanitary Commissioner to the abnormal dryness of the preceding year.

2 Birth rate—The total number of birth registered in Bengal during the year under report was 2,625,844 against 2,703,486 in the previous year, the rate per mille of population falling from 38.03 to 36.94. With the exception of the Panjab, the rate is higher than in any other province in India. The whole of this improvement has been effected since 1892, before which year the registration of vital statistics in Bengal compared most unfavourably with those of other provinces. Within the province the birth rate varied from 33.93 in the Patna Division to 42.05 in Orissa. The decrease in the birth-rate is ascribed to the scarcity which prevailed from October 1896 to September 1897, and which lowered the vitality of the people and reduced their fecundity. That the reason assigned is correct has been clearly shown by the statistics of the 15 famine districts*. It appears that in each of these districts, except Nadia and Puri, there was a decrease which varied from 9 per mille in Champaran to 1 per mille in Bhagulpur, while all the districts which escaped severity, except Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Bogra, Mymensingh, Backergunge, Tippera, Noakhali, Chittagong, Gaya, and Singhbhum, show either an increase or no appreciable decrease in the birth rate. It is to be noted that the districts which form the exceptions are among those which suffered most severely from fever, Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Bogra, Backergunge, and Noakhali all showing a mortality under this head of over 20 per mille. Patna, the division in which the famine was most severe, returns the lowest birth rate, while Orissa, which last year occupied the fourth place, heads the list with a birth rate of 42.05 per mille. Chittagong and Dacca, which last year occupied the first and second places, come next with birth rates of 39.62 and 39.72, respectively. The high birth rate which has been consistently returned from the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions ever since the introduction of registration has been ascribed to the fact that Muhammadans (who form 65 and 71 per cent, respectively, of the inhabitants of these divisions) have a more varied and nutritious diet than the Hindus, while widow marriage, which is permissible by Musalman law, adds to the numbers of their reproductive women. Of the divisions in which Hindus predominate, Orissa and Chota Nagpur return the highest birth-rates, and this is ascribed to the fact that they are furthest from civilization and contain a large number of aboriginal tribes, among whom widow marriage prevails, and who exercise little or no control from prudential motives over the number of children they bring into the world.

Coming to individual districts, Malda (47.40) shows the highest birth-rate, closely followed by Noakhali (44.71) and Murshidabad (44.64), while Calcutta (18.46) again occupies the lowest place—a position it is likely to hold as long as the proportion of males to females continues as it now is, nearly 2 to 1. As compared with the average birth-rate for the five years 1892-1896, 36 out of the 46 districts in the province show an increase—an indication that registration is steadily improving. As in the previous year, 11 towns showed a birth rate of over 40 per mille, and for the fourth year in succession Jamalpur, with a rate of 52.62, headed the list. Jhalakati, in the district of Backergunge, again shows the smallest number of births, and its rate decreased from 7.61 to 2.11. This is due to the fact that the male population of the town is more than four times as numerous as the female population.

3 Death-rate—The number of deaths registered during the year under report fell from 2,428,830 in the previous year to 2,341,632, giving a proportion of 32.91 per thousand of population as compared with 34.17 in 1896. The decline in the death rate is stated to have been due to cholera and fever being less prevalent, the mortality from these diseases amounting to 2.76 and 23.62 per mille, respectively, as compared with 3.19 and 24.76 in the previous year. The Sanitary Commissioner has drawn attention to the fact that in the districts where the rainfall was deficient in 1896, the death rate during 1897 was below the average, arguing that the lesser saturation of the soil produces less malaria, and that for this reason the year succeeding an unusually dry season is generally healthy. This theory is probably well founded, but it cannot be said to be entirely established by the figures given, for though in 10 out of 15 famine districts a deficient rainfall in 1896 was followed by a reduced death-rate in 1897, yet there is no sort of proportion between the shortage of the rainfall and the reduction in the death-rate while in Murshidabad and Shahabad the facts were exactly reversed. Moreover, in Pabna, where the mortality from all causes, and especially fever, was abnormally high, the Civil Surgeon is quoted by the Sanitary Commissioner without dissent as attributing the high death-rate to the scanty rainfall of 1896. It is probable that the effect of short rainfall on the public health must depend to some extent on the character of the country, and that a dry high lying district will be differently affected from one of which a large part is covered by swamps and marshes. The matter is well worth considering, and the Lieutenant Governor will be glad if the Sanitary Commissioner will examine it more fully, analysing the figures of as many years as are available.

In towns the death rate fell from 36.14 in 1896 to 35.09. The highest death-rate recorded is from Lohardaga (89.59) (an increase of 59.36 over the previous year's rate), while Hazaribagh (78.41 as compared with 38.68 in the previous year), Kotrung (67.00), Chitra (66.30), Daltonganj (61.62) and Buxar (60.94) all return death rates of over 60 per mille. The increase was due to great mortality from cholera or fever, and in many cases from both. Eighteen towns show a death-rate in excess of the provincial estimate of 44 per mille. Thirteen out of these were situated in famine stricken districts.

4 Death-rate in rural areas.—The death rate in rural areas fell from 34.07 to 32.83 per mille. The enormously high death-rate of 152.94 in Chakaria (Chittagong) was due to the fact that 5,377 people perished during the cyclone of the 24th October. In 60 rural areas the death rate exceeded 11 per mille, and where malarial fever got a footing, the death rates were abnormally high. From a comparison of death-rates in town and rural areas, it appears that the mortality from cholera, dysentery, and diarrhoea was higher in town areas, while fever was more deadly in rural areas. These facts are explained by the crowding together of people in towns, and to the defective drainage and absence of a proper supply of pure drinking water in the mufassal.

5 Death-rate by sex and age.—The death-rate among males fell from 36.98 to 35.87 and that among females from 31.38 to 30.03. The following table compares the mortality according to age during the last two years—

Total	2,341,632	32.94	2,428,830	34.17

A most interesting diagram, based on the statistics of the last ten years, showing the average mortality according to sex at all ages of life, has been given. From this it appears that the death rate at all ages of life was higher among males than females. On this subject the Sanitary Commissioner writes as follows —

“It is again noticeable that at all ages of life the death rate amongst males is greater than that amongst females. Seeing that the female population is larger than the male population, and that both live in almost the same conditions of life, the greater mortality amongst males would seem to be inexplicable. But it is really easy of explanation. It is well known that male children are more difficult to rear than female children, and male adults are more exposed to vicissitudes of climate and accident than females. Hence the mortality amongst them must be greater than amongst females. As regards infant mortality, it is not possible to give any good reason for the great excess of mortality in the first year of life; it would seem that it must depend upon some constitutional difference.”

6 Conviction for non-registration—The number of persons convicted for neglecting to register births and deaths was 1,810 as against 1,969 in the previous year, and the amount of fines imposed was Rs 2,034 2 as against Rs 2,857-1

Inspecting officers of the Vaccination Department enquired into 178,528 births and 124,204 deaths, with the result that 3,043 births and 1,944 deaths were found not to have been entered in the thana registers. The omission was duly brought to the notice of the District Police officials, and the defaulting chaukidars are reported to have been either warned or fined. The figures show that registration is still far from being as accurate as it should be. This is especially in the districts of Rangpur, Rajshahi, and Dinajpur, all in the Rajshahi Division.

7 Death-rate from various causes.—The following table compares the mortality during the year from the principal diseases with the mortality of the previous year and the average of the decade 1887-1896 —

The abnormal mortality from cholera in Chota Nagpur is attributed to famine having weakened the general vitality of the people, and thus rendered them more liable to bowel complaints—a liability enhanced by the nature of the food, consisting chiefly of jungle products, which they were forced to consume to stave off hunger. No doubt had there been a similar source of food-supply in Bihar, the mortality from cholera would have increased there also. Orissa again shows a high mortality from cholera, and indeed all other diseases except fever, which was most prevalent in Bihar and Chota Nagpur.

8 Influence of high prices on vital statistics—The prices of food-grains in 1896 were almost everywhere slightly higher than the average prices during the quinquennium immediately preceding, while in 1897 they ranged in the various districts from 25 to 43 per cent. above normal.

There was an increase of the birth-rate in 19 districts and a decrease in 26, while the death-rate fell in 28 districts and rose in 18. The influence of high prices has a much greater effect on the birth than on the death rate, and it is to this cause that the Sanitary Commissioner ascribes the general decrease in the former rate. He points out, however, that the full effect of high prices in diminishing the birth-rate cannot be looked for till the statistics of next year appear, as in the majority of births registered during the year conception must have taken place before the pinch of scarcity began to be felt. This is illustrated by the diminution in the birth-rate during October, November, and December 1897 in the three famine districts of Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, and Palamau.

9 Cholera.—The mortality from this disease during the year under report was less than in 1896, but rather greater than in the decennial period 1887-96, the proportion of deaths per mille falling from 3.19 to 2.76. It visited 29,776 villages, or 2,316 more than in the previous year. It is possible that the failure of the mango crop, which seemed so unfortunate at the time, was really a blessing in disguise, and may have contributed to the low death-rate under this head.

The mortality was highest in Puri (9.57), while in Chittagong, Lohardaga, Manbhum, Palamau, Cuttack, Hazaribagh, Backergunge, and Faridpur, it exceeded 5 per mille. Puri invariably suffers severely from this disease, which was epidemic in Khurda and Banpur thanas from May to August. There were two serious outbreaks in Chittagong, the latter of which is ascribed by the Civil Surgeon to the cyclone. He remarks—

After the cyclone of the 24th October many of the tanks became polluted by branches and leaves of trees being blown into them and decaying. Added to this, the price of food in the affected areas temporarily rose very high, and people seemed to make up for the deficiency of the ordinary food—rice, vegetables, and dal—by consuming an excessive quantity of the dried bad-smelling fish which is so much used in the district, but which taken in moderate quantities does not seem to be productive of any harm. Taken in large quantities, however, it appears to produce diarrhoea and other disturbances, and must predispose the consumers to the invasion of cholera. It was most prevalent in November and December in those parts of the district in which the effects of the cyclone were most severe."

The Civil Surgeons in the other districts attribute the various outbreaks to a polluted water supply, the deterioration of which in certain districts is ascribed to the upheaval, during the earthquake of 12th June, of the beds of tanks, wells, and small streams. In 15 districts wells were disinfected with lime or permanganate of potash. No definite results are reported from five of these districts, but the reports from the others show that disinfection was attended by beneficial results. The statistics of Ranchi town, which are interesting, are reproduced and commended to the attention of District Officer and municipal authorities. This experience has been strongly corroborated in other Provinces —

Similar statistics were received from Midnapore, Bogra, Mymensingh, Saran, Cuttack, and Palamou. Surgeon Captain Vaughan was in charge of anti cholera inoculation work up to the 3rd August, when he was succeeded by Assistant Surgeon Gopal Chundia Mukerjee. The total number of persons inoculated was 10,900, the great majority of whom were treated in Purulia (town and cooly depôts), Ranchi, and Hazaribagh. No deductions of a conclusive nature have been drawn, but it is reported that such indications as there are go to prove the efficacy of the operation. The subjects were mostly coolies recruited for employment on the Assam tea-gardens, and it is reported that a complete and accurate record of the results is shortly expected from the Assam Government. The seasonal incidence of cholera was most intense in March, April, and May in Bengal, while in Bihar, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur it was highest in June, July, and August.

10. Small-pox — The total number of deaths from small pox rose from 13,388 to 19,675, or by nearly 50 per cent, the ratio per mille being 27 against 18 in the previous year. The highest death-rates were in Shahabad (197), Puri (195), and Gaya (121). In Shahabad the prevalence of the disease is attributed to the large number of unprotected labourers who came to the district during the famine in search of work. In Puri infection is said to have come from the adjoining district of Ganjam in the Madras Presidency. The highest mortalities recorded from towns were Bhadreswar (300), Serampur (236), Howrah (168), and Bhabhua (166). Three rural areas in Shahabad recorded a death-rate from small-pox of over 4 per mille. No deaths from small-pox occurred in the Jalpaiguri district.

11 Fever.—Taking one year with another, about three-fourths of the whole number of deaths from all causes are ascribed to fever. It has often been pointed out that this is partly due to the ignorance of the reporting chaukidars, who cannot be expected to classify the causes of death with accuracy, but even if full allowance is made for this, it is abundantly clear that fever claims more deaths than any other disease.

During 1897 the number of deaths from this cause fell from 1760,225 in the previous year to 1,679,132, the death-rate being 23.62 as against 24.76. This improvement is ascribed to the exceptional healthiness of the first four months of the year. The following table compares the death rate of 1897 with that of 1896 and with the average of the ten years 1887–1896 —

The excessive mortality in Pabna is ascribed by the Civil Surgeon to the scanty rainfall of the previous year and the natural conditions of the district. The latter factor is constant, and cannot be the causa causans of the great recent increase. The former explanation, on the other hand, is at variance with the Sanitary Commissioner's theory referred to in paragraph 3 above. In the adjacent districts of Rangpur and Dinajpur also fever was prevalent in excess of the decennial average, though less severely than in 1896. In Hazaribagh the high fatality is ascribed to the inability of the people, in their weakened condition, to fight against the disease which, in September, became very widespread. The remarks of the Civil Surgeon of Faridpur on the high fever mortality in that district are given below —

"All the conditions necessary for the production of malaria are to be found here in abundance, and to these may be added another factor which is every year gaining ground,—I mean the steeping jute in every available pool or stagnant water. There is hardly a village—hardly a house, which does not go in for this trade and the result is that not a village is to be found which is not surrounded by stagnant water of a very objectionable smell, thickened and turned black by repeated steepings of jute.

"On comparing the statistics of the last ten years it will be observed that mortality from fever has been steadily on the increase. Thus in 1887 we had only 16,024 deaths from it, 20,026 deaths in 1888, 22,287 deaths in 1889, 25,220 deaths in 1890, 31,368 deaths in 1891, 41,790 deaths in 1892, 40,508 deaths in 1893, 37,638 deaths in 1894, 41,144 deaths in 1895, and 48,056 in 1896. I have no doubt that the imperfect system of recording vital occurrences in former years will go some way to explain this vast difference, but when the mortality from fever in 1897 exceeds that of 1887 by three times its number, I think it is impossible to disguise the fact that the health of the district has been steadily deteriorating."

This is a striking opinion. The practice, to which unhealthiness and mortality are here attributed, is not peculiar to Faridpur, and the Lieutenant-Governor will be obliged if the Sanitary Commissioner will draw the attention of Civil Surgeons in all jute-districts to these figures, and invite them to consider the effect on the health of their districts of the practice in question.

12 Sale of quinine—The total number of parcels of quinine, each containing 102 five-grain pice packets, sold during the year fell from 31,867 to 27,915. The decrease was partly due to fever having prevailed to a less extent during the year under report, and partly to the people being unable on account of the high price of food grains to spare money for the luxury of medicine. This result was anticipated in last year's resolution, but with the return of prosperity, a renewal of the demand for quinine may be expected. Out of the 17 districts which returned a fever death rate higher than in 1896, eight districts purchased larger quantities of quinine. During the five months when the mortality from fever was highest, the sale of quinine was also largest.

13 Other causes—The number of deaths from dysentery and diarrhoea recorded during the year rose from 67 per mille to 75. The increase was due to the fact that on account of the prevailing scarcity the poorer classes were forced to live on herbs, roots, leaves of trees, and other unwholesome food. The highest death-rates were returned from Lohardaga (4.96), Calcutta (4.72), Puri (4.08), Howrah (3.97), and Darjeeling (3.86). All these places, except Lohardaga, figure habitually in this list. The deaths from all causes other than those already mentioned were 350,180 as against 352,036 in the previous year.

14 Expenditure on Urban Sanitation—The following statement compares the total expenditure incurred by municipalities on sanitary purposes during the two financial years 1895-96 and 1896-97—

HEADS OF EXPENDITURE	TOTAL EXPENDITURE		DIFFERENCE
	1896-97	1895-96	Increase	Decrease
1	2	3	4	5
	Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
1 Conservancy, including establishment, road watering, latrines, &c	9,21,519	8,88,026	33,493
2 Drainage	1,21,060	1,19,559		28,499
3 Water supply	5,44,984	9,96,441		4,51,457
4 Disposal of the dead	11,781	11,171	610
5 Markets and slaughter houses	15,975	38,513		22,538
6 Treatment of the sick	3,32,653	3,02,792	29,861
7 Vaccination	19,912	19,737	175
8 Other sanitary works	66,380	23,838	42,542
Total	20,34,264	24,30,077		3,95,813
Construction and maintenance of roads	4,36,684	4,16,051	20,633
Total, including roads	24,70,948	28,46,128		3,75,180

The increase in expenditure under the heads "Conservancy," "Treatment of the sick," and "Other sanitary works" was satisfactory. The decrease under "Drainage," "Water supply," and "Markets and slaughter houses" was due solely to reduction in capital outlay. The only large work completed during the year was the extension of the Bhagalpur water-works at a cost of Rs 2,70,955, whereas the Howrah water-works, which were carried to completion in 1896-97, had cost Rs 8,46,247. The ordinary expenditure under these heads showed a considerable increase. The number of municipalities which spent no money on original sanitary works rose from 28 to 37, while only 15 municipalities as against 17 in the previous year devoted more than 10 per cent of their income to works under this head. The Sanitary Commissioner draws attention to the fact that the important towns of Raniganj, Hooghly, Bhadreswar, South Suburbs, Behampore, Noakhali, and Bettia undertook no new sanitary works. This is a disappointing record, which it is trusted will not recur. In spite of attention having been drawn last year to the fact that Dacca, which for many years past has been in an insanitary condition, had spent only 4.28 per cent of its income on original works of sanitary improvement, its expenditure this year has further declined to only 2.40 per cent. The Municipal Commissioners have, however, applied for a loan of Rs 30,000, and the Lieutenant Governor trusts that immediately on its receipt effective action will be taken to improve the conservancy of the town.

15. A statement comparing the death rates before and after the introduction of drainage or water supply schemes in the various important municipalities which have been able to carry out these large projects has been given, and though owing to the defects in registration which obtained in former years the figures are not conclusive, they generally show that all water supply schemes have been followed by a material decrease in the death-rate. The only exception is Nasirabad, but in this town the completion of the scheme was contemporary with the transfer of the registration of deaths to the police, which resulted in the recording of many deaths that had previously escaped record. In the case of drainage works the figures are much less conclusive, but on the whole they afford no reason to doubt the sanitary efficacy of well considered schemes.

16. In Form XI, which appears for the first time in the present report, the Sanitary Commissioner has given an elaborate account of the chief sanitary defects to be found in each of the 147 municipalities in Bengal. These are expressed in various ways, but they may all be summed up in six words,—bad water supply,—bad drainage,—bad conservancy. Their causes may be reduced to two, viz, insufficient funds, and the absence of resolute and well directed efforts for their eradication. There is no short cut to sanitary perfection, but a steady advance may be hoped for if the members of Municipal Boards will take to heart and steadfastly follow the counsel which has been pressed on them again and again, viz, to develop their resources to the utmost, to devote as large a part as they can afford to the prosecution of sanitary improvements, and to discharge their duties undeterred by public hostility or private friendship.

17. Urban and Rural Sanitation—The total amount from all sources spent on sanitary works in urban and rural areas during the year under report was Rs 20,99,335 as against Rs 17,61,776 in the previous year. Of this sum, Rs. 5,31,594 was spent in towns, as compared with Rs 11,24,033, while Rs 15,67,741 was spent in rural areas as against Rs 6,36,143. The Lieutenant Governor has observed with pleasure that the value of works of sanitary improvement carried out by private individuals showed a marked advance from Rs 4,94,131 in 1896 to Rs 11,67,469 in 1897. The greater part of this large sum was spent in the excavation of tanks, including a sum of Rs 1,57,770 spent in constructing seven bunds in Durbhanga, and the works constructed, apart from their effect on the water supply of the province, must have been of appreciable value as a source of employment to the labouring classes in a year of famine.

18. Precautions against plague—A great part of the Sanitary Commissioner's time was occupied in perfecting and supervising arrangements to protect the province against the advance of plague. Inspection stations and observation camps for the examination of passengers coming by rail from infected areas in Western India were established at Khana Junction on the East Indian Railway, and at Katihar, Damukdia, and Khurda Road on other lines. These worked for various periods ranging from a year to 15 months. The total number of passengers examined was 1,181,792, of whom 17,994 were detained for observation. Of these 7 died, but in no case was plague the cause of death. The expenditure incurred amounted to Rs. 2,01,696, of which three-fourths were spent at the principal camp at Khana. Since the close of the year the first three have been closed, being superseded by new camps at Chausa on the East Indian Railway, Manwa on the Bengal and North Western Railway, and Chakradhaipuri on the Bengal Nagpur Railway. The Khurda Road camp on the East Coast Railway is still working.

The Epidemic Diseases Act, III of 1897, became law on the 4th February 1897. This Act empowers the Government of India, and by delegation the Local Government, to take measures and prescribe regulations to prevent the outbreak and spread of any dangerous epidemic disease, including plague, and to determine the incidence of the cost of such measures. No time was lost in making use of the wide and summary powers which the Act conferred upon Government. The first Regulation issued under the Act was published on the 10th February, and entrusted to the Medical Board (which had been constituted in the manner described in paragraph 15 of the Resolution on the Sanitary Commissioner's Report for 1896) the duty of preventing the outbreak and spread of plague in Bengal, and directed all Municipal Corporations throughout the province to carry into effect the measures prescribed by the Medical Board for that purpose, the cost being made chargeable to Municipal Funds. Subsequently, a series of Regulations was published from time to time providing, among other matters, for the inspection of persons travelling by rail or steamer, for the inspection of ships leaving the port, so as to give effect to the requirements of the Venice Convention, to prevent the advent of plague (1) in Calcutta, (2) in towns and cantonments in the interior, and (3) in mufassal areas, and to stamp it out if it should make an appearance. These were modified and amended from time to time according to the teachings of experience gained for the most part in other parts of India. Eventually, on the 10th November 1897, an important Regulation, No. 9 of that date, was issued in supersession of previous orders, and bringing together all the rules for dealing with plague in municipal towns, including Calcutta, and in mufassal villages. The Medical Board was largely expanded by the addition of a number of medical officers, and further representatives of the non official public, and was renamed the Plague Commission. Provision was made for the appointment everywhere of local plague authorities with plenary powers, and for the definition of their duties, and rules were laid down to secure the prompt detection of cases of plague as they occurred, for their removal to hospital, for the segregation of persons who had been in contact with the sick, for the provision of family and caste hospitals, for the evacuation and disinfection of infected dwellings, and for the disposal of the dead. Provision was also made for a number of subsidiary matters of minor importance. This Regulation has, since the close of the year, been expanded by a series of separate Regulations dealing with the mufassal, but in respect of Calcutta it is still in force, and the experience gained since the outbreak of sporadic plague on the 16th April has shown in the Lieutenant Governor's opinion that it is well adapted for its purpose. The events since the 16th April belong to the history of the current year, but it may be stated that nothing has occurred to cast doubt on the soundness and propriety of the principles on which the Regulation was based, and in particular that the provisions for the construction of private caste and family hospitals, for the treatment of individual families and of special classes of the community, have secured the co-operation of the people and have been attended by marked success.

19 Sanitary Board—Under the orders of Government the Sanitary Board prepared a water-supply scheme for the Garden Reach Municipality estimated to cost Rs. 50,000, and a scheme to remodel the Darjeeling water-supply at a cost of Rs. 1,10,000. Want of funds has unfortunately rendered it impossible to carry out either of these projects at present. At the request of the Commissioners of the Patna Municipality, a scheme for flushing the roadside drains at a cost of Rs. 56,000 was also prepared, and administrative sanction to execute a portion of it has been accorded. The Berhampore water-works scheme, which was sanctioned by Government last year, is now under construction, and it is reported that satisfactory progress is being shown. Experiments were made to ascertain whether a supply of drinking water could not be obtained for the Patna Municipality from wells sunk in the old bed of the river Sone. The results were satisfactory, so far as they went, but before pronouncing on the scheme finally, the Board have called for a map of the town and other information, which have not yet been supplied them. The Board had various other schemes under consideration and were consulted by Government on several matters of sanitary importance.

20 Inspections — The Sanitary Commissioner spent 160 days on tour, and most of his time was taken up in organizing plague camps and taking other precautionary measures against the spread of plague.

Of the Deputy Sanitary Commissioners, Dr. Deane spent 38 days on tour and Dr. Peck 27. The latter was in ill health most of the year. During the latter half of the year there was no Deputy Sanitary Commissioner.

21 The Sanitary Commissioner again acknowledges the assistance he has received from Mr. Price, his Personal Assistant, and the Lieutenant Governor desires to thank Surgeon-Major Dyson for the energy, intelligence and self-possession which he brought to bear, not only on the administration of his Department, but on the work of organizing precautionary measures against the spread of plague.

REPORT ON THE QUESTION OF THE POLLUTION OF THE BALLY
KHAL AND THE HOOGLHY

I.—THE BALLY KHAL AND ITS WATER ABOVE THE MILLS

I have at various times visited the khal and gone up its banks as far as about a mile or two above the mills. The alleged sources of pollution above the mills have been put down as follows —

(a) Castings corpses into the khal—This undoubtedly does occasionally take place, but I do not think it occurs to any great extent either in the way of human bodies or the carcases of animals being cast into the Bally khal water or in the way of the former being stacked in the channel.

(b) The open-air visits by the people in its neighbourhood—This varies a great deal at different times in the year, owing to the fact that there are comparatively fewer people living near the khal in the months from 1st May to 1st November, during which time brick making is practically stopped. But during the brick making season Messrs Bull's people employ a great many workmen in the brick-fields adjoining the khal, and there is no question about it. There is a certain amount of soiling of the ground about in these parts. But it must be remembered that during these months of brick-making there is little or no rainfall, and the khal is a tidal one, so that, as its banks are always more or less in a soft soppy condition, the actual open-air defecation that does take place, in so far as Messrs Bull's work-people are concerned, occurs in comparatively dry weather and some distance from the banks. Besides the brick-field labourers, there are various bus'is on the banks, and if the vicinity of these be examined at any time, it will be noticed that the actual banks of the khal are much the same as with any other tidal creek with villages near. Ceteris paribus there should be a great deal more contamination during the brick-making season. Does an analysis of the water show this? Reference to the results of analysis in the appended table shows as follows.—Taking the water above the mills effluent in January 1897 in the full height of the brick-making season, we find, comparing the averages of five analyses in the brick-making season, and five when Bull's brick-fields are not working, that every single form of impurity, except nitrogen, as nitrates and nitrites, is greater during the brick-making season, and the albuminoid ammonia is very high at this time. For chlorine the highest figure here is 11 parts per 100,000, or roughly about 8½ grains per gallon taken at high tide. While the brick-fields are not working, the other three figures for chlorine are all relatively larger during the brick-making season, and the average is a little fallacious on account of the one high observation, but the general chlorine level is so high as to lead one to suspect some special source of contamination,* inasmuch as the other impurities are not as high in proportion. It would appear, therefore, in spite of the average result, that undoubtedly the water of the khal above the mills is in a contaminated condition, and that contamination exists both in the non working season and also in the working season, and appears to be increased during the working season. The nitrogen, as nitrates and nitrites, is very small—only about one-tenth of what may be found in tolerably good water, and the explanation seems to be that most of the contaminations are washed into the stream while yet recent or fairly recent. It is not clear that the contamination is mainly from excreta, and the chlorine is, I think more probably largely from sea-water brought up by the tide. For comparison of the results of analysis for chlorine of this khal water with the Hooghly water at Konnagar (the latter made by Mr. W. R. Cripe, of Messrs D. Waldie and Company, quite independently and without any knowledge on his part of the present enquiry) will show that this is quite a feasible explanation, especially having regard to the fact that there is more tendency to stagnation in the winding khal than in the broad Hooghly, and that Bally is some three miles lower down the river and nearer the sea than Konnagar. Having regard then, to the fact that the khal is washed out twice a day by the Hooghly water, it is not surprising that there should be a large amount of chlorine in it. And if we examine the figures for chlorine in the khal above the mills, we find that they vary from 0.05 to 11.0, i.e., as 1 to 22, while, if we examine this further, we find that the variations in chlorine in the

* Vide tables attached

Hooghly for over three years* are so great that the only explanation of the variations in the khal being so great as 1—22 is that they depend on those in the river, and to some unknown degree they will be affected by the fact that some chlorine passes into the khal water in the effluent from the Bally Paper Mills, but this will be unequal and a varying factor, because some only and not all of it is carried up the khal by the in-coming tide, but having regard to the high figures for albuminoid ammonia it would be perhaps safe to presume that some appreciable proportion of the chlorine is also due to animal contamination—probably faecal matter, and urine.

Having regard to these facts, I should say that the water half a mile up the khal above the mills is distinctly a contaminated water, and contaminated largely by animal refuse and animal excreta.

(c) Jute-steeping is an alleged cause of pollution of the water above the mill. But jute-steeping is not done, and cannot be done, in tidal creeks, and it is not done up the Bally khal as far as I can find out. Further, jute steeping is only done from about the end of August to the end of November (but here I am open to correction). Anyway it is not done all the year round, and this I think we may dispose of as of no practical consequence, as there is no trace of any result of it—even if done—in any of the analyses made. What applies to the khal in its upper reaches applies to contaminations reaching it through its feeders. So that to sum up, we may say that there is evidence above the mills of distinct contamination of the khal water by animal refuse, and probably as a result of the habits of the people on its banks, but also probably attributable largely to the brick-makers.

II—THE BALLY KHAL WATER BELOW THE OUTLET OF THE MILLS

It is an old complaint that the Bally mills make the khal water undrinkable, and certainly a casual inspection supports this idea, and the fact that the brown discolouration due to the effluent of the Paper Mills reaches at times far down the khal with the ebb tide carrying it down is no doubt a very strong argument. Then, again, there are the Bone Mills which only take up a certain amount of water for their engines and have no effluent, and lastly there are the latrines of the two mills, both latrines on the banks, but neither of them draining into the khal and both well kept and tended by their respective Municipalities. It is true that at one time the Bone Mills built a wall which directed the stream against the Paper Mills banks of the khal, and ended by the Paper Mills latrine being undermined and falling bodily into the khal. But that is now ancient history, and the latrines are in good order and satisfactory. Practically, then, the only sources of contamination worth considering are the effluents from the Bally Mill and possible contamination from the Bally and Uttarpara Municipalities. Now this mill's effluent contains varying quantities of materials derived from the chemicals used in paper manufacture and refuse from the grass used in making the pulp. The main chemicals used are alumina ferric, caustic soda, lime, country ochre, bleaching powder and resin. The result of analysis is practically all one has as a guide, and the appended table of 15 analyses speaks for itself and declares clearly that the water below the mills is undoubtedly considerably more contaminated than that above them. Free ammonia and nitrogen as nitrites and nitrates are the only items in which the water below the mills is poorer, and this is rather to be expected than otherwise. To take the contaminations seriatim—

1 Total solids—These are greater, and are probably partly from solid matters from the mills and partly in a much greater degree from their being probably a larger amount of salt of all kinds in the water the nearer one gets to the mouth of the khal.

2 Chlorine—Here the difference in the general average is probably derived in the main from the two figures, 6.5 and 13.0, and this excess is due to the presence of a larger amount of sea-water from the tides in the Hooghly, because the differences in the other individual observations are not nearly in the same proportion. Of course a proportion of the excess must be due to the chlorine passing in in the mill's effluent, but that, I think, is a very small proportion, and not amounting to 0.81 parts per 100,000, and it is also possible that some of it is due to the mills employees urinating on the banks, and this latter offence, although severely punished in the Paper Mills, is, I fancy, of more frequent occurrence than is supposed.

3 The free ammonia may be disregarded.

4 The albuminoid ammonia is in marked excess below the mills, the difference amounting to 0.0154 parts per 100,000, which is certainly a largely increased contamination. But a portion of this is, if I mistake not, due to the fact that a portion of the municipal drainage from Uttarpara passes into the khal by a large drain which passes in through the Bone Mills premises, while a portion of Bally also drains into the khal just above the foot-bridge.

5 The nitrites and nitrates may be disregarded as being altogether in such small quantity.

III—CONCLUSIONS

To sum up. The water below the mills is certainly more contaminated than above them.

Who is responsible for this? The Paper Mills or the Bone Mills or the Uttarpara and Bally Municipalities?

1 The Paper Mills effluent consists mainly of a thick brown liquid from the boiler-house, and is the refuse from boiling grass (for paper pulp) with caustic soda, and it contains mainly soda, silicates of sorts, and resin, and a certain proportion of grass fragments. Added to this is some refuse from the Paper Mills chemical-house. In this chemical-house the only materials used are bleaching powder, Sutta lime, caustic soda and country ochre\*. The refuse washings from the chemical-house contain certain quantities of these chemicals, but not much, as they are all very valuable in the manufacture of paper, and every effort is made to prevent waste. There is therefore nothing in all this that would give nitrogen for albuminoid ammonia. The total intake of water of the mills is put down by Mr. Munro at 1,750,000 gallons, and Mr. MacHattie, the present manager, gave me to understand that the old mills gives off about 300,000 gallons of effluent, and if the new mill gives off more even, let us allow 750,000 gallons daily for effluent from boiler-houses and chemical-houses, and we get some  $\frac{750,000}{6.25} = 12,070.6$  cubic feet of effluent, which is poured into the khal not at once, but by degrees and mostly at night. A great part goes into the Hooghly at once when let out at night, the rest is carried up and down the khal for all the way the tide can take it, i.e., for about 10,500 feet (two miles) of its extent. This entails an enormous amount of dilution, especially when we consider that the tidal rise in the khal is one of from 5 to 12 feet, and the extent to which this may be regarded as a nuisance is a matter of opinion one way or the other. It does not in itself appear to me to constitute a serious danger to health, and in any case it does not account for the amount of albuminoid ammonia in the water below the mills which appears as the result of analysis.

* The alumina ferric mentioned already is used in the settling tanks to clear the water drawn from the khal before it is used in manufacture.

J. C. V.

2 The Bone Mills have no effluent except the water from their engine-house, but a few boat loads of bones come up the khal, and I have no doubt some bones drop into the water, but not many. I have visited the Bone Mills in all three times now, and I cannot say I think that they are responsible for the increase in albuminoid ammonia below the mills.

3 The Uttarpara Municipality inspection will show that there are at least four drains of considerable magnitude which drain into the khal. One of these drains a large part of the Municipality lying adjacent to the Bone Mills, and several privies are situated very close to it. This drain goes right into the khal, and passes into it through the Bone Mills premises. A second and a third drain parts of the Municipality between the Bone Mills and the foot-bridge, and pour their contents into the lagoons in the brick-fields below the mills and between the foot bridge. These lagoons communicate directly with the khal. A fourth drain comes along the east side of the road leading from the foot-bridge to the municipal office, and empties into two filthy dobas behind the post office. On the banks of these are latrines, and the overflow from these dobas goes directly into the khal just below the foot-bridge by a channel some 25 yards long, and on the bank of the channel is another latrine and a big house-drain also opens straight into it. Further, there are two latrines at least in the brick-fields below the mills, and these are placed absolutely on the water's edge and about 200 yards apart, being respectively some 200 and 400 yards below the mills. Opposite the lower of these two latrines a large drain from the Bally Municipality pours into the khal, and a little way within the Bally Municipality boundary there is a latrine on the bank next the water and just above the foot bridge. So that we have above the foot bridge one large drain from Uttarpara going into the khal through the mills, between the mills and the foot bridge from Uttarpara two latrines on the bank and two large drains from the Municipality from Bally one latrine and one very large drain which, I know, drains a very large part of Bally, and below the foot-bridge a large drain from Uttarpara. These sources of contamination are all fairly close to the place below the mills from which the samples of water were drawn. As there is very little of the khal from below the mills to the river, the in-coming tide must take all this filth well up the khal, and we naturally have it most evident below the mills. It would appear, therefore, that the most serious contamination, which is evidenced by the albuminoid ammonia, is probably from municipal latrines on the banks and municipal drains opening into the khal below the mills.

So much then for the contamination of the water below the mills and the share taken in producing this contamination by the two mills and the two municipalities.

Now from what point of view are we to look at the contamination of the khal water, and how is it to be remedied? Undoubtedly the most dangerous contamination is from the excreta, &c., from the drains and latrines and from open-air visits. Albuminoid ammonia in such very large amount as 0.504 in water, which is only some 400 yards from the river and gets the full benefit of tidal scourings, shows how very great the contamination from these sources is, and besides this contamination, the boiler-house liquid from the mills would appear to be no more harmful than so much coffee or chocolate infusion. This boiler-house liquid is very valuable, and the mills are now putting up a considerable amount of plant by which the whole of the boiler-house liquid will be utilized in the mill. As it is, there are two large cinerators at work, evaporating it down, and the resulting sludge is burned down to recover the soda as ash, and in this way a very large saving in expense is effected. There are times, no doubt, when this brown liquid from the mills going down the khal is felt to be a nuisance, but the samples I have taken and which others have taken were drawn when it was flowing into the khal.

I do not understand that I am called upon in this report to state more than the facts and the deduction to be drawn from them. I have myself been so struck with the chlorine results in the khal above and below the mills as detailed in the first part of this report that I was led to enquire into the condition of the Hooghly water itself, and that on the ground that the khal is twice a day scoured out, filled and emptied by the Hooghly water.

For my figures I am indebted to the kindness of Mr. W. R. Coper, of Messrs. D. Wadde and Company, who very generously placed all his observations at my disposal. A careful study of chlorine variations in the Hooghly will, I fear, tend very much to shake one's faith in any conclusion declaring the mills really responsible for the chlorine variations in the khal water. For the rest, the khal water is already contaminated a long way above the mills (especially as shown in the observation at the bund near the Patihagan marked non-tidal in the table, and No. 5 of 27th January 1897 in the Chemical Examiner's analyses attached), and contaminated perhaps to a dangerous extent. Whatever danger to health may arise from the use of the khal water by the inhabitants of Bally exist already above the mills in the upper reaches of the khal, and the undoubted fact that these dangers are largely increased in the khal water below the mills is, in my opinion, due not to the mills themselves in any appreciable degree, but to the existing arrangement of latrines and drainage, not only in the Bally Municipality itself, but also in the neighbouring Municipality of Uttarpara across the water.

N B — H T — High tide and L T — Low tide

No 4267, dated Calcutta, the August 1898

From—SURGEON-MAJOR H J DYSON, F R C S, Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal,
 To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department

IN compliance with the request contained in Government order No 4893S., dated the 10th instant, received yesterday, I proceeded at once to Tittaghur to enquire into the alleged pollution of the river Hooghly by the jute mill which has recently been established there. The mill in question is apparently the Standard Jute Company's mill, of which Messrs Bird and Company, of Calcutta, are the Agents. There is at present no discharge of "waste" from the mill into the river. Last year refuse was discharged into the Hooghly, but as soon as the practice was complained of, it was, I am informed, stopped. The waste is now mixed with cinders and used for filling up spoil pits along the railway, which connects the mill with the Tittaghur railway station. This is not a nuisance to any body. There is also a bamboo and mat palisade along a portion of the foreshore of the mill which has been cut away by the river. Into this space some portion of the refuse from the mill is also thrown, but it does not and cannot pass into the river. I noticed no discolouration of the water in the vicinity. Two pucca drains connect the mill with the river. These are used for the carrying away of storm-water only from the mill premises and hot water from the mill engines. This instead of being a nuisance is an advantage, for it acts as a sterilizer. I am of opinion, after careful personal investigation, that no unwholesome waste from the Standard Jute Mill now passes into the river Hooghly.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE SALT DEPARTMENT FOR
THE YEAR 1897-98

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—SEPARATE REVENUE

Darjeeling, the 21st September 1898

RESOLUTION—No 277T F

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the Administration of the Salt Department for the year 1897-98

IN Bengal the administration of the Salt Department has a widely different significance from that which attaches to the same term in the other great maritime provinces of Madras and Bombay. This is due to the fact that in the two latter provinces there is little or no import of foreign salt from over sea, the whole salt-supply of the people being provided by local manufacture, either by Government agency, or under an excise system of licenses. Thus in Madras the quantity of salt imported by sea during 1897-98 was only a little more than  $12\frac{1}{2}$  lakhs of maunds (of which almost all came from Bombay), whereas the quantity manufactured locally exceeded 64 lakhs of maunds, of which about three fourths were produced under the excise system, and about one-fourth was manufactured by Government. Similarly, in Bombay during the same year, only a little over 8,000 maunds of foreign salt were imported by sea, while the quantity manufactured locally exceeded  $103\frac{1}{2}$  lakhs of maunds. In Bengal the facts were very different. The imports by sea exceeded 122 lakhs of maunds, while the quantity manufactured locally under Government supervision was relatively insignificant, being only 1,62,351 maunds in all. In Madras and Bombay, foreign salt, whether regarded as an item of the public food-supply or as a source of revenue, is almost a negligible quantity, and the local product is all-important. In Bengal these proportions are completely reversed.

2 This material difference in local conditions accounts for the small scale on which the Salt Department has for many years been maintained in Bengal. For that Department is concerned only with locally manufactured salt. Salt imported by sea is treated as falling within the province of the Customs Department, in respect both of the collection of revenue and of the arrangements for bonding, while its distribution after it has passed beyond certain very narrow limits is left to the operations of private trade, subject to little or no Government control. In order to make their report complete, the Board have, as usual, given information regarding the imports of foreign salt, the sources of its supply, the revenue derived from it and the arrangements for bonding, but these are really outside the province of the Salt Department proper, whose operations are confined to Orissa and a narrow fringe of country bordering the Bay of Bengal.

3. The chief administrative change during the year was the retransfer, with effect from the 1st October 1897, of the administration of the Orissa Salt Department from Madras to Bengal. The charge of the Department has been entrusted to the Commissioner of Excise, Bengal, who has been vested with necessary powers under the Indian Salt Act of 1882, which is in force in that Division. A scheme was also submitted to the Government of India for remodelling the administrative and preventive staff for the suppression of the illicit manufacture of salt in Orissa, and for creating a similar staff for the Sundarbans and other saliferous tracts in the coast districts of Bengal. The sanction of the Supreme Government has not yet been received to the scheme, but in the meantime arrangements were made, with the help of such establishment as could be spared from Orissa, to effect a salino survey of the villages in the saliferous tracts of the 24 Parganas, where illicit manufacture on an extensive scale has always been rife. Another tentative step, pending the passing of the new Salt Bill now before the Bengal Council, was the extension of the Northern India Salt Act, XII of 1882, and the rules framed under it for Orissa, to the saliferous districts of Bengal, the object of the measure being to confer on Salt officers the powers of arrest, search, and seizure which under the Bengal Act, VII of 1864, can only be exercised by the Police. During the year Government decided to stop the manufacture of salt at its factories at 'Tua and Gurubai, on the Chilka Lake, a step rendered necessary by the fact that large stocks had accumulated in consequence of the opening of the East Coast Railway, which facilitated the import of Gangan salt and enabled it to undersell Chilka Lake salt in spite of successive reductions in price. The establishment of private bonded salt warehouses at places other than customs ports is steadily gaining favour, and the Board remark that native bonders are following the lead of Messrs Turner, Morrison and Company, who are extending their operations in various districts. Three new golas, built by the Port Commissioners at the Kidderpore Docks to hold 9 lakhs of mounds of salt, were appointed public warehouses for the storage of bonded salt and were formally opened on the 1st December 1897 in time to relieve the Sulkea golas of much of the strain caused by the large increase in bonding during the last quarter of the year. The situation of these golas gives steamers an advantage over the golas at Sulkea, for when discharging full cargoes of salt into bond, they can be moored alongside the golas, and can discharge salt on to the pontoons, whence it can at once be carried by coolies into the golas.

The following statement shows the receipts and charges of the Salt Department including those connected with imported salt during each of the last six years —

Note.—The figures for 1897-98 are subject to revision, as the Assistant General's final figures are not yet available. The inclusion of the same items under both Imperial and Provincial is due to the fact that under the new treaty contract the receipts and charges of the Salt Department are treated as wholly Imperial.

After rising steadily for three years, the receipts last year showed a decrease amounting to Rs 4,94,637 or 19 per cent, as compared with those of 1896-97. The decrease in import duty is attributed by the Board to smaller clearances owing to the famine. The revenue from excise salt also shows a marked falling-off owing to reduced sales of salt at the Government factories in Orissa, the opening of the East Coast Railway having facilitated the import of Ganjam salt on a larger scale and at smaller cost into that province. There was also a considerable decrease in the proceeds from rent of ware-houses owing to many of the golas having remained unoccupied during the greater part of the year. In the last quarter of the year, however, the importations were heavy, and as the low prices stimulated bonding and checked deliveries, the golas were filled. The decrease in expenditure is mainly due to economy effected in the administration of the Orissa Salt Department on the retransfer of that Department from Madras to Bengal. Three new cutters at an aggregate cost of Rs 4,300, were constructed during the year under review for preventive and search work in the Sunderbans, where no effective work can be done except by water.

5 The following statement shows the fluctuations in the volume of the salt trade in Bengal during the last ten years, excluding salt imported by land from Ganjam and the Upper Provinces, on which duty is not paid in Bengal —

The stock of salt in the golas, which at the commencement of the year had stood at 14½ lakhs of maunds, rose at the close of the year to nearly 34½ lakhs of maunds. Besides this quantity, there were 2,31,956 maunds against 2,05,829 maunds, lying afloat in the port of Calcutta, ready to be sold direct to purchasers.

6 The combined imports into Calcutta and Chittagong show a net increase of 40,01,554 maunds or 48.6 per cent. over those of the previous year, the increase having occurred in both the ports. In Calcutta the increase was contributed to by all the exporting ports, except Ras Rawayah and Linga, the increase from the United Kingdom being the largest and amounting to about 47 per cent. On this point the Collector of Customs observes —

“The increased importation of Liverpool salt was due to the action of the Salt Union in sending out a larger quantity of salt to compete with the crushed salt from Aden and the Red Sea and they succeeded in doing so as the high rate of exchange was in their favour and they were able to obtain plentiful and cheap freights from England. The result of this increased importation was to send down the prices of salt, and to check the sale of crushed salt in favour of Liverpool and Hamburg salt.”

The marked increase in the imports into Chittagong from 55,206 maunds in 1896-97 to 6,57,325 maunds during the year under review is ascribed by the Collector to “smaller importation in the previous year, and to a cargo of 52,458 maunds of Hamburg salt received during the year.” Hamburg salt had not been imported into this port for five years. Shipments of salt were received from the following countries —

The Board say that group III in this table comprises “Egyptian and other non-European ports beyond the Suez canal,” while group IV is intended for “Eastern ports other than Indian, including the Egyptian ports this side of the Suez Canal.” It is not understood how Mozambique and Madagascar come into group III, and the Board will be requested to clear up the matter.

From a statement furnished in the report showing the clearances of Liverpool, Hamburg, and crushed salts during the past five years, it appears that there was an increase in the clearances of Liverpool and Hamburg salts with a corresponding decrease in the consumption of crushed salts from Aden and the Red Sea. The Collector of Customs is, however, of opinion that the trade in crushed salts is only temporarily checked, and that it will probably revive when the prices of Liverpool and Hamburg salt, which are at present low owing to the action of the Salt Union already referred to, take an upward course.

7. Excluding 13,810 maunds of Madras salt cleared free of duty in Calcutta, duty was paid on 52,02,818 maunds cleared from shipboard against 43,11,475 maunds in the previous year, while the clearances from bond fell from 55,49,433 to 45,15,621 maunds. On the whole, the total clearances of all kinds, including those of Bombay and Madras salt (6,00,832 maunds) and of excise salt (17,047 maunds) fell from 1,04,77,213 maunds to 1,03,36,318 maunds during the year under review. These figures do not include 2,000 maunds which were imported for the manufacture of glazed stoneware, and were passed free of duty, having been rendered unfit for human consumption by the admixture of tar.

8 Deducting from the above clearances, the excess of exports from Bengal by land and river over the imports by the same routes, amounting to 6,30,180 maunds, and adding 33,697 maunds of saltpetre brought into use, the balance of salt left for consumption in the Province rose from 97,33,739 maunds in 1896-97 to 97,39,835 maunds in 1897-98. The rate of consumption per head was the same as in the previous year, viz., 5 seers. In those saliferous districts of Bengal (excluding Orissa) which are within Salt Law limits, there was a net decrease of 22,428 maunds in the consumption of licit salt, and the average consumption per head fell from 4 seers 14 chitaks to 4 seers 12 chitaks. The lowest rates again prevailed in the 24 Parganas (4 seers) followed by Chittagong (4 seers 11 chitaks) and Khulna (4 seers 12 chitaks). The decrease which occurred in all the saliferous districts, except Midnapore, Backergunge and Noakhali, is attributed to the scarcity which prevailed during a great part of the year. In Orissa the consumption per head rose from 4 seers 13 chitaks to 4 seers and 14 chitaks.

9 The price of salt was generally lower than in the previous year, the decrease being due to more abundant supplies. The average wholesale price (exclusive of duty) of 100 maunds of Liverpool salt, purchased from the ship's side in the port of Calcutta, fell from Rs. 96 0-9 to Rs. 80 1-3, while the selling price, exclusive of duty, which in 1896-97 had varied from Rs. 124-3 to Rs. 71 15-8, ranged during the past year between Rs. 97-12 and Rs. 63 1-1. This reduction is probably due in some degree to competition with Aden and Red Sea salt. The average wholesale price, inclusive of duty, at the twelve chief marts of Bengal, fell from Rs. 3 13-9 to Rs. 3 12-8 per maund. The corresponding average, based on the wholesale prices of all the districts in Bengal, also fell from Rs. 3 15-6 to Rs. 3 14-11 per maund.

10 The total imports from Madras and the Upper Provinces of duty-paid salt rose from 5,15,969 to 6,09,213 maunds during the year, the increase being due partly to larger importations from Ganjam, and partly to the substantial increase in the supply drawn by Bihar from the Upper Provinces. The exports from Bengal to Assam and Northern India fell from 10,64,101 to 9,37,584 maunds. On the other hand, there was an increase of 66,129 maunds in the exports to Nepal, Sikkim, Tibet and Bhutan, and of 1707 maunds in the exports to the Central Provinces, Madras, Rajputana, and Central India. The net result was an excess of exports over imports of 6,30,180 maunds against an excess of 7,82,105 maunds in 1896-97.

11 The number of cases in which contraband salt was attached, including cases that occurred in the Orissa districts, fell from 1,082 to 1,012 during the past year, but the quantity of salt confiscated rose from 702 maunds to 747 maunds. On an average 4½ seers of salt were attached and 28½ confiscated in each case as against 28¾ seers and 26½ seers respectively in the previous year. In one case 150 maunds of salt were attached, as it was found that the manji was travelling by a route different from that specified in his rowana. As, however, it was ascertained that the route described was wrong, the salt was released. In Orissa the number of cases in which salt was confiscated fell from 725 to 569, and the quantity confiscated from 587 to 538 maunds. The total number of cases instituted in the Courts throughout Bengal was 904 against 905 in the preceding year. The large decrease of 123 cases in Orissa is attributed by the Board to the fact that after the rain that fell in July and August, people became immediately engaged in agricultural operations, while the promising prospects of crops at the end of October removed all incentive to crime, and it is noteworthy that of the cases that did occur in Orissa during the year under review, almost 90 per cent. were detected in the first quarter before the famine came to an end. The cases sent up for trial with evidence of illicit manufacture in the Orissa districts numbered 366 against 486 cases in the preceding year. Altogether there were 1,051 seizures and 57 unsuccessful searches in the salt bearing tracts in Bengal during the year against 1,097 and 86 respectively in the previous year. Of 1,017 persons apprehended, 971 were convicted. Rewards were disbursed to the amount of Rs. 3,446. It is to pursue satisfactory to note that the number of unsuccessful searches fell from 86 to 57, the seizures in 1896-97 and 1897-98 being respectively 1,097 and 1,051.

12. As usual, a separate portion of the Board's Report deals with the administration of the Salt Department in Orissa, which, as noticed above, has been retransferred to the Government of Bengal. The receipts of the Orissa Salt Department fell from Rs 1,25,213 to Rs 46,160, and the expenditure from Rs 1,45,263 to Rs 1,15,482. The decrease in receipts is attributed by the Board to the fall in the sale of locally-manufactured salt, owing chiefly to the greater facilities offered by the East Coast Railway for the cheap introduction of Madras salt into the district of Puri, which formerly depended for its supply on the local factories. The Board, however, point out that if the duty realised on the imported salt consumed in Orissa be added to the receipts from the locally manufactured salt, the total revenue would amount to Rs 18,58,737, and the proportion of charges to aggregate revenue would be 6.21 per cent.

13. General—The results of the saline survey undertaken by the staff deputed from Orissa to the 24 Parganas tend to confirm the belief that illicit manufacture is very prevalent in parts of that district. Mr MacMillan writes from enquiry and personal observation—

"I should say that illicit manufacture was indulged in by all classes. We have come across extensive and large scrapings, and I myself personally saw near Champahati a large gang, consisting of about 60 men, women, and children, removing salt-earth in baskets, bags, and carts."

One camp found five large filters which were destroyed, and Mr Platts writes that during the short period of six weeks that the Salt officers were at work, their activity "led to the discovery of other evidence of cumulative value tending to prove the unrestricted prevalence of illicit transactions."

After the close of the year officers of the Salt Department were empowered to make searches and effect arrests. In one of their first raids the villagers turned out en masse and assaulted the search party, consisting of 3 Assistant Inspectors, 5 Sub-Inspectors, a Police Sub-Inspector, 2 Constables, and 23 peons, several of whom were severely wounded. The case is still under trial.

14. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are again due to the Board for their administration of the Department.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

E N BAKER,

Offg Secy to the Govt. of Bengal
